

Gamblers Must Work.

The "move on" order has been issued for Astoria, and the gamblers' last stand in Oregon will be of brief duration. Gambling is a vice which has a pernicious and blighting effect where ever it is permitted, but the evil is more apparent in some places than in others. It is doubtful if there is another community in the western world where the closing of gambling will be attended with better results than at Astoria. The plea has been made that the fines, collected from the gamblers have paid, in a large measure, the running expences of the city. But before the gamblers paid these fines, they first secured the money, and much more along with it from some hard working wealth creator in Astoria.

In no other place in the state where these parasites of the green cloth have essayed to ply their unlawful vocation have they taken as hard-earned money as that passed over the tables by the fisherman.

The fisherman risk their lives to secure the money which swells the coffers of the gambling harpies.

The abolition of gambling will not only remove temptation from hundreds of hard working men, who need the money for other purposes, and from young men just growing and easily influenced, but it will undoubtedly be the means of forcing reformation on a large number of gamblers, who, when they find their occupation gone, will be willing to turn their attention to some respectable method of securing a livelihood.

When Astoria is running "wide open" in the fishing season, there are more than 100 gamblers engaged in fleecing the victims. As gamblers are a class of liberal spenders, five dollars per day would be a modest estimate of their daily expenditures. Reduced to mathematics, it thus appears that Astoria in consideration of a moderate monthly fine, has permitted these parasites to rob some of the citizens of $500 per day, or approximately $15,000 per month. When the lid drops next week these lily-fingered drones in the industrial hive, no longer will be permitted to rob the men who earn the money, and it will be placed in circulation where it can be of more benefit.

While it is true that Oregon never had less use for gamblers than it has at the present time, it is equally true that the state was never before so badly in need of able-bodied men for all kinds of work. The present crusade will leave without a calling, several hundred gamblers. Among them there will be undoubtedly a large number, who, in the absence of an opportunity to rob their fellow men may be induced to go to work, and in time become honorable citizens.

The gambler never creates one penny by his efforts. He simply lives as do all parasites, off the energy and vitality of others, it is natural to presume that he will become a producer. Those who are too lazy or dishonest to go to work in due season will find their way to our penal institutions. Even there it may be better for society to support them behind the bars, than permit them to levy their own toll on the workers, and while so doing to corrupt the morals of the young.

Port Orford Notes.

From the Tribune.

Isam Walker and Jo Knight passed through town Monday with 2500 head of stock sheep which they will drive to the railroad. They will gather up many more as they proceed, and will have a very large drove to deliver. Will White, John Woodworth and Alex Hastings were among the drovers employed.

Last week the tug Columbia towed the barkentine Northwest down here from Coos Bay, where the latter vessel expected to take a cargo of lumber to San Pedro. She is too long, too high, and draws too much water for the present wharf. She has neither a crew to handle her nor lines to get to and from the wharf, and lies at anchor in the bay. It cost her, it is said, $250 to be towed down here and no doubt cost her as much to be towed back by the tug which is now expected. Somebody used bad judgement.

Quite a lot of wool has been delivered at Port Orford lately to be shipped to San Francisco purchasers who have paid as high as 23 1/4 cents. With such a price for wool, and $4 for mutton, and $3.25 and $3.50 for stock sheep it has been our best year for flock masters.

A. A. Jamison was in town Monday. He has been suffering of late with rheumatism, resulting no doubt from his exposures last winter in teaming for the Wireless station. He left here with his team this morning for Coquille City, taking up Mr. Jurgensen Sr. for examination for commitment to the Asylum, as a hopeless paralytic.

The steamer Signal, Captain Saunders, left Port Orford last Friday afternoon, for San Pedro, Cal. with a cargo of 400,000 feet of well-seasoned oak and myrtle hard wood, by long odds the most valuable cargo of lumber ever shipped from South-Western Oregon. The parties that own this lumber will not sell it, but will manufacture it into furniture, and they expect to make arrangements to take a similar amount, or more, every year from the shipping points of Curry County, which are the only ones on Oregon's coast where this quality of oak can be obtained, as it does not grow in mercantile quantities.

Coquille Notes.

From the Sentinel.

Henry Sengstacken has sold the ground on which the old Bon Ton saloon stood on Front Street to the parties who are interested in the new bank, and who will erect a bank building thereon. The old building has been moved back next to the rooms occupied by Dean & Hollenbeck's meat market.

F. O. Weeks, operator of the Big Hill coal mine which is located one mile below Riverton, called at this office Tuesday, and we are glad to be able to announce that the mine is to be opened and worked with energy. Mr. Weeks is much taken up with this country and predicts a grand future for it.

The building that Charles Thom of Roseburg, is erecting east of Lorenz's store on Front Street, is nearly completed and will be ready for occupancy the 1st of September, by E. A. Beckett of Marshfield, as a saloon and restaurant. The building will have a 29 foot front and will be 50 feet deep, two stories high. The upper story will be used for club rooms. The building will be of an artistic design and will be an ornament to Front street.

A gentleman who has lived in Chicago many years, saw a drove of beef cattle above Myrtle Point, that W. T. Dement was sending to market, and he stated that he had never seen finer beef in the stockyards in the great city so famous for its stockyards which contain the finest and slickest cattle raised in the Middle West, many of which are stall fed. Mr. Dement raises the choicest beef on the best range in the state without feeding, the cattle thriving on Nature's pastures the year round.

The smallpox epidemic that broke out at Myrtle Point has entirely subsided. The people of that community and indeed of the whole valley are to be congratulated because of the skill that prevented the spread of that terrible disease, only two persons having been unfortunate in taking the malady after it appeared. Mr. Tucker who brought the disease to town, is reported out of the hospital and in good health.

Shocking.

Dr. Fredrick A. Cook, the noted explorer, was talking in New York about his idea of trying to reach the south pole with automobiles.

"Polar exploring in automobiles seems a very radical innovation, almost as shocking as the innovation, doesn't it?" he said. "It seems almost as shocking as the innovation that was employed one Sunday night upon a Brooklyn doctor.

"The doctor was in church. He occupied a front pew. The church was crowded, the preacher preaching eloquently; a perfect silence reigned.

"But suddenly a man dashed in at the door. He held up his hand for the preacher to pause. Then he cried:

"Is Dr. Henry Smith here?"

"With all eyes centered upon him, Dr. Henry Smith rose slowly in his seat and turned round.

"What is wanted?" he said. He had the grave, weary air of a man who is almost overburdened with the responsibilities heaped upon him.

"Are you Dr. Henry Smith?"

"I am."

"Well, doctor, I am Cache & Co.'s new collector. When will it be convenient for you to settle that little account of theirs?"—Seattle Post.
