THURSDAY.....September 3, 1908

LAST week H. J. Crippen, who has been in charge of the Coquille Valley Sentinel for the past year, gave his valedictory to the public and severed connection with that paper, and we understand that Brother Scotten, the well known newspaper man, will edit the paper from this time on. Mr. Crippen says in his valedictory that Mr. Dodge, the proprietor, will make a number of improvements to the office, and as consequence the paper which is already a credit to Coquille, will be even better in the future. Coquille has an advantage over other county towns as a newspaper field from the fact that it is the county seat town, and the Sentinel management will no doubt improve the opportunity of this advantage even more in the future than they have in the past. We wish for the Sentinel continued prosperity, and knowing the progressiveness of Mr. Dodge and Mr. Scotten, as we do, we feel that it goes without saying that the enterprise will continue to be successful.

THERE are people in this world who are so bent on making money that they forget all the real pleasures of life and become so wrapped up in their mercenary greed that they dwarf their own very existence. It is alright, in fact, the proper thing to make all the money we can, so long as it does not interfere with the larger things of life. In a place like Coos County, there is no need for this greed of money making for all we need to do here is to work at a moderate gait and the development of the country will make us rich in the world's goods. The proper thing to do is to be contented and happy, and improve our opportunities for advancement as they come one by one.

FROM a financial point of view and for making money, Bandon and vicinity is all that anyone could ask for, but there are needs in other lines that demand early attention. We have a good public school system, and are now erecting a fine new school building that will be a credit to the town and community. This is all good and the enterprise of the people is to be congratulated for the good work. One thing, however, that we still need is a good public library. Many towns much smaller than this one have large public libraries that are a credit to them, and while it might not be practicable to take up the public library question here at this time, yet the time is not far distant when it must be done, if we would keep in touch with the times.

About Coos Bay Line

Dr. E. Mingus, chairman of the recent meeting of Coos Bay citizens and commercial and municipal representatives to invite E. H. Harriman to visit Coos Bay, has received the following self explanatory telegram from E. E. Calvin of San Francisco, vice-president and general manager of the Harriman lines in this section:

Referring to my letter of August 28th and yours of August 6th, Mr. Harriman's present plans do not contemplate visiting Coos Bay. He advises, however, he will be pleased to meet your committee at either Roseburg, Drain or Portland and asks that you designate the place. His present expectations are to leave Pelican, September 3d. Will advise you definitely by wire when he leaves and should arrive at appointed meeting place. Please say where it will be most convenient for your committee to meet Mr. Harriman."

Dr. E. Mingus after consulting some of the representative ones here, especially the members of the committee selected to confer with Mr. Harriman, has wired Mr. Calvin that Roseburg would be the most desirable point for the conference.

The committee selected to confer with Mr. Harriman consisted of C. A. Smith, Dr. E. E. Straw, L. J. Simpson, C. J. Millis and W. P. Evans. Mr. Evans' name was added to the committee at the request of the North Bend Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Smith is now in the east and will not be able to make the trip, but J. E. Oren or A. H. Powers will probably act in his place.

Mr. Calvin's letter of the 28th has not yet reached here.

The entire railroad matter will probably be gone over at the conference and a definite statement be made by Harriman concerning his intentions regarding the completion of the Drain Coos Bay line.—Times.

Coos County Won

In its account of the baseball games of the Marchmont races at Wedderburn, the Radium has the following to say:

The ball games between the teams of Del Norte county and Coos county was not the least interesting of the four days' amusement. Coos county carried off the honors by winning two games out of three, and thus upheld Oregon athletics. These games were played on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, while the game arranged for Thursday was called off by reasons of the preparations for departure. The players generally attended the ball at Gold Beach, the previous evening, and were kept up all night waiting for a boat to bring them across the river and were accordingly played out and willing to call the game off.

The first day's game resulted in a score of 2 to 1 in favor of Ben Schnyler's aggregation. That of Tuesday went to manager Westbrook's bunch by the large score of 14 to 7. Coos county came back on Wednesday and won easily 10 to 3.

Quaint Rents.

