MAYOR LANE has placed the lid on Portland and has climbed on top where he can see that it is kept on, and now Chief of Police Biggy, of San Francisco, will pattern after those tactics and shut up his home town tighter than a clam shell.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN has rented a house in Richmond, Va. Maybe the twenty-nine million dollar lemon that was handed the Standard Oil Co., has caused him to reflect before expending any unnecessary amounts on houses. However the press reports say the rent is only five thousand dollars per month. Figuring it up on a proportionate scale, the average country printer might be entitled to tarry in the place for about fifteen minutes.

AGAIN WE WISH to call attention to the fact that Bandon sadly needs more-dwelling houses. Many people are glad to be living in rooms, as there are no available houses, but if some of our enterprising minded citizens would invest in cottages for the use of these people, they would not only relieve a much needed commodity, but make a success in a speculative capacity. Rents the way they stand now, and the price of lumber and lots considered, would soon pay for houses for renting purposes. The new mills that will soon be in full operation will require new men, and most of them will of necessity, come from the outside, bringing their families, and all will join in the demand for more dwellings.

CONGRESSMAN W. C. HAWLEY was a Bandon visitor last week and spent much of his time in looking up the bar and harbor conditions. He is of the opinion that the money expended on this project is but a beginning and that it is being applied to the best of the ability of the engineers. His idea in making this trip throughout the district is to acquaint himself with the conditions needed and to be able to present them before his fellow representatives in the halls of Congress in an able manner. While in this office he expressed his opinion regarding the country and as to the developments now being projected and those about to come. We are sorry he did not have the time and opportunity to address our people as he has done in other parts of the county, but he has met many of our citizens and has made himself familiar with our conditions, and we may expect to hear from him later regarding them.

THE COUNTY EDITORS and publishers of Oregon were knocked out of fully $10,000 last winter by the state legislature, business that the press of the state have been getting for years and should continue to receive. The Oregon Press Association has taken on new life and at its winter meeting in Portland something will be doing which is bound to lead to the betterment of those who are depending on the income of a printing office for their sustenance. For years the publishers have sat quietly by sucking their thumbs, while every incoming and outgoing legislature has taken a crack at him. The curtain has dropped on this club wielding act and from now on the country newspaper men are not only going to claim what is coming to them, but they are going to get it. We do not believe there is a newspaper publisher in this state that is "on the graft," as intimated by the Portland Oregonian, but there are some things they are entitled to that the legislature can grant, things both honest and right, and if given, will be a benefit to every taxpayer in Oregon.—Hillsboro Independent.

A PROMINENT MAIL order house sent an advertising proposition to us this week, and enclosed copy for a larger ad than any now running, in this paper. The proposition looked good to us, and the rate wasn't so bad considering what is usually offered by transient advertisers, who usually think the country editor will be willing and glad to accept that copy for a much lower rate than the home advertiser. The ad contained matter relative to groceries, furniture and some dry goods. It quoted prices probably considerably lower than any of the home merchants. These advertisers can afford to use a little money for bait. The first order usually convinces the same person that they cannot get something for nothing, even if it looks good on the start and the quoted price is less than what the home dealers make. Your home merchant is not a highway robber! He doesn't want to, or expect to, get rich quick off the profits from his friends and neighbors. He spends his money here at home, pays taxes along with you, and invites you to patronize him through the home newspaper. He cannot afford to send out expensive catalogues, legitimate profits and honest and square dealing will not permit it, but he has to have his goods and prices compared with mail order houses, founded on shoddy goods and underhanded dealing. Can you satisfy yourself where you in any one incidence secured what you considered the value of your money from a mail order house? Did you ever stop to think of the principle connected in so sending your patronage out of town? Do you think for a minute that any one of them would trust you for a cent? When you want credit you always look to the home merchant. Why not just as well spend your money with him when you have it? You send away for material and articles because you cannot get them here at home. Ask for them at your dealers and by creating a demand for such things you will soon find them on their counters all of the time. We placed the advertising proposition in our waste basket. The next time you receive a mail order catalogue, place it in the only place where it can do good—in the fire. If, by keeping their advertisements out of the home newspaper, we can accomplish even a little toward keeping our money at home, we feel satisfied that our energies and loss have been well spent.

Port Orford Notes.

From the Tribune.

R. D. Hume left Wedderburn last week whence he and his wife will depart for a European trip, especially to Scotland, the home of their ancestors.

Miss Mary Marsh is home on a visit, having come down from Coquille with her aunt, Mrs. Dr. Owen of St. Louis, Mo., formerly Miss Ida Kronenberg of Coos.

Julius Kock, who resided for many years on his Elk river farm, now occupies his cozy home in Port Orford. He draws a Mexican War pension, and though 85 years of age is spryer than most men of sixty.

Miss Tiny Roberts returned to her home in Myrtle Point last Friday, after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Rackleff. Her sister Miss Jennie, will remain a few days longer.

T. J. Gilkerson and wife—nee Miss Winnie Hall a sister to Mrs. H. T. Steward, arrived here last Friday, on a few weeks visit, having come from their home in Lemoore, California, to San Francisco, thence by steamer Plant to Coos Bay and from there via Myrtle Point to Port Orford.

Mr. N. P. Jurgensen, who was stricken with paralysis at Port Orford about two months ago, was moved to the hospital at Coquille city, where he died August 4, 1907. His remains were brought to Port Orford and buried last Friday in the cemetery beside his wife. Mr. Jurgensen was born in Germany in 1838. He came to Curry county in 1878 and settled on a homestead on Elk river, where he raised a family of three sons and three daughters, all of whom are grown. He was an industrious home loving man, of gentle disposition—a good citizen and a loving father and husband, universally respected by those who knew him.

Myrtle Point Notes.

From the Enterprise.

A Myrtle Point merchant reports a cash sale of goods to one man in one day last week, amounting to nearly $90.

B. B. Watkins was unfortunate enough to lose his best horse Tuesday of this week. His son Earl was driving a load of household goods to Halls Creek where the family will settle on a homestead. When on a bridge the horses stumbled on a loose plank and fell into the deep ravine with the result that the neck of the best horse was broken.

The Board of Education, by the resignation of Miss Cooper and the sickness of Mr. Zeberly, has had a time this week in preparing for the opening of school next Monday, but has succeeded in employing for all the rooms. Mrs. George Hermann has been employed to teach the 8th grade, Miss Florence McCracken will teach the 6th and 7th, and Miss Daisy Deyoe will take Miss Cooper's room, the other teachers having been previously employed.

The Order of Eastern Star of Coos County met in annual re-union in this city last Friday. Many out of town members came in and with the members of the Order here passed a most enjoyable day. At noon a fine dinner was served, and though the banquet room was well spread with tables, two servings were necessary. A business meeting was held in the afternoon to arrange for next year's meeting, which is to be held in Marshfield. In the evening five candidates were given the degrees and this was followed by an ice cream supper. During the meeting a number of members talked for the good of the order in an entertaining manner, and throughout the reunion was one of keen enjoyment.

Prof. E. C. Throne, who acceptably served the Myrtle Point band as director for more than a year, but who has been in Marshfield for the past few months, was in this city last week on his way to Roseburg, where he will play during the district fair with the Roseburg band and visit friends, for a short time, and will then leave for Long Beach, Calif., where, beginning with the first of October, he has a year's engagement with the American Marine band to furnish music for that famed southern California resort. Prof. Throne starts in on a salary of $90 per month, and his Myrtle Point friends expect to see him climb higher in his chosen calling. He has better than a local fame as a cornetist, that is certain to expand with his new engagement.
