

CAKE WINS WITH GOOD MARGIN IN THE STATE

News of the Primary Election to Nominate State, District County and Precinct Officials.

THE CANDIDATES WILL ABIDE BY THE EXPRESSION GIVEN AT THE PRIMARIES

H. M. Cake was nominated by the republicans of Oregon over C. W. Fulton, for the United States senate, by a majority that may run up to 3,000. Cake carried Baker, Clakamas, Columbia, Douglas, Jackson, Lake, Linn, Marion, Multnomah, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Wasco, Washington and Yamhill counties. Fulton carried Benton, Clatsop, Coos, Crook, Curry, Gilliam, Grant, Josephine, Klamath, Lane, Malheur, Morrow, Polk, Sherman and Tillamook counties, but Cake's majorities in the counties named are much larger than Fulton's. Clatsop, his home county, gave an almost unanimous vote for Oregon's senior senator to succeed himself.

Hawley for congress and Bean for supreme court justice, both to succeed themselves in those respective positions, were nominated without opposition. The democratic State Central committee previous to the election sent out circular advice to the members of their faithful, instructing an endorsement of Judge Bean and so he is now the democrat as well as the republican nominee for that office. Baily beat Reid for dairy commissioner in every county in the state. Ellis for congress in the Second district, defeated both Shepard and Geer by big majorities. In the Second district C. B. Aitchison was nominated by a close margin over W. H. Hurlbut. In the First district a close contest between Carter and Campbell, results probably in the nomination of Carter by a very narrow margin. A majority of Statement No. 1 candidates for the legislature were nominated, although two in Multnomah county, a complete delegation from Coos and Curry counties and several isolated instances from other counties are against it.

Nonofficial reports from over the county indicate the nomination by the republicans of Chase for senator and Kinney in the lower house. Brown carried every county in the district over Cardwell; Dulley beat Lee; Bunch won over Goetz by a close fight; Smith by a close margin over Perrott is nominated for sheriff; Dement, an easy winner for county commissioner, and Medley beat Hansen for assessor.

Following is the vote cast in Bandon precinct in the republican primaries:

- For Senator—Cake, 47; Fulton, 55.
- For Congress—Hawley, 96.

Interest in community publicity reached a climax in Portland last week when the eighty prizes offered by the Portland commercial club for articles on the Pacific Northwest printed in papers outside of Oregon and Washington, were awarded and the money distributed the same day. The judges were James F. Ewing of Portland Academy, J. F. Tyler, news editor of the Oregon Journal, and W. J. Cuddy, editor of the Weekly Oregonian, and they have spent more than two and a half months in reading a million words submitted to them by various contestants. Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Seventh Baptist church of Baltimore, Maryland, was winner of the grand prize of $1,000. He

- Geo. P. Topping, R. E. Gardner and R. H. Rosa, were respectively named for justice of the peace, constable, and county central committeemen. Judge Topping received the highest vote cast for any candidate in the precinct—98.

The Democrats of this precinct and of the county nominated Beddilion for Representative, Gage for sheriff, Thrift for assessor and I. T. Weekly for county commissioner. C. R. Wade received the nomination for justice of the peace and Sol Culver for county central committeeman from Bandon.

A. G. Hoyt for United States Senator, Chris Rasmussen for dairy and food commissioner, R. C. Lyons for coroner and John Mott for constable, each received a few complimentary votes.

The Oregonian reports Senator Fulton to have expressed himself as willing to abide by the will of the primaries, stating that he will return to private life. The Senator feels very bitter, however, toward those who being members of the opposition party, registered as republicans to compass his defeat.

F. N. Perkins announces that he will abide by the will of the primaries and as he stated before that date, he will not under any circumstances, be an independent candidate.

Coroner was not voted for except to write in names and Dr. Mingus received a majority. Complimentary mention was made of Doctors Perkins and Houston.

was in Portland last summer for a short visit. Miss Mateel Howe, of Portland, was awarded the second prize of $500. Articles were in competition from every state in the Union, and almost every state had its representative among the prize winners.

Thousands of copies of the capital prize article written by Rev. John Straton, of Baltimore, will be circulated throughout the U. S., Canada, Mexico and Europe. This $5000 prize contest of the Portland Commercial Club is generally conceded to be one of the most successful advertising projects ever attempted.

The $100 prize offer made by the Columbia Steel Co. of Portland, through the Oregon Development league, for sand testing 98 per cent pure silica and free from iron oxides, for use in steel manufacturing, excited tremendous interest throughout Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho and Montana. Hundreds of samples were received. Some of the sand was too fine, some too coarse, the grains of some were too angular, while other samples were clay or building sand and not silica at all. Some exceptionally promising samples came from the Inland Empire, but though making a splendid analysis they failed to make good when put to actual test in the steel foundry. The prize money is still waiting for a winner.