It would fill a book to cite the half of the quaint rents by which estates fair and goodly were granted to certain families. The Duke of Atholl holds certain possessions conditionally on his supplying a white rose upon the sovereign visiting him. Queen Victoria and her consort visited him years ago, when roses did not bloom in the garden and dire was the difficulty in procuring a couple. Evidently they did not then know much about rose culture under glass. A trickler rent was that upon which the Munros of Foulis held their property. It was that a snowball should be presented upon any day of the year it was demanded. Happily for the owner, snow lies in the form of a glacier in the chasms of Ben Wyvis all the year round, and there seems no danger of forfeiture by failure of the quit rent.—Dundee Advertiser.

HOW TO GET STRONG

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to become strong: He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it is my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach trouble, liver and kidney complaints. Sold under guarantee at Lowe's Drug Store, 20c.

Kodol will, without doubt, make your stomach strong and will at most instantly relieve you of the symptoms of indigestion. It will do this because it is made up of the natural digestive juices of the stomach so combined that it completely digests the food just as the stomach will do it, so you see Kodol can't fail to help you and help you promptly. It is sold here by Bandon Drug Co.

CRAFTY TOM BYRNES.

How He Kept an Unseen Eye on a Newspaper Reporter.

When Thomas Byrnes was the celebrated police inspector of the New York detective force he occupied a queer suit of rooms in one corner of the old marble police headquarters in Mulberry street. It was always a place of mystery. The inspector sat at a flat table at one end of the room. It was frequently covered with papers. On the walls, in glass cases, were odds and ends of criminology—bits of rope that had hanged notorious murderers, black caps, revolvers that had figured in infamous cases and other depressing objects.

One day the inspector left a new reporter at his table and went into another room. He was gone half an hour. When he came back the reporter said:

"Inspector, did you have me watched while you were gone?"

"No. Why?"

"There are some pretty interesting papers on your desk, aren't there?"

"Nothing of any great value. Why do you ask?"

"What was to prevent my reading some of those letters and getting a mighty good story for my paper?" asked the reporter.

"Two reasons," answered the inspector. "In the first place, I never leave a scrap of paper on my desk that the whole world is not welcome to read; secondly, you could not have touched a sheet without my knowing it. Look at that penholder," pointing to a cheap affair laid carelessly across a bundle of papers. "Notice the direction in which it points. One end points at that doorknob and the other at that black cap. Now, you never would have noticed that, but I did before leaving the room, and if you had touched a single paper you would have displaced that penholder, and I would have known it."

It Served a Purpose.

At the top of the stairway in the Grigson dwelling there was a board that emitted a loud creak whenever anybody stepped on it. Mr. Grigson was always intending to "have the thing fixed," but never did it, and by common consent the members of the family usually stepped over it, particularly when the head of the family had gone to bed.

One night, very late, just as Mr. Grigson was dropping off to sleep, somebody stepped on that board, and it gave forth its customary loud protest.

"There you go again!" he angrily called out. "That's you this time, John! Pretty time of night for you to be getting to bed!"

John, the eldest son, made no response, but instead there was a rush and a jump down the stairs that brought the whole household into the hall just in time to hear the front door slam. A hurried investigation disclosed a bag of valuables which a frightened burglar had left.

The board still squeaks.—Youth's Companion.

Wanted Her Fish.

He had an air of benevolence and prosperity and was very nicely dressed, and, moreover, he had taken a first class ticket. But he was an old gentleman, and he had taken longer to reach the station than he expected. The train was on the move, so he jumped into the nearest carriage, a third.

Down he sat beside a little girl, and presently he observed that she was glancing uncomfortably at him and looking uneasy, and it dawned upon him that he was sitting on her newspaper.

"Here," he said, pulling the paper from under him and handing it to her. "I'm sorry."

The little girl did not look quite satisfied, but she said nothing till, half an hour later, the train drew up at her station.

"Please, sir," she then inquired meekly, "may I have my fried fish? It came out of the paper, and you are sitting on it."—London Mail.

Assorting the Bunch.

"It's a great help to be able to size up the men you come in contact with," said a business man to his son, "but it's more important still that you should first know yourself. For instance, a noisy bunch tacked out of their club late one night and up the street. They stopped in front of an imposing residence. After considerable discussion one of them advanced and pounded on the door. A woman stuck her head out of a second story window and demanded, none too sweetly, 'What do you want?' 'Is this the residence of Mr. Shmith?' inquired the man on the steps, with an elaborate bow. 'It is. What do you want?' 'Is it possible I have the honor shepakin' to Missus Shmith?' 'Yes. What do you want?' 'Dear Missus Shmith! Good Missus Shmith! Will you—'
