Another crab cannery is to be started at Empire, making three in all, and Marshfield also is to have a crab cannery. Crabs will soon be as scarce in Coos bay as they are at other points along the coast. The next meeting of the Farmers' convention will be held at North Bend, Saturday, the 17th. The secretary writes the RECORDER: "We are especially desirous of an attendance by the farmers from the Coquille side of the county, for we want to make this a county organization."

The residents of this place were treated to a snow-storm Monday night, when about two inches of the beautiful fell and remained on the ground most of the day Tuesday. Snow-balling was in order; business of all kinds was suspended; the mills and factories and the government works were closed down, and everybody took a holiday to get out and play with the kids. It was a great day in Bandon and one that occurs only at rare intervals, this being the first snow sufficient for snow-balling in seven years.

Two sailors from the schr Antelope furnished free amusement for the multitude Sunday afternoon. A good breeze was blowing; the sailor lads decided that a sail on the Coquille would be just the thing for an afternoon's sport and a cat boat was rigged and launched. At times they would proceed swimmingly, but occasionally a dead calm would prevail—and then something happened. An argument was started. It is not known whether it was caused by oil of joy refusing to harmoniously mix with the fresh salt air, or simply a point on navigation; but mere words would not satisfactorily settle the dispute, and a general mix up took place, and he it known, there was no chance to run in this case. In the meantime the belligerents failed to notice that the boat was drifting toward the setting sun and the breakers, and when this fact was discovered the dispute came to an end. They headed the boat for port and set sail, but the current was too strong for the small craft and they were slowly but surely going to sea, stern first, when discovered by the life saving crew who promptly went to their rescue. When landed the sailor lads forgot their past troubles and peace and harmony prevailed.

Gets Big Contract. A. Garfield, proprietor of the Bandon Foundry, has just closed a good contract for making the iron and brass castings for the big steamer that is being built at Henckendorff's ship yard. The Bandon Foundry is rapidly coming to the front, and with the improvements being made will soon be as well equipped for making all kinds of castings as any foundry between Portland and San Francisco. The moulding room is being enlarged this week, and a new moulder, late with the Columbia Engineering Works in Portland, has just arrived to take a position with this foundry. Besides the above contract, Mr. Garfield has just received another order for 2000 castings. The RECORDER is glad to note the success of this enterprise.

Woolen Mill in Operation. The Bandon Woolen Mill is a busy place this week, a force of hands being engaged in getting everything ready for starting up Monday morning. Sept. Smith and several of the employees of this mill returned from North Bend last week where they went to get the stock, wool, yarns, dyes and chemicals of the North Bend Mill which was purchased for use in this plant. Another supply of stock will arrive on the Elizabeth, and it is expected that by Monday morning everything will be in shape to start the wheels of the new plant. Bandon has one of the best mills on the coast now and it has advantages for lessening operating expenses, that are not enjoyed at other places. It is equipped with up-to-date machinery and can turn out a first-class product. Orders have commenced to come in and the whistle of the mill and the rattle of the machinery will make the kind of music that Bandonians like to hear.

Resolutions. The following resolutions were adopted at the last meeting of the Woman's Relief Corp, No 40: Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has removed by death Mrs. Mary Kennedy of Springfield, Missouri, a loyal faithful member of the Relief Corps, and for a time a resident of Bandon, Resolved, that this Corp extend their condolence and sympathy to her family, and Resolved, that as a token of respect to the memory of our sister, these resolutions be put into the minutes of this meeting, and a copy be published in the public press.

About Real Estate Values. Assessor T. J. Thrift and his deputy J. T. Lawrence were in our city the past week assessing our property. Mr. Thrift is a man worthy of the office which he is now ably filling. His past work is an open page of equality to property owners over the county, he having played both to the galleries and to the orchestra circle. He does not believe in assessing the one-gallus man and allowing the man of means to escape. We therefore feel interested in retaining such a man as assessor of this county. To show the people of this county how he has improved conditions during his term of office we might say that the taxable property of this county has been raised in value from some $2,000,000 in 1904 to $10,000,000 in 1905. The Southern Oregon company's taxable property which was assessed at $190,000 in 1904 has been raised under his direction to $487,000 in 1905. The Oregon, California Railroad Co. has been raised from an approximate assessed value of $250,000 in 1904, to $800,000 in 1905. Other properties have been raised proportionately.

