THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1906.

This issue of the RECORDER is printed with the hope that the pen and picture stories may be the means of acquainting homeseekers and investors with the wonderful opportunities offered in Coos county and especially the great Coquille valley. It is not expected that you will get all the information you want regarding this country in this number, but if we awaken an interest that will lead to further investigation and a visit to our favored land, our mission is accomplished. It's a poor proposition that will not stand a thorough investigation and the people of Coos county invite comparison of our resources and opportunities with any other section of God's foot stool. But you must act at once; great changes are taking place and the opportunity that awaits you now may soon be gone. Our greatest need just now is men with capital to open up and develop our great natural resources. The field for profitable investments is almost unlimited. All we want is for progressive men, who have the means, to come and investigate.

The increase in the postoffice business of a town is almost a sure sign that the town is making advancement. The business of the Bandon postoffice for the year 1905 shows an increase of 24 per cent over the preceding year, by far exceeding the showing of any other Coos county town. It will be a still greater source of satisfaction to the people of Bandon to know that the business of the first quarter for the year 1906 shows an increase of 30 per cent over the first quarter of 1905.

The largest sawmill on the Coquille river will be built in Bandon this fall. This means increased population and business. The investment means an outlay of something like fifty thousand dollars. Prospects are bright, also, for securing a pulp and paper mill to cost more than two hundred thousand. It looks like a very conservative statement to say that Bandon will lead all Coos county towns in manufacturing industries.

Bandon is not only destined to be a manufacturing city. These enterprises will bring other business, and its mercantile interests, which are already substantial, will continue to grow until they reach immense proportions. As a residence city it is attracting wide attention. There is no more ideal location for pretty and healthful homes in southwest Oregon. The residence section is situated on a high plateau overlooking the river and the factories below. There is abundant room for building and there are scores of choice sites which will one day be adorned with magnificent homes.

FOR SALE—160 acres—800 cedar trees from two to five logs each, 2000 poles averaging 40 feet. Also considerable fir. 3 1/2 miles from Bandon.
W. R. L. EDMUNDS.

FOR SALE—A good young Jersey milk cow. Cheap. Inquire of Albert Kinley, Bandon, Oregon.

F. P. Sargent, commissioner general of the national bureau of immigration, has given this advice to Texas: "It would be to the best interest of the people of Texas if those owning large tracts of land would cut them up into small holdings—say 50, 75 or 100 acres. In this way substantial immigrants can be attracted and small communities established. The people would be well repaid in the increased revenue that would accrue to the state in the way of taxes and increases in the amount of products for home consumption and foreign exportation."

Texas is an immense state in area, but this advice is no doubt sound there and quite as much so on the Pacific coast. And in many localities in this part of the country, as The Journal has more than once argued, it would be well for everybody concerned if large tracts of land were cut up into even smaller farms than Mr. Sargent suggests, into tracts of 40, 20 and even 10 acres.

A great volume of immigration is landing on our shores—a round million during the fiscal year just closed—and a large proportion of these immigrants would like to become farmers on a small scale, and as such would be good citizens and greatly beneficial to the states in which they settled. An influx of small farmers means more production, more consumption, more traffic, more business of all kinds, and the best and surest sort of development.—Portland Journal.

Logging Camps Busy.

At Aasen Bros.' camp, one and a half miles east of town, the dilemma over rails to complete the road extension has been overcome. This is the result of the brothers having bought 30 tons of 24-pound rails from the Simpsons of North Bend, and had the same shipped over after tearing them up from an unused roadbed. This enabled the hurried completion of the extension into the woods, and logging will resume immediately. Rails had been ordered from the east, but they appeared to never get here.

The Yoakam railroad leading up Cunningham creek from the river, near town, was all completed last Saturday with the exception of rail laying. The work was wound up with the finish of a 1600-foot fill, and the length of the road is approximately two miles. Timber falling and backing are still being prosecuted at the camp, with some 25 men employed. Logging of course is impossible until the steel rails arrive and are in place. These were shipped from Pittsburg some time ago, and are probably held up at San Francisco by the big strike.

The extension of another logging camp railway was completed last Saturday, and logging has begun further back in the timber. We refer to Crain's camp down the river where 25 men are employed. The road was extended a quarter of a mile, giving it a present length of about two miles. The necessary rails were procured by John Kronenberg on his recent trip to Portland, they being a quantity of serviceable street railway iron.—Sentinel

From the Sabetha Herald.
The average woman thinks the sun and stars would cease to shine sooner than that she could interfere with the regular routine of household duties. A Sabetha woman was recently informed by her physician that she would have to have an operation performed. She said she didn't see how she could—that Monday was washing day, Tuesday was ironing day, Wednesday the missionary society met, Thursday was the day to clean up, Friday to bake, Saturday the day to give the children their baths and mend. If he could get it in Sunday after dinner and before evening service perhaps she would try.

So we may have another railroad from Roseburg to Coos Bay even sooner than we dared hope for. While we were thinking about some such thing, along came the party of surveyors for the new line and now they are at work! But we guess we can stand such shocks and the sooner the new route is opened the more pleased will the people of Douglas county be. It appears that this is not to be a branch line of the Southern Pacific, but it is to be a competing line, which is better than ever. When once this matter is positively settled, it will take a weight to hold down real estate hereabouts, for it will begin to move so rapidly that it will be a difficult matter to keep track of it.—Roseburg News.
