THE OREGON Weekly published at the University of Oregon, has reached this desk, and is a lively little college paper. Issued weekly, as its name denotes, and is filled with breezy university notes of interest to its readers. A first rate subscription list is worked up every year among the student body and the alumni.

HARVEY BROWN the ex-sheriff of Baker City, who was murdered at his own door, sets an example to a great many, and by his fore-thought has provided for his family in an efficient manner. He carried in seven insurance companies and orders, combined, $27,500. Here is food for thought. His assessments were all paid up, some of them being paid on the night of his murder.

IT HAS BEEN SAID that the newspaper fraternity were a body of rovers; another good man has stepped out of the harness to seek pastures new. Rollie Watson has sold his newspaper, the Tillamook Herald and has left that rustling little city just as it commenced to blossom out. He has conducted a first class weekly, and during his period of ownership has installed a model country newspaper office. We will be glad to again welcome him back into the circles of the quad and shooting stick.

AND NOW some individual who has left his damphool logic get the best of him, has started a campaign to change the name of the water supply that has helped make Portland prominent on account of its excellence. The water now comes from the Cascades and it is up to the people to draw their pen through the line on the dining car menus, out of Portland, which read to the effect that only Bull Run water is in use. We heard of Bull Run water long before we ever saw Portland, and while the name is not up to the handle in the minds of those afflicted with such a poetical temperament, it is known widely as the unexcelled water supply of Portland.

"WHO'S YOUR FRIEND?" There are a great many strangers within our portals every week that are here for the purpose of looking over the country, and to incidentally find out the class of people residing here. We have talked with a number, and in every incidence a remark is made on the sociability of our people. A little pains taken to make your visitor acquainted with our town's people as well as with our country, will have a tendency to give a still better impression of the place, and to make him feel that he is welcome among us. Since the Colonist rates went into effect between the East and West, there have been large numbers of people seeking homes in all parts of Oregon. There have been a large number that have come to Coos county, and not a few have visited the Coquille Valley. There are more coming every day this month, and the plentiful positions for laborers, and the opportunities to settle down and make this their home, will give us prestige over many other Oregon towns.

WE ONCE LIVED in Lacrosse, Wisconsin, and in passing to and from town it was necessary to pass a tannery. Any person that has had occasion to come in the immediate vicinity of this said tannery, or any other, would have a lasting impression of the arising vapors and odors, for many moons to come, so much so that an uncontrollable feeling of homesickness overpreads ye pedestrian while sojourning in the neighborhood of any like institutions. We have a pretty little town here, bounded by the most beautiful scenery that nature can provide, and populated with people of most gentle and sociable character, but within our city limits, there are places, not one, but several, that smell to high heaven, and that would double discount the tannery for originality and strength. We have local health authorities here that should make it their business to investigate the causes for such aerial disturbances, and in the best interest of health, put an immediate stop to such causes. Seems to us that the city dads passed ordinances some several months ago that provided for a more sanitary and cleanly condition through the business section. A continuance of present circumstances will warrant all of us carrying a burning rag about with us, and a bag of asafoetida around our necks just to set up an opposition odor.

THE STEAM SCHOONER Bandon, which arrived in port last Thursday, is one, probably, of several of her class to commence transportation terminals between Bandon and San Francisco, or other southern ports. Built to load a large cargo with a minimum draught, and equipped with marine engines that are suitable to give her a speed of 11 1/2 knots, she is the ideal of boatcraft necessary for a bar and harbor like the Coquille. We have only one remark to offer, and that is to the effect that had she been built here, she would have been still more popular to our people. The report on the last voyage of the Wellesley into San Francisco, was, that she steamed into port with only six inches of her smokestack visible, the balance being hidden by her deckload,—she was built by local industry. There have been persons who have seen fit, and are now losing sleep in their efforts to give the new craft a black eye. Rumors have been circulated to the effect that the boat is unsuited for this class of transportation; that the vessel cannot stand the pounding of the waves in the winter time; and others referring to her machinery and the probabilities of being transferred to another run. Capt. Jensen is our authority for making the statement that she is perfectly seaworthy, and will engage, permanently, as far as is now known, in the San Francisco-Bandon run. Her machinery and appliances are of the latest, and she is a fine vessel from keel to the top of her masts. When the Elizabeth was first placed on this run, the doubters of the knockers' club predicted fates untold if she should continue on the run, but if current reports are correct, the management of the vessel have never regretted placing her on this route.

Coquille Notes.

From the Sentinel.

Dave S. Perkins has fully decided to enter business in Coquille, and will have his quarters in the room just west of Peoples & Hartley's real estate office on Front street. He will carry a complete line of gents' furnishing goods, and has already ordered a big stock of boots and shoes.

Dr. Will Tatom received painful intelligence by wire Saturday, the message stating that his youngest sister, Mrs. Eugene Brown, had just passed away in Boise, Idaho. Decedent, who died of typhoid fever, leaves a husband and five children to mourn her loss, in addition to Dr. Tatom, their aged mother, and a surviving sister. She was 31 years of age, and resided in North Powder, Oregon.

Henry Clemens and wife, having sold their large dairy farm near Parkersburg to Joseph Windle, departed Tuesday per steamer Plant for California, where they will reside in hopes of benefitting Mrs. Clemens' health.

The mails between Roseburg and Coquille and between Coquille and Bandon change to the winter schedule on Oct. 16th. This means that the mail will then depart at 4 p.m., arriving in the early morning as usual. Going to Bandon it will depart at 1 p.m., and return at 11 a.m.

Lizzie Caughell, the postmistress at Gold Beach, indicted for opening and retaining mail belonging to other persons, pleaded guilty by attorney in the United States district court at Portland, on Oct. 3rd, and was fined $25 by Judge Chas. E. Wolverton. It was shown by affidavit that nothing had been taken by the former postmistress, and that her actions had been due to a mental disorder resulting from continued illness. Assistant United States Attorney James Cole recommended, on the showing made by the investigation conducted by the postoffice inspectors assigned to the case, that a nominal fine be imposed.

On October 2, 1907, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. Levi L. Bunch, son of Chas. H. Bunch of Coquille, Oregon, and Miss Lois L. L. Hermann, daughter of C. M. Hermann, of Myrtle Point, Oregon, were united in marriage, Elder T. H. Starbuck, of Portland, Oregon, officiating. The nuptials were celebrated in the presence of the parents of both contracting parties and many of the other members of their respective families. The occasion will be remembered because of its good old-fashioned social enjoyment. Mr. Bunch and bride, who were both reared in Coos County, will make a brief tour to Portland, returning to Coos County by steamer, where they will settle upon a farm near Coquille.

The Open River meeting at the Dalles joined the concentrated force of the best workers of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. The improvements of the entire Columbia River should be under continuous contract now that the United States Government engineers last survey made in June, showed 25 1/2 feet of water over the bar at lowest tide, with 32 1/2 feet at high tide.

The Interior, the official publication of the Presbyterians of the United States, devoted 16 pages of its October issue to Portland as a Presbyterian city, in which the attractions of Oregon are effectively presented. The illustrations show, Say, Mr. Merchant!

You have been trying to improvise some practical method of introducing your new goods. Well! Here is a tip that can be summed in a word—Glass Show Cases. Get the idea? An article properly displayed will sell on sight. Put in a couple and inside of a year the additional sales derived from that source, will pay for them. All up-to-date establishments are having them installed.

Another Practical Suggestion

Did you ever stop to think that you may be judged, by strangers, by your correspondence? If your letters are neatly type written they will always give a business dignity in no other way attained. The Underwood Machine excels all others in every respect. We sell them.