Death Was On His Heels

Jesse P. Morris, of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. ## MURDER AND SUICIDE AT MARSHFIELD

John Grills Shoots Ora Roby, His Sweetheart, Last Thursday.

LETTER TO MOTHER EXPLAINS DEED

John Grills of Marshfield shot and killed Ora Roby, his sweetheart, in that city Thursday night of last week and then killed himself.

The crime was due to jealousy and had been planned ahead as a letter to his mother showed. He had threatened the girl several times previously. The double murder occurred after a dance when Miss Roby is presumed to have stated that she would end her acquaintance with Grills. Both parties were of well respected families and well known on the bay.

The Harbor gives the following account of the affair:

The horrible tragedy which shocked this community even as much as it did Marshfield, because of Miss Roby's popularity among wide acquaintance in this city where the family resided for several months last year, occurred near the race track stables near the home of the girl about midnight Wednesday.

Miss Roby in company with her brother had gone to the skating rink early in the evening where she was seen by numbers of her friends enjoying the sport. Among the number that skated with her was Dan Starr, the only witness to the shooting later.

It was not observed that John Grills was present and where the pair met is not known. They came into a confectionery store about 11 o'clock where Grills bought a box of candy and leaving Miss Roby in the front room passed into a rear apartment where he bade goodbye to some of his friends. He had been drinking and when he bade goodbye and displayed a 38 caliber revolver they passed the incident off lightly.

Dan Starr when returning home at midnight to the stables where he had charge of some horses was about 200 yards away when the first shot was fired and the screams of the girl caused him to hurry forward. He passed the bodies and roused several people who returned to the scene, where Grills was found lying on the walk and the girl close beside it. Both were dead, the bullets having penetrated the heart of each.

Grills was a foundryman and had been working in Marshfield at that labor. He was a step-son of the late Dr. Murphy and lived with his mother, Mrs. Murphy, his sisters, Mrs. Wm. Wade and Mary Grills. He was born at Roseburg and came to Marshfield from Salem. Two sisters, one at Salem and one at Gardiner, also survive him.

Ora Roby is the daughter of S. C. Roby who resides near the Fairground. The family moved from Salem to this city last September where the girl became well known among the young people and made many friends, a few months later they moved to Marshfield. She had resided at home and yesterday started to work in the Taylor candy store. She is survived by her parents, a twin brother, Orley, and two other younger brothers, Orton and Alonzo.

Dr. E. Mingus, the Coos county coroner, impounded a jury consisting of Chas. A. Howard, H. J. Len-den, Ed R. Colgan, Chas W. McCulloch, L. W. Traver and Geo. Thomason. The witnesses they called were:

Moses E. McDonald, Cecil Holland, Jack Davis, Julius Egenoff, Dan Starr, James E. Wall, August Frizeen, Chas. LaChapelle, M. H. Nay, Dr. J. T. McCormac, J. T. Lewis and Orley Roby.

All testified substantially to the facts set forth. Frizeen and LaChapelle live on Broadway, a block from the scene of the tragedy, and Nay at the race track, were among the first on the ground. Wall telephoned to Marshall Carter and accompanied the officer to the scene about twenty minutes after the last shot was fired.

Dr. E. Mingus, was also called and the bodies removed to J. T. Lewis' parlors and attracted a great crowd.

After completing the investigation, the coroner's jury returned two verdicts. The first in the case of the girl, finding that she came to her death from a wound inflicted by John Grills, the crime being committed through jealousy. In the case of the man, they found he had come to his death at his own hands, the wound being inflicted with suicidal intent.

Grills had been violently in love with the girl and had repeatedly threatened her unless she would marry him which she refused to do because of their short acquaintance, only two months. She maintaining that she would not marry any man without a year's acquaintanceship. Grills had insisted that she refuse to go any place with anyone but him which she also refused to comply with and her subsequent actions drove him to the desperate deed. The deed was evidently the result of a diabolical plan, the fruit of a mind crazed by jealousy, for in Grills' coat a letter addressed to his mother was found which read as follows:

"Well, Mamma, I had to do it. Yes, I told her I would do it and I meant it. You mustn't take it too hard for I couldn't help it. She drove me to it. She will not bother anybody else. There isn't much to do in town. I know I have been a bad boy but it is all over now. She has received her reward. I could not live and see anybody else have her. I know I am crazy but I cannot help it. I never was any good and I would be worse in the future. Give my love to all the girls and tell them why I did it. She promised me, then she tried to shakk me but she couldn't. If I can't have her, nobody else will. Tell Bill to get that bill from Fred and add $6 to it for Cecil Holland. But find out what he wants first and then add $1 for the Pioneer Hardware Store. Pay bearer 75 cents for hauling the boat. Then add what he thinks it is worth and give it to Jack.

Goodbye,
JOHN.
