HIGH EFFICIENCY OF SLAB WOOD.

Interesting Demonstration of its Value as a Fuel.
 At the coconut oil refinery of the Oriental-American Company, at Twentieth and Roosevelt streets, a furnace of the Dutch oven type has been constructed which was designed and patented by C. H. Jones, of this city. The fuel used is slab wood, which is fed in at the side. Through the peculiar construction of this furnace all the volatile matter in the wood is utilized, which in an ordinary type of furnace would be practically allowed to escape through the stacks; the destruction is also much slower. The heat is transmitted under the boilers in the shape of gas. The net result being an efficiency which is hardly credible. Carefully kept data of successive tests has demonstrated that 7,900 pounds of water have been evaporated with less than three-quarters of a cord of wood, showing conclusively that slab wood for fuel at $2.75 per ton for generating steam. There is also an utter absence of smoke and ashes, as a result of perfect combustion.—Portland Timberman.

Thanksgiving Service.
 Thanksgiving Service will be held in the Presbyterian Church in the evening of Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 30th, at 7:30 o'clock. All are cordially invited to unite in this public service of thanksgiving in accordance with the proclamation of President Roosevelt.

Survey in Humboldt.
 The Orick correspondent of the Arcata Union says that the coast railroad survey crew has been at Orick for some days, and will be here until about the first of the year. There are 23 men in the party, and they are working about a mile north of the Harris ranch. The next move will be to the Bailey place 18 miles from Orick.

K. P. Ball.
 The Eleventh Annual Ball given by Delphi Lodge, No. 64, Knights of Pythias, at Munk's Hall last Saturday evening, was a grand success as is always the case when this popular organization undertakes to entertain the public. One hundred and five tickets were sold. A midnight supper was served at the Tupper House and the spread was thoroughly appreciated by all. The Whetstone's Orchestra of North Bend furnished the music.

Sawmill Changes Hands.
 J. O. Langworthy and son have purchased a two-thirds interest in the Osborn & Elliott sawmill located 2 1/2 miles northeast of Randolph. Mr. Osborn retains one third interest, and Mr. Elliott retires and will devote his attention to his ranch. The mill is located in a fine body of white cedar timber, and the new firm have contracts for a large amount of lumber. Mr. Langworthy will move his family from Coquille to the mill in order to be convenient to his work. He is well known to the people of this section, who are glad to number him among our business men.

New Settlers.
 R. W. Ensign, wife, and daughter Miss Grace Ensign, from Ohio, arrived on the Alliance, Sunday, to make Coos County their home. Mr. Ensign stated it was his intention to settle at Myrtle Point, but was so favorably impressed with Marshfield that he may decide to make his home here. Mammoth ripe strawberries on the market here at this time of the season fairly amazed him; and when a Marshfieldite stated to him that they were gathered in his garden patch, he saw the uselessness of going farther than Marshfield, so may decide to make his home here.—Marshfield Advertiser.
 Mr. Ensign's intentions were good while he was in your town. Brother Kramer, but unfortunately for you, he heard of Bandon and came over here to investigate. The natural result followed—he located in the city by the sea. When a homeseeker once finds the Coquille valley, we get him.

HORRIBLE ATROCITIES COMMITTED UPON RUSSIAN JEWS.

Women and Children Tortured and Stain-Tongues Torn Out and Spikes Driven Into Heads of Girls.

