Idle Land and Poor People

It has been said that even in this vastly rich and resourceful country, where the land has been as yet only fractionally utilized, the number of able-bodied people that are pitifully poor is great. One investigator asserts that 10,000,000 people, one-eighth of the whole population, are in a condition of what may be described as want, of pinching poverty. Many of these are so through their own fault, through persistent bad habits, but a large proportion are so because they cannot help themselves, never had a chance.

Yet there is in the aggregate a vast area of vacant or unused land, that would support millions of people. And this is so even in the eastern as well as in the western part of the country. Reliable statistics show that within a hundred miles of New York city, where there is a very large poverty-stricken population, there are hundreds of abandoned farms with thousands of acres of idle land. Not only is this true, but within the territory named there are allowed to go to waste each year thousands of bushels of apples, garden stuff and other produce, much of it being left to rot on the ground. This is true to a greater or less extent of every large city, and even within the limits of most cities are large areas, in the aggregate, of waste lands, within almost a stone's throw of poverty-stricken people.

There should be, and we believe that ere long there will be, greater and more effectual efforts to bring landless and poor people and idle lands together, to the great benefit not only of these people but of society as a whole. The marvelous possibilities of the millions of acres of vacant arable, productive lands are beginning to be dimly realized, and though they are privately owned, pressure of public opinion may do much to bring them into use. Besides, small farms and intensive farming are coming more and more into vogue, and the "homecroft" gospel is spreading.

We hear something of "over-production," but there will never be any overproduction of the necessaries of life produced from the soil as long as millions have not enough to eat and wear. The problem is to help those people to become able to eat and wear all they need.—Journal.

THINKS IT SAVED HIS LIFE

Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and I would no more be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs, it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at Lowe's Drug store 50 c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Tall Wheat

T. B. Wheeler has on display in his office window a specimen of wheat grown on his ranch. The wheat is six feet tall and well filled, and the very finest quality. Mr. Wheeler has three acres of this kind of wheat and it was grown on ground that was never plowed, but the seed was sown on top of the ground and beat in by the rain.

This certainly is evidence that Coos county cannot be excelled as a wheat producing country.

BADLY SPRAINED ANKLE CURED

Three years ago our daughter sprained her ankle and had been suffering terribly for two days and nights—had not slept a minute. Mr. Stallings, of Butler, Tenn., told us of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We went to the store that night and got a bottle of it and bathed her ankle two or three times and she went to sleep and had a good night's rest. The next morning she was much better and in a short time could walk around and had no more trouble with her ankle.—E. M. Brummit, Hampton, Tenn. 5 and 50 cent sizes for sale by C. Y. Lowe.

School For Waiters.

It is often a matter of wonder why foreign waiters are preferred to English ones even in English hotels. The reason is a very simple one. The foreigner is a far better waiter. His aim is not always to remain a waiter, but to rise in the hotel business to a higher position. In Lausanne there is a school for waiters. They are taught there foreign languages and not only to wait well, but everything else connected with the working of a hotel.—London Truth.
