THURSDAY, SEPT. 6, 1906.

The business men of this valley often speak of the fact that our neighbors across the divide who live at Coos bay, in their enthusiasm to boom their beautiful country seem to completely ignore the existence of this rich fertile valley. As one man said: "All is for Coos bay, but what would Coos bay be if this Coquille country was not back of it." Again it is said that real estate dealers around the mudflats of that section inform strangers that they have shown them all that is worth seeing in Coos county and that there is nothing over on the Coquille worth going to see. The Sentinel does not wish to produce any strife or jealousy between the two divisions of the county, for Coos bay can be made a great commercial center and all should be proud that they are near that great harbor, but it should be remembered that Coos bay harbor would be of far less consequence were it not for the fact that the Coquille valley has supplied and will supply the cargoes to be shipped over the Coos bay bar to a great extent. It would be possible to do our shipping direct over the Coquille bar and save railroad freight. These matters should be considered by the business men on the bay who should be willing to acknowledge the importance of this part of Coos county and thus avoid any sectional feeling. There was a gentleman looking over this section this week for persons in the East who are looking for farm lands, and he stated that parties at North Bend and Marshfield had told him that there was nothing over this way worth looking at. He stated that he was surprised to see such extensive farming industry as we have in this valley after being told that it was not here.....The logging industry on the Coquille river has attained an immensity that was hardly dreamed of two decades ago. The old method of hauling with ox teams is relegated to the past, and powerful steam donkey engines are bringing the huge pieces of timber from the mountain side to the river, or to the railroad for shipment. We are told that some camps put in from one to two thousand feet per day for every man employed in the woods. Lumber is in demand, good wages are paid, and no one need be idle. This industry coupled with the large dairy industry, county road building, general farming, and some branch road construction places our valley in the foremost ranks of busy and prosperous advancement. A journey on one of our steamers from Bandon to Myrtle Point will convince an observing person that this section is fast coming to the front as the most prosperous region in Oregon.—Sentinel

Myrtle Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gross of Bandon, arrived in the city Tuesday for a visit with friends.
Capt. C. T. Riley, who formerly resided in Myrtle Point, is up from Bandon for a visit with former acquaintances.

B. T. VanDecar, who has sold the balance of his jewelry stock to R. P. Endicott, leaves today for Portland to take a position as traveling salesman.

Mr. Samuel H. Clinton and Miss Alevia S. Randleman were united in the bonds of holy wedlock Wednesday evening the 29th by Rev. Thos. Barklow, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia Randleman at Norway.

Shiller B. Hermann, writing from Chelsea, Mass., says the weather is very hot there and that there have been many prostrations and deaths. Mr. Herman says that he expects to be in Myrtle Point about the first of October.

Ed. Jenkins has returned from Klamath Falls where he has been for a couple of months. He says there is plenty of work at good wages, that things are fairly on the boom, but he desires to farm and wants nothing that the Klamath country has to offer. Coos county for him—he has returned to stay.

W. H. Ray, who lives with his son Lee, a mile north of town, though seventy nine years of age is not as slow as you might think. Last week he took a trip to Coquille, got left by the boat, started home on foot, beat the boat in, and wasn't very tired either. Mr. Ray credits his remarkably good health and strength largely to Oregon's wonderful climate. When he lived in Nebraska he had poor health but since coming to Oregon he has steadily regained youthful vigor. Mr. Ray is particularly proud of the fact that he has a full head of hair, not a bald spot showing. Enterprise.

Ten-Mile Fish Hatchery.

The Sun says: J. W. Bennett, who has been devoting his energies toward the location of a fish hatchery on Ten-mile, has received the following letter from Master Warden VanDusen, written under date of Aug. 25th:

"I have your letter of the 23 inst., and note what you say about wanting to do something in the hatchery line for the Ten-mile lake. In regard to this matter I would only be too glad to have work taken up in my department on this lake but we have no funds that I could use for that purpose; and on account of taking up work on the Coquille river and one or two other coast streams this year, I think it will be some time before I will have funds available for such a matter as the Ten-mile lake.

The legislature might be asked to assist in the premises and provide funds for a hatching plant and for the maintenance thereof. I would like very much to have this done if those directly interested think they can bring it about. For such a station, we should have at least $1500 to build and equip the plant, and $1500 a year to pay operating expenses.

"We will have to ask the legislature to assist in the matter of providing a hatchery for the Coquille River and at the same time this Ten-mile lake proposition might be included. Although we should be a little careful and not let the matter interfere with our getting what we want for the Coquille River, and if you folks thought we were taking some chances, I would suggest that we aim to get the Coquille station provided for at the next session of the legislature and then look forward to the following for the Ten-mile proposition.

"Assuring you of my sincerity in regard to the matter of taking proper care of all of these streams, I remain,
Yours very Respectfully,
H. G. VAN DUSEN,
Master Fish Warden.

Port Orford.

Comment on the orderly conduct of the crowd that was assembled at the late W. O. W. Log Rolling at this place was heard on all sides. This is the direct result of local opinion and a "dry" county.

Bear and panther are reported to be more numerous in the mountains of Curry this summer, than for some time past, and have been causing considerable trouble on the sheep ranges in the Rogue river country.

W. F. Riley arrived in town yesterday evening from San Jose on a business visit to Gold Beach. Walter says that it seems good to get back to Curry again, although he is favorably impressed with what he has seen of California.

The Elizabeth called in on her down trip Thursday afternoon and remained until Friday evening—loading lumber from Adolphsen's mill. She took about 150,000 and this, together with her other freight, makes one of the largest cargoes that she has ever taken to the city.

Em. Jamieson's saw mill, on Sixes river is running right along; while his brother Chas. has a gang of men at work on the big ditch leading to his placer mines, where he has good prospects of taking out a mint of money. Considerable activity in the mining enterprise is reported from that section.

Rough fir lumber is about $7 higher in San Francisco at the present time than it was a year ago, and the Port Orford Cedar Company expect to take advantage of this fact by starting the Adolphsen mill in a few days and running it as late into the fall as possible.

Newt and Ed Divilbiss, and two gentlemen whose names we did not learn, have gone on an extended prospecting trip to the head waters of Elk and Sixes, from whence they will cross over into the Illinois country. They expect to be gone a month or six weeks, and as they are qualified to do scientific work we will not be surprised if good fortune rewards their efforts.—Tribune.

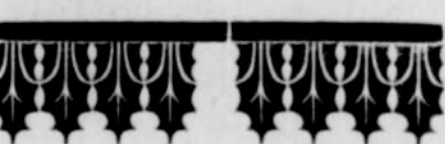

Prayer by the endless chain system will be stopped by the postoffice authorities, and it is likely that promoters of this scheme of worship will find themselves defendants in the near future in suits charging them with misuse of the mails. For many months churchgoers of western Pennsylvania have been annoyed by receiving letters containing the following prayer: "O Lord Jesus Christ we implore Thee, O, Eternal God, to have mercy on all mankind, keep us from sin by thy precious blood, and take us to be with Thee eternally. Amen."

The letter accompanying the prayer is as follows: "This prayer was written by Bishop Lawrence, who recommended it to be written and sent to nine other persons. He who will not write and send this will be over taken by some misfortune. One person who did not pay attention to it met with a dreadful accident. They who will write and send this will experience great joy at Jerusalem. It is said that he who writes this will be delivered from every calamity. Please do not break the chain."