New York, Nov. 18.—Dispatches from Russia during the recent Jewish massacres, gave only a faint idea of the atrocities committed against this race in the land of the czar. Some of the survivors have written letters to friends in America describing the horrors they underwent. These letters, coming as they do from those who witnessed the slaughter of mothers, wives, fathers, brothers and sisters, tell with grim frankness of the fearful scenes witnessed during the persecution of the Jews by the infuriated Russian mobs. Extracts from some of the letters follow. Morris Levinson of Philadelphia received this from his sister at Odessa:
 "At the same time our father was attacked in the street, a mob ran into our house and struck mother on the head with such a blow that she fell senseless. That was not enough for those brutal men. They tortured her in the most horrible manner.
 "I was knocked senseless, but they left me there alone, thinking, I suppose, that I was dead. Send us some money for medicines and food. If you have not any, beg of your fellow Jews. Thank God that you live in a free land, and help us, who are destined to live like beasts."
 The butchery in Grodno is described in this letter to Aaron Lippman, after the same came from his brother:
 "They burst open their doors and threw the women and children from the windows into the streets. One, with her child less than a week old, was thrown to the street. Both were found dead a couple of hours later. Abraham Chalmers and Louis Happon were killed while they were trying to protect their daughters, 16 and 18 years old. They were tied in their coats to posts and forced to witness attacks upon their daughters, after which the men were killed by having their heads chopped off."
 Aaron Rothenstein, a cousin of Abraham and Pauline Chalmers of No. 342 South street, wrote to them of this crime. The other woman was their aunt. His letter ran:
 "Dear Cousins: I weep like a child as I write this letter, for a terrible calamity has befallen our family. Mother was lying in a terrible condition when the mob entered our house, and after destroying all our possessions, seized her and put her under most horrible tortures. She was alone in our home and no one was on hand to defend her. She gathered her failing strength and rushed into the street crying for help. The mob stoned her and she was instantly killed."
 The wife of the Rev. Jacob Chalfin writes from Kovno:
 "Two thousand dead and more than 5,000 injured are the total due to Russian massacres in our city. Kovno is no longer a city; it is burned. There is no money in circulation, and in fear of another attack the people are quaking. Write, dear husband, if your friends in America cannot do something for us, for not until a hundred times what has already been given arrives here can the misery be alleviated."
 Herman Sachs, of Kier, has written to Samuel London, one of the organizers of a downtown central relief committee:
 "A Jewess named Sarah Goldman was taken to our hospital with two spikes seven inches long driven into her brain. A Jew named Kaufman was found in the street with his under lip cut off with a knife, after his tongue and windpipe had been pulled out with pincers. A man named Selzers was battered until he was a raving maniac, and on a street corner a woman about to become a mother was tormented until she died. A carpenter was surprised at his work and both his hands sawed off with his own saw."
 One of the saddest stories of the massacre is told in a 10 word cablegram sent to Max Blowsky, of Philadelphia. He had 29 relatives in Odessa, wife, four children, his father and mother, a married sister with five little children, two unmarried sisters and two unmarried brothers, a sister-in-law with four children, her mother, an aunt and her six children. He asked for information concerning them and received this reply:
 "Entire family of Butowsky is no more of this earth."

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

MEASURES PRESIDENT WILL RECOMMEND TO CONGRESS.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The proofs of the message that President Roosevelt will send to Congress on the first Monday in December, are now in his hands for final revision. It is said by those members of his cabinet who have heard portions of it read that it will be the longest and most remarkable document that has been written by President Roosevelt. Among other topics that have been treated in a striking manner are the following:
 Correction of the rebate evil and the regulation of railroad rates.
 Telling what has been done toward building the Panama canal and advocating legislation that will expedite the work.
 Urging the reorganization of the diplomatic and consular service.
 Advocating moderation in Chinese exclusion laws.
 Suggesting methods for cementing up the cracks in the immigration laws.

C. A. Sehlbrade, of Marshfield, is registered at the Perkins. Mr. Sehlbrade is a barrister of no little prominence over the state. He was formerly a resident of Portland and Roseburg, but cast his lot in the future of the Coos Bay country about two years ago. He is very optimistic regarding the prospects of that section of the state, and he looks upon the projected extension of the Southern Pacific railroad from Drain to Marshfield as its salvation.
 "This line is well under way, that is, the grading," said Mr. Sehlbrade, "and we are hoping against hope it will be complete and in running order by next year. The wealth of the Southwestern portion of the state is inestimable. The natural resources particularly lumber, coal, and darrying, are so valuable that once an outlet is provided to the state and world's markets, we will forge ahead steadily, and that portion of the state will develop rapidly, and contribute its share to the growth of the commonwealth."

