THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1908

EVERYBODY here uses buttermilk these days since the new creamery started up; housekeepers use it to bake with; saloons dispense it to the thirsty; hotels serve it at meals and the whole town revels in a reign of buttermilk.

SOUTH of Bandon, and close enough to be easily accessible to town, lies the Four Mile and Two Mile Country. A region covered with timber and grass, soil of the richest, measureless quantities of pure spring water. This is one of the greatest opportunities for the landless citizen remaining in the whole country today. Homesteads were settled upon years ago on these little rivers and their owners are now rich. Land just as good, with just as much timber and water, remain to be taken and the lucky men who will take them and stay with them for a few years will reap a competence therefrom. Dairying and stock raising are, as yet the principal industries, but fruit raising is rapidly coming to the front. Many recent settlers are planting orchards of apple trees and miscellaneous fruits. Settlers are pouring into this splendid region, which is treble valuable, on account of its proximity to Bandon, and it is only a question of a little time when government land for settlers will all be taken there and these brush homesteads will all be splendid farms and ranches, like those of the few old settlers who have amassed fortunes there. New roads are being built to Bandon and newer and better houses are springing up. Barns and fences, like mushroom growth appear all over the country on ranches, that without a fence or building or cleared field of any kind, have grazed herds of cattle for years, winter and summer. No feeding is necessary in this climate and the grass is always green. No shelter is required for stock, in this most even climate in the world. Twenty-five homesteads have been entered there within the past three months.

Education Here and Elsewhere.

We are not accustomed to think of the great and growing West as being hampered by a spirit of unprogressive niggardliness fatal to achievement. Especially would we little expect to find such a sentiment there exhibited against the great cause of popular education. It is astonishing therefore to read that the action of the last Oregon legislature in appropriating $125,000 for the support of the State university has aroused stubborn opposition among certain classes in that State, who have invoked the referendum privilege enjoyed in that commonwealth and have succeeded in tying up the land upon which the university depends until next June, when will occur the State election, at which time the voters of Oregon will pass judgment upon the matter and either accept or reject the action of the State legislature.

Until the last session of the Oregon legislature increased the amount, the university had been struggling along on a paltry appropriation of $47,500 a year—for the support of an institution having 400 students, more than half of whom are boys working their way through. The members of the faculty have been miserably paid. In consequence of all these crippling influences, Oregon has borne, the distinction of sending more of her sons outside of the State to be educated than any other commonwealth in the union, in proportion to population—a condition that is always to be deplored.

South Carolina, we are ashamed to say, was once possessed of this same Oregon spirit of parsimony that allowed its institutions of learning to suffer slow starvation, but this unhappy time has passed and South Carolinians today have cause to be proud of the cordial support that the people of the State through the legislature accord to the demands of the higher education as well as the common schools.

We should like to call the attention of those who have regarded the the South as negligent and unmindful of education to this illuminating contrast between South Carolina and Oregon. And we wish for Oregon the dawning of a better day, characterized by a more liberal sentiment toward a cause that is the foundation of all national progress and human achievement.—"The Star" Columbia, South Carolina.

District Fair News

R. C. Dement, one of the commissioners of the Southern Oregon district fair, has been in Marshfield helping to arrange a premium list for the coming exhibition at Marshfield on the 26th to 29th of August. Mr. Dement states that the premiums offered will be most liberal and should furnish inspiration to the people of this section to plan how to raise mammoth vegetables, fine fruits and grains for exhibition. It is said that the premiums given this year will be double those offered when the fair was held outside, and in some instances more than double. As an instance a prize of $25 is offered for an exhibit of Gravenstine apples, which will be about the only apple on the market at that season and fruit growers can well afford to pick out their finest apples and see to their development for competition. There will be good premiums for dairy products, vegetables, fruit, grain, beets, corn, cow feed, etc. and arrangements have been made to give a premium for anything worth exhibiting. If the premiums are not provided for in the regular list, special premiums will be offered. It has been decided not to offer premiums on grade bulls, but good prices will be given for thoroughbreds and for both thoroughbred and grade cows and heifers. It is hoped that this will encourage the introduction of thoroughbred sires for the purpose of building up the dairy herds. Purses amounting to about $1,000 will be offered for the speed program and it is expected that speedy track animals from all parts of the coast will be attracted to the fair.

Prosper Items

The Hugh Hogan is loading at the Prosper Mill.

The Sausalito is loading at Lyons and Johnson's mill.

There will be a dance Saturday night at the Prosper hall.

The Schr. Advance loaded at Randolph Mill and also at Lyons and Johnson's.

It is reported that the Randolph mill closes down this week for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hicking will leave on the Elizabeth for San Francisco where they expect to witness the arrival of the fleet.

A number of Prosperites will journey to Bandon today to witness the launching of the Daisy and to participate in the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Piper of North Bend are spending the week with Mrs. Jas. Nowlin; their daughter Mrs. Elliott is visiting relatives down the coast.

Mrs. R. E. Persbaker and daughter, Miss Ruby and Mrs. S. W. Fahy with her little girl Beulah left last Saturday, via Roseburg, for San Francisco. They expect to be gone about a month.

E. Heuckendorff's ship yard is again the busy place it was last summer and they already have the frame up for the large sea-going barge which is being built for the Tillamook.

The St. Paul team of the American Association will turn Terry McKune back to the Spokane team of the Pacific Northwest league, but the chances are he will report to Santa Cruz. The Northern club will have to pay a fine of $100 for Terry for playing outlaw ball before he can join them and this they do not feel like doing.—S. F. Examiner, April 17th.
