Port Orford.
The merchants here have been hauling some goods from Bandon, at a cost of one cent a pound.
The teams hauling to Cape Blanco had a hard time during last week's storm, but finished hauling Monday.
Charles Wakeman's beach sluiced early this season, and he is said to be taking out gold and platinum at a lively rate.
John Tyler returned from his trip down the coast last Friday. He traded horses while gone, and now rides the best pacer in the county.
Walter Moore, son of D. L. Moore, went with the Fromm boys to join the R. R. surveyors at Oakland, who, we learn, have been ordered to Arizona.

John Deadmond spent a week at Bandon a short time ago, and says that he enjoyed the visit very much, and met many of his old time friends. He was surprised at the growth of the beautiful town.
The last load of freight for the wireless station at Cape Blanco went out yesterday. But there are about 100 tons of gravel and sixty thousand feet of lumber yet to be hauled—the gravel from Sixes river, and the lumber from Adolphsen's mill.

A strange steam schooner painted red, No. 76, with the word "Relief" painted in large letters on a white ground, hanging over her side, anchored well out in Port Orford Harbor Thursday night, and departed south next morning without any of her crew coming ashore. Our people do not know the vessel, but we presume she is connected in some way with the work of the Wireless Telegraph. They could have come in closer, and easily have landed in a small boat.

Mary Marcella Revr and her brother, Jno. S. Satterfield of New York, who are interested in the Ophir Mountain Mines, at the head of Lobster creek, are spending a few days at Port Orford resting up from their arduous overland ride from Roseburg. They are accompanied by H. V. Thomas of Los Angeles, who is also interested in the same mines.

Isam Walker was in town Sunday. He is on his way down the coast to Humboldt county, Calif. In coming through the "green woods" near Denmark the fore wheels of his buggy dropped into a bottomless pit, the hind wheels stood in the air, the seat and top were torn loose, and the occupants flew out of the buggy. Mr. Neilson repaired damages, and he is now floundering in the mud below here.—Tribune.

Fishing Season a Failure.
The Humboldt (Cal.), Times of recent date says:
According to the statement of H. Witte, a representative of the fishing firm of H. Linderman & Co., of Astoria, the past fishing season on Eel River has been a complete failure, and the men that have been employed by that company, with their outfits, will leave next Thursday for the north.

The cause of the poor season is said to be because of the condition of the salmon, which have been white, and unfit for packing purposes. Within the last week Eel River has risen five feet, and a continual rise is still on. All the salt which has been brought from the north by the Linderman Company will also be shipped to Astoria, arrangements having been made for the shipments.

According to local shipping men who have handled the salmon output of past seasons for the Linderman Company, not one-half of the former season's shipments has gone north during this season. Other companies, including the Port Kenyon cannery, are said to have suffered a disastrous season.

The Myrtle Point Enterprise is crowded in its columns with land notices which means much exchequer to a newspaper office.

Items from Sentinel.
Mr. Geo. Peoples and family are moving to the ranch on the upper river recently purchased by Mr. Peoples.
Miss Jessie Tupper, who is attending school in Portland, came home Monday to spend Christmas with her parents.
Geo. T. Moulton, who has been station agent at the depot in this city, has resigned his position after eight years of faithful work. George made many friends during his service by his pleasant and accommodating manner, and he will be missed. Paul Peralta, who succeeds him, is in every way qualified to fill the position.

Ralph Nosler has sold his barber shop to Chas. Moomaw, who has been working in a shop in Bandon. Mr. Moomaw took charge Monday morning. Mr. Nosler will conduct the billiard parlor recently purchased by him of Ben Schuyler.

W. T. Kerr has completed the remodeling of his store, and now has everything in first-class shape.
On the evening of Dec. 31st the firemen of this city will give their annual ball.

W. N. Wright has been appointed deputy road supervisor by Supervisor Tex Robison, the latter having bought a meat market and moved to Bandon.

A. L. Ferris, sawyer at the River-ton mill, with his family were shopping in Coquille this week. The mill is not running at present owing to the wharf being blocked with lumber. As soon as a vessel arrives for a cargo work will be resumed.

Sheriff Gage left Monday for Salem with James Collins, James Coffey and Mar Sing, the prisoners who were sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Hamilton. The two former go for one year each and the latter for two years. They went via Marshfield and the Drain route. John Lawrence accompanied Sheriff Gage as guard.

Gold Beach Items.
Jas. P. Russell, of Floras Creek, went up to the hospital at Marshfield last week to have a cancerous wart removed from his upper lip.

The run of steelheads has been very good the past week. N. B. Huntley brought down from up the river last Saturday 182. A few other men who are engaged in steelhead fishing have made similar catches.

After three weeks of patient waiting the schooner Berwick crossed over the bar headed for Coos Bay. The Berwick expects to return immediately with two million salmon eggs for the new hatchery which is now ready for them.

A Mr. Edmonson of Portland visited Gold Beach last week with the view of investing extensively in property near this place. Mr. Edmonson was very favorably impressed with the prospects of Gold Beach becoming the metropolis of Curry in the near future. So great was his belief that he secured a verbal option on D. Cunniff's place with the intention of laying out a town site there.

Prof. Wm. S. Guerin of Langlois returned last week from the Marshfield hospital where he has been seeking relief from a cancer on the tongue of which he has been a sufferer for many years. On being advised that the only relief obtainable would be to remove the affected organ, and not wishing to be deprived from the pleasure of speech, although painful and difficult, Mr. Guerin decided to return home and endure his suffering in the best way he could.—Globe.

The North Bend Harbor learns that J. H. Keating intends to increase the size of his cream condensary at that place, and that he may build a branch condensary on the Coquille.