Harriman Dinking Equitable.

Salt Lake, Nov. 17.—Oregon Short Line employees are being questioned by officials as to whether or not they carry insurance, and in what company. The order to inquire is said to be general on the Harriman system. It is believed to be an effort of the Harriman interests to secure proxies to offset the Thomas Lawson effort in that direction.

Steel Range Free.

The Recorder is going to make one of its lady readers a present of a handsome $45.00 steel range. An order was given A. McNair, the hardware man, last week, for the range, which will arrive on the next steamer, and be placed on exhibition in his store. The range is the "Mohawk" made by Bridge & Bench. It is the square design with high closet, and burns either wood or coal. Has six 8-inch holes and oven 16x20x12. A range that any lady would be proud to possess.

RULES.

Any body may enter the steel range contest at any time. They also have the privilege of withdrawing at any time but those withdrawing cannot have their votes counted for another.
 A coupon is printed in each Recorder. It is good for one vote if used within time limit printed on same. Votes are allowed with subscription as follows: one year, $1.50, 150 votes; six months, 75 cents, 75 votes; three months, 50 cents, 50 votes. Subscriptions must be paid in advance.
 The contest will close at 6 o'clock, p.m., Wednesday, January 31, 1906, and the lady having the greatest number of votes will be presented with the handsome steel range.

Below we give the names of all who have received votes in the contest and the total number of votes received up to last evening.

- The standing of the contestants will be published each week except the last, and at the close three distinguished parties will be chosen to count the votes.
 Below we give the names of all who have received votes in the contest and the total number of votes received up to last evening. The standing of the contestants will be published each week hereafter. A special prize is offered the lady receiving the most votes during the next week. New candidates can enter the race at any time; no one is barred.
- Mrs. W. F. Harris, Bandon..... 313
  - Mrs. J. L. Davidson, Bandon..... 252
  - Mrs. E. L. M. Blumenrother..... 151

  - Mrs. C. Malhorn, Langlois..... 3
  - Miss Pearl Walker, Bandon..... 3
  - Mrs. E. J. Hite, Bandon..... 2
  - Mrs. J. M. Byers, Bandon..... 1

Special Prize for Next Week.

The lady receiving the greatest number of votes during the coming week up until 6:00 o'clock Wednesday evening, will receive as a special prize, an order on O. A. Trowbridge for any pair of Ladies' Shoes in his store. Note that this is for the greatest number of votes received for the week only, regardless of whether the winning lady's position in the steel range contest is at the top or bottom of the list. The votes will all count in the steel range contest.

A Railroad to Coos Bay.

The promise of the Harriman system to construct a railroad from Drain to Marshfield, is taken very seriously by the press of the state. It has been given a long editorial in the Oregonian, as a proposition that means so much to the development of the whole of Oregon.

The fact is the opening of another deep sea harbor on the west coast of Oregon sends a cold chill down the backs of pessimistic economists.

The construction of a railroad from Drain to Coos Bay via Scottsburg and Gardiner has a great many obstacles to overcome and it will take money.

So far as it is genuine and a real effort to meet the demands of the people for development, it is to be accepted in good faith at present.

If the people of Oregon want railroad development they have to get down to the problem just as good level-headed business men do any where.

The people of Oregon should back up the work of the development conventions, and they should not be diverted from their purpose to develop.

If it is a fact that the Harriman lines in Oregon have taken out seventeen million dollars in ten years, net profits, it means something.

Would it be an unfair proposition to have Mr. Harriman expend one-half of his net earnings in Oregon annually in new lines?

The writer does not know what would be right in this matter, but Oregon should not always be producing money to build railroads in other states.

Let all these matters be considered fairly and equitably, and let both the people of Oregon and the corporations deal justly with each other.—Sales Journal.
