DEFIES ATTACK.

The Wonderful Strong Room Under the Bank of England.

There is a close analogy between the struggle of the locksmith against the burglar and the contest between armor plate and big guns. Time after time has the locksmith exhausted his ingenuity in devising apparently impenetrable chambers, and again and again have the marvelous skill and patience of the burglar foiled his efforts.

A hundred years ago the Bank of England kept its cash and securities in a great oak box clamped with iron. From this the strong room of today, constructed of armor plate, has been gradually evolved.

If a mob overcame the guards and "watch clerks" at the Bank of England, they could not possibly penetrate into the vaults, for their passage would be blocked by large reservoirs of water. The strong room here is one of the largest in the world. The foundation, sixty-six feet below street level, is a bed of concrete twenty feet thick.

Above this concrete is a lake seven feet deep, and above that thick plates of iron specially manufactured to resist both skill and force. Any one attempting an entrance from above would find a similar bed of concrete, a similar lake and similar plates of iron. The walls are impenetrable, while the doors are one foot thick, weigh four tons each and are made absolutely undrillable.

Many years ago, when the strong room was less rigorously protected, the directors were startled one morning by a letter from a man who said he had been in the vault.

Some days later a heavy chest, which had been abstracted from the "treasury," was returned to the bank by the writer of the letter, who had gained entrance from the sewers. He was rewarded and given a pension for life.

In the safe deposit, which has become a necessary adjunct of modern life, are to be found the most modern developments in strong room construction. One of the largest in London, which cost $1,000,000, consists of thirty-two great vaults, whose doors have no locks and are worked by hydraulic power.

When the doors are closed the mechanism is disconnected, and any one attempting to connect it would release 50,000 gallons of water and flood the place from floor to ceiling, although the strong rooms would remain absolutely dry. Many and varied are the valuables stored in these treasure houses.

At another London depository the writer was shown a room which contained $150,000,000 worth of securities. The next contained a collection of rare books worth $10,000 each, and another held a collection of old china. In a fourth were paintings worth $500,000, and a fifth contained tapestries which could not be duplicated for $250,000.—London Telegraph.

Two Lincoln Stories.

In 1864 some gentlemen who had just returned from a trip through the west visited Washington and went to call on Lincoln. During their visit one of the men spoke of a body of water in Nebraska which bore an Indian name.

"I cannot recall the name now," he said in a vexed tone, "but it signified 'weeping water.'"

President Lincoln instantly responded:

"As 'laughing water,' according to Longfellow, is 'Minnehaha,' this evidently should be 'Minneboohoo.'"

On another occasion an Englishman calling at the White House was descanting to President Lincoln, who had never been abroad, upon the difference between Englishmen and Americans.

"Great difference in some respects," he said, "great difference! You Americans do things that an Englishman would never think of doing. Now, for instance, an English gentleman would never think of blacking his own boots."

"Ah, indeed!" said President Lincoln quietly. "Whose would he black?"

Why He Was There.

She said it was a shame, an outrage. She was a timid, reserved girl, who gave no man encouragement to flirt, yet—

"There is that man," she said, "bothering the very life out of me. I don't know how many times he has seen me in the street somewhere and has followed me right up to the door. The next time he annoys me I shall get the hallboy to order him away."

She had occasion to speak to the hallboy the next evening.

"Do you see that man in the vestibule lighting a cigar?" she said. "I wish you would order him away."

"I can't," said the boy.

"But you must," she said angrily. "He has no business to be hanging around here."

"Pardon me, but he has business here," said the boy. "He lives on the third floor."—New York Press.

GRANULATED SORE EYES CURED

"For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes, says Martin Boyd of Henrietta, Ky. "In February 1903, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble since." This salve is for sale by C. Y. Lowe.

BOY'S LIFE SALED

My little boy, four years old, had a severe attack of dysentery. We had two physicians; both of them gave him up. We then gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea remedy which cured him and believe that saved his life.—William H. Strolling, Carbon Hill, Ala. There is no doubt but this remedy saves the lives of many children each year. Give it with castor oil according to the plain printed directions and a cure is certain. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

OVER THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

In 1872 there was a great deal of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum. It was at this time that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was first brought into use. It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment, and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended over every part of the United States and to many foreign countries Nine druggists out of ten will recommend it when their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that may pay them a greater profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.
