Communicated

The ladies of the Art Club wish through the columns of the RECORDER to thank the gentlemen who attended the Leap Year Ball and so generously allowed themselves to be fined before the Judge of the Kangaroo court. The fines of the culprits who were arrested netted a tidy little sum, which helped to "keep the ball rolling." Perhaps the laws of the court seemed severe to some of the bashful youths who shrank from the publicity of arrest and so were obliged to remain in one chair longer than they wished. If so, the ladies wish to beg pardon for their cruelty, and promise that such laws will not be used again, that is, after Leap Year is over.
