F. J. MARSHALL COMING.

A telegram received yesterday by C. T. Blumenrother from F. J. Marshall, capitalist promoter of our paper and pulp mill, stated that the gentleman would arrive in San Francisco tomorrow en route for Bandon. He may now be expected here within the next few days.

The Daily Coos Bay Times is certainly showing marked improvement under its present management. Editor Maloney as the newspaper's head is demonstrating an exceptional fitness, and his fearless disregard and criticism of faulty corporations and the grafters and fakirs who operate around the county's metropolis is such as to excite the admiration of this section at least. He has inaugurated a purpose, seemingly, to expose the plans of hot air artists and schemers and rouse the lax corporations of the city to a sense of their duty, and it is refreshing that he has the pluck and courage of his honest convictions. When Marshall can rid himself of faking individuals who are continually launching "enterprises" that were never intended to reach the stage of fruition—"enterprises" that are calculated only to stimulate a boom and swell the pockets of their originators—he might assume a prosperity not confined to that imparted by the advent of Mr. Smith. The genuine and productive policy manifest by Bandon, where enterprises are launched in good faith and bear the stamp of speedy fruition as the rule, must be a source of envy to our earnest disposed friends of the Coos bay section. But, then, here's to you, Editor Maloney, and long live the Times.

The Oregon Weekly, which is the State University publication came to our desk this week with a very appropriate color design in yellow showing the condition of that institution in comparison to that of our sister States of Idaho and Washington in a cartoon. Oregon was represented by a lady crippled and maimed by reason of the referendum, while Washington and Idaho were represented by ladies well clad and physically perfect. Their people supported their schools of higher learning while Oregon is having the pleasure of its greatest school being run on half funds through the misdirected efforts of cranks. It is to be hoped the State will defeat the measure to cut off the appropriation and let the University have its full share of money.

The Recorder is duly appreciative of the several kind notices given it by exchanges incident to its change of ownership and future control. Many thanks, brethren, there are choice havanas awaiting you in our sanctum.

AND it comes to pass that North Bend hasn't the lid on as tightly as was supposed. But you must get your fill of "coffin varnish" there as well as in Marshfield before midnight hereafter.

Notice to Candidates

Candidates' announcements for the primaries will be published by this paper at the rate of $2.50 for the first inch and $1.00 for each additional inch for the full period required.

Steve Gallier was at the bay last week attending a committee of the fair association. The committee meets again next Wednesday.

Mr. Bedillion and China.

Our townsman, Robert Bedillion, being the recipient of a pointer from the Coos Bay Times of recent date respecting a sudden big demand for cotton blankets in the Chinese Empire, has ordered a map of the orient sufficiently large to be a shroud for his own massive self. This map will adorn the walls of the Bandon woolen mills where Robert can conveniently study the superior or inferior market advantages of the Province of Shantung as against the Provinces of Tsing-Tsen or Chee Foo. It is barely probable, he thinks, that his friend Price, of the local shipyard, can put some good hints into his noodle as to which of the provinces is the most advisable for the exporting of his cotton blanket product, though friend Price, to be sure, resigned his missionary work there many years ago. However, Mr. Bedillion wishes to thank the Times for having so kindly opened the oriental door to his increasing trade.

Mann-Yager Nuptials

Miss Esther Yager and Dr. S. J. Mann were married in Marshfield by Father Curley early Wednesday morning, returning to Bandon the same day. The young couple had planned their escape from expectant friends very cleverly, and none but an intimate few knew the exact time and place.

Mrs. Mann is one of Bandon's fair daughters and her friends in the town are numerous. Dr. Mann is a rising member of the medical profession, a stranger in the length of residence but a pioneer in the number of friends and acquaintances. He has been engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery at Langlois for a year past, and to the present Mrs. Mann about six months. They will reside at Langlois.

We herewith extend the congratulations of the Recorder and its force from editor to printer's devil and predict that they will "live happily ever after."

Band Concert and Dance.

The public of this section are to be afforded a rare musical treat Saturday evening when the Bandon Concert Band gives its concert at the local opera house. It is a fact undisputed that nowhere in the State is there a better aggregation of musicians than are those under the leadership of Prof. Emil Kausrud. Following the concert the band will give a dance at Bank Hall. You cannot afford to miss these festivities.

The Redmen's Ball

The first annual ball of Lewah Tribe, No. 48, L. O. R. M., given at Bank Hall last Saturday night, was a most emphatic success, being attended by a record breaking number of dancers and spectators, all of whom enjoyed the evening thoroughly. The Indian march of the lodge in their new regalia was especially interesting, being led by District Deputy Hartman and Grand Sachem Geo. N. Farrin in their white distinctive dress.

The grand march following was led by Mr. Farrin and Mrs. Dygert. The music furnished by the Seaside Orchestra was of its usual high quality, and after a midnight supper partaken of at Carey's and the Vienna dancing was resumed and continued until 3 a. m.

Lewah Tribe, but a few months old is already, metaphorically, a healthy paopse. Its membership is steadily growing and surprised even the visiting Reds from Coquille Saturday night. Appended is a list of the initial officers now published for the first time:

- O. C. Waldvogel, Sachem.
- W. N. Wright, senior Sagamore.
- Ott-Newman, junior Sagamore.
- A. J. Hartman, Prophet.
- C. T. Fieger, chief of records.
- Geo. E. Wilson, Keeper of Wampum.
- Geo. L. Cox, first Sannap.
- J. L. Pettitt, second Sannap.

- G. G. Kennedy, fourth Warrior.
- Ira Tucker, first Brave.
- F. A. Helman, second Brave.
- G. B. Cox, third Brave.
- H. A. Gross, fourth Brave.
- G. R. McNair, first Scout.
- Tom Serviss, second Scout.
- Dave Carey, J. N. Hoskins and Ira Tucker trustees.
- J. N. Hoskins, captain of degree team.

Leap Year Ball.

One of the unique functions of the present festivity season will be a leap year ball to be given at Bank Hall Saturday, March 14th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Art Club. Extensive arrangements are being perfected for the affair, and the ladies want it known that all leadership of details generally is to be vested in the gentler sex on this particular occasion. In other words, gentlemen, you must sit with true feminine smile and extended limb and be entertained rather than entertain. If you wish to leave the bench for a delightful whirl (in ball room or to a down-town cigar store), a shapely arm must essay to render you escort. The ladies of the Art Club have the laudable object of applying the proceeds of their ball to the beautifying of a municipal park.

Engineers' Strike

The following dispatch from San Francisco dated February 20, is not believed to affect the steamers Elizabeth and Bandon unless certain contingencies should arise:
"Committees of both the marine engineers' association and the steam schooner owners of San Francisco, empowered to settle the dispute over the regulations governing the number of engineers to be carried, today decided to stand by the statements issued yesterday. This action makes it certain that a strike of engineers will be on by tomorrow night at 12 o'clock, and after that time no steam schooners will leave this port with association engineers in charge. The owners asserted tonight that should the engineers refuse to go on the vessels they will be able to secure independent engineers in sufficient numbers to handle all of the business at the present time. No question of wages has entered into the controversy as yet, but the engineers claim to have information that a reduction was contemplated by the owners. It is not known whether members of other organizations, such as the firemen and the waiters and deckhands, will be drawn into the present struggle or not."
Warren C. Laird visited his brother, George P., and wife in this place Monday.