Much has been said of high priced real estate on the bay, and we agree that the prices are away ahead of the cities, but not ahead of the country that backs the cities up. There is nothing in the cities to justify the prices demanded. We believe in good prices—fair prices—when lands can command a good price there is evidence of faith in the country. Coos county can well ask more for property than other counties of similar population, but when a 5,000 population town asks a 100,000 population price for its real estate, it at once bars such cities from rapid development.

If property values are reasonable as they exist on the bay and which we much doubt, then the people who hold such opinions should be willing to pay taxes accordingly.—Marshfield Advertiser.

Marshfield Chamber of Commerce Rejects Coast Railroad Proposition.

At a meeting of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce, last week, the committee on the coast railroad proposition made the following report: "We, the committee, to whom was referred the proposition of Baker & Crabtree, pertaining to right-of-way through the Coos Bay country, respectfully report that owing to the uncertain quantity as to the time that property might be tied up for right-of-way, and other purposes, and the uncertainty of the probable cost of securing the right-of-way desired, recommend that the proposition be rejected; and we further recommend that the Coos Bay Chamber of Commerce join with the inhabitants of other towns on the bay and tributary to the same, with a view of securing a subsidy of $50,000 towards securing the rights-of-way and terminal facilities asked for, in lieu of furnishing the rights of way and terminal grounds asked for by the representatives of Messrs. Baker & Crabtree.

Hickory Farm.

The play given by local talent at the Opera House last Saturday evening for the benefit of the band was a success financially, the house being crowded and the receipts more than $80. The hits of the evening were made by the two comedy characters, Miss Maud Garfield in the susceptible widow, and Bert Patterson as the Irish alderman. Mrs. Chas Daily handled the leading part of Jessie Fortnes in capital style, and Henry Averill as Ezekiel Fortnes, Chas. Daily as Gilbert Darkwood, Mr. Foss as Jack Nelson, and Frank Blackerly as Uriah Skinner, were all good and their efforts were fully up to the requirements of the piece. Ernest Erickson as the detective, and Lawrence Stitt and Roy Gibson as the constables, were also there with the goods. Between the acts Mr. Erickson did a turn in balancing, and Mrs. Harris favored the audience with a solo. The band furnished excellent music during the evening which alone was worth the price of admission. There is talk of putting on another play soon and it is hoped it will be done as a good house is assured and the proceeds go for a worthy cause.

J. A. Langhead, of Portland, formerly of this place, but now employed as one of the engineers in the light house service, is here to superintend some improvements being made at the station here. New furnaces are being installed at the Keeper's residence and a boat house is to be constructed.

Voters Attention.

The primary law of our state is not as well understood by many as it should be. It is no trick of the politicians. It is one of the best safeguards against his tricks the people have today. It only needs to be understood and used by the people to prove its merits. The fact that the politician and some of the papers noted for graft are opposed to the law should warrant a thorough trial of it by the people. If the law proves a failure in this election it will be because the people do not understand or appreciate it and give it a fair trial.

Politics are corrupt and controlled by corrupt men mainly because good men took no interest in the primaries or conventions in the past. The primary law was framed to give all men an equal chance to nominate the candidates of their party. And if all republicans and democrats would register their politics and attend the primary, good men, with few exceptions, would be nominated on those tickets for the various offices.

Many good men are registering as independents who ought by all means to register as republicans or democrats. By so doing you can participate in naming the ticket of your party and may vote independent in the election if the ticket named does not suit you. Our Australian ballot system guarantees every one independence in voting. Our primary law gives all a chance to take part in naming the candidates of our party if our party polled 25 per cent of the votes cast at the last election. Both are safe laws for the people and should be upheld by them.

Let good men announce themselves for office and let all men of the two old parties attend the primary, and let us prove the merits of this law in this election. It may be an injustice to new parties but that can be remedied later. W. W. Rosebraugh.
