

Digging Canal at Ten Mile.

L. J. Simpson and others have a donkey engine at work near the Lake creamery cleaning out the logs and stumps from the lake, after which the engine will be mounted on a scow and rigged to do dredging.

The little channel between North Lake and Ten Mile is to be deepened to enable boats to travel between the lakes at any stage of the tide.

The channel is to be dredged for about half a mile.

It is important that the two lakes be connected, as a great deal of milk is gathered up from the farmers along the edges of both lakes, which work is done in gasoline launches.

Several fishing parties are now fishing at Ten Mile. Deer are said to be plentiful in this territory at the present.

Strawberries all Summer.

According to Secretary Williamson of the state board of horticulture, the cherry crop of Oregon will be large and of good grade. The late rains have done no damage, in fact, on the other hand, have aided the crop materially, says the Journal.

The canneries of Salem, on account of inability to secure help and prospects of large crops, are paying four cents per pound for the best grade of fruit and for the same variety that the California canneries are paying 8 cents.

The strawberry crop has been very satisfactory, although not as expected. Pickers have been scarce and a high price has been paid them, but despite those conditions the growers have reason to rejoice. Crops in the east were ruined and there was no slump in the home market that affected the Oregon grower. The season this year has also been a long one, but the strawberries are now disappearing.

"The time is coming" says Mr. Williamson, "when Oregon will have strawberries all summer. There are places in the Cascade and Coast ranges where strawberries do not ripen until the latter part of July."

When the numerous electric lines contemplated are completed and these now remote districts are made accessible, Oregon people can eat strawberries until the middle of August and later."

A Red Headed Man.

There is said to be a red-headed freshman over on the Bay, who seems to make his headquarters at Marshfield, whose mission and purpose at that place is to seek to knock all efforts or moves to arouse an interest in the proposed Roseburg-Coos Bay electric road.

Also there seems to be a few who listen to and heed his smooth talk. While it is known he is there in the interest of the Southern Pacific, to knock any and all efforts to build the electric road, yet what he may say or represent is given credence.

It is said he is prolific in words, original in concocting a story and equal to any emergency. He claims to build the electric road, means to shut out the Southern Pacific, the Northwestern, or any other trains continental, and that what the people of the Bay need and must have to make that place the great city they desire, is a transcontinental line, and that transcontinental lines do not and cannot compete with electric roads. Strange to say there are those who listen to such fallacious representations.

If the people only knew, the building of the electric road will do more to bring to that port railroads than anything else. Let the electric road be constructed and the Southern Pacific will complete its extension as soon as money and men can do it.—Spokesman.

Measles and Scarletina.

An easy way of distinguishing scarletina from measles is to draw the back of a finger nail pretty firmly across the eruption. If scarletina, a white line will result, and will remain for one or two minutes. No white line will appear if the test be made in a case of measles. It is very necessary to distinguish between these two disorders. A mild case of measles may be treated by domestic means. A case of scarletina demands the presence of a doctor.

How to Clean Burnt Dishes.

Taking dishes that become burned in the oven and platters that become blackened with food scorched upon them, should not go through the tedious process of scraping. Simply put a little water and ashes in the dish and let it become warm, and the burned and discolored portions may be easily cleaned without injuring the dish.

Port Orford Notes.

From the Tribune.

Asher Moore, Jr., was in town Monday night enroute to Bandon with a team, after blacksmith and other supplies. He says the new road scraper bought by the county is just the thing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Walker and their son Sidney arrived in Port Orford by stage from Roseburg, Wednesday, and hastened next morning on to Rogue river where their son, Robert, lies dangerously ill at Thos. Smith's home. They left their home in Ashland Monday evening, having had but a few hours' rest on the way, and were considerably tired, though Mr. Walker stood the trip remarkably well. His health is much better than when he went away.

A year ago last May, M. I. Wright, E. W. Jensen and N. C. Neilsen, all of Port Orford, went out into the mountains of Elk river prospecting. They got storm-bound and out of grub, when Mr. Wright killed a deer, E. W. Jensen skinned it, and they all reverently ate it. Last week, Mr. Axtell having heard of it, made a complaint before Justice Zumwalt, who had Mr. Wright arrested and fined him $25 and costs $21, which Mr. Wright promptly paid. E. W. Jensen, it is said, after skinning and eating of the deer, appeared as corroborating witness and as Prosecuting Atty, and thereby helped to skin Mr. Wright. The offense was of a nature that the law never was intended to punish, and the results of the action are not upheld by the fair-minded people of the community.

A Standard Oil steamer passed up last Wednesday just outside the Heads, being the first one of these queer looking vessels ever seen here so close to shore, where the winds are not so strong as farther out.

For a short time last Wednesday, Port Orford had a thrill of excitement occasioned by the wharf catching fire from a spark from the donkey engine while all hands were at dinner. A heavy wind was blowing and the fire made rapid headway, but was fortunately discovered in time to be subdued before serious damage was done. Everybody hurried to assist, and with buckets and two fire extinguishers won the victory.

Miss Pearl Hurst and James Curry were united in marriage at the church in Port Orford, Monday at noon, in the presence of a large crowd of friends and relatives, Rev. George H. Roach officiating, and Miss Ruth Clark and Gene White acting as bridesmaid and best man. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers, and the ceremony was impressive, and at its conclusion the happy pair took positions at the door, where everyone could congratulate them as they passed out. The bride was becomingly dressed in white, while the groom wore conventional black.

Lillie Way Returns.

Miss Lillie Way, who has been visiting the Jamestown exposition with the Oregon Telegram party, returned from her trip by Tuesday night's stage. She is enthusiastic in her description of the trip and the royal entertainment given by the Telegram management throughout. The exposition itself she considers of rather an inferior quality, and there has been considerable disappointment on the part of visitors. She was one of the passengers on the stage that broke down on the other side of Remote and was compelled to walk several miles.—Enterprise.

They lay two and a quarter miles south of Bandon near the plank road, and sell for $60 and $65 an acre. These lots are not in the hands of any real estate dealer, and I do my business direct with you. Call on or address,
