THE TALK OF THE TOWN

R. E. L. Bedillion went to San Francisco on business for the woolen mill.

A. E. Hadsall has his new house, entirely completed now and is comfortably situated with his family in the same.

Two firemen on the Fifield were brought up before Judge Topping Tuesday morning and fined $5 and $7 for fighting.

Joe McCord went down to San Francisco on the Elizabeth to help bring up the new tug, which is to be towed to this place by the Elizabeth on her next trip.

Land for sale in small tracts near own. A. Haberly.

As it is necessary for Rev. Horsfall to remain in Marshfield over Sunday there will be no Episcopal services here that day. Rev. Horsfall will hold services here the first Sunday in the new year.

The property of D. E. Mas which was stored in the Blackerby building, was sold at sheriff sale Saturday, by Deputy Sheriff Blackerby. There were a good many articles and the entire lot brought about $106.00.

Christmas candies in fancy boxes at the Bandon Drug Co.

Marion Hodges' of Proseer was in Bandon last Saturday and while here came in and renewed his faith in the RECORDER for another year. He reports business very good at Prosper. Mr. Hodges has recently bought a ranch near that place.

The RECORDER is glad to announce that the disgraceful house which has been running in Bandon for the past few months has been broken up and we hope with all other good citizens that another one will never be allowed to get started in this city.

High grade kodaks audsupplies for sale by C. Y. Lowe.

R. W. Boyle has his show window decorated up in a manner that is decidedly suggestive of the Christmas time, and it is attracting a great deal of attention around town. Mr. Boyle is alive to his opportunities as a business man, and always believes in keeping up with the times. He has done a fine business in holiday goods and has a stock that is up to the best to be found in any city. Bandon people who are desirous of having the best the market affords do not need to go elsewhere to get it as our home merchants in all lines are awake to the interests of the public and keep the best in stock at the lowest prices.

The show window in F. H. Van Norden's jewelry store gives one the real inspiration of Christmas with its beautiful Christmas tree, decorated in a manner too grand for description. The window on the other side of the door is also decorated in the real Christmas style and shows that the proprietor of the store believes in having things up to date, and is an artist in the line of decorating. Mr. Van Norden has been doing a big business this fall, and the coupon ticket scheme by which he is giving away a $50.00 diamond ring, is proving to be a big drawing card, and besides he has a stock of goods that cannot be excelled.

While away from home last Sunday, some one went into the home of Mrs. Clara Canterbury, a poor widow woman, and stole a hand mirror valued at $1.50 and two dolls belonging to her children. Anyone who would be so base as to steal articles of that kind, especially from a poor widow and her children, would be low enough to do almost anything. We deplore the fact that we have any citizens of Bandon or vicinity that would do such a trick, but we hope the guilty parties, whoever they may be, will be so troubled in conscience that they will never do such a thing again and we also hope that they will be kind enough to send their articles back to the owners. If they do not want to be found out they might return them by mail, and perhaps there will be nothing further said about the matter.

There will be a Christmas tree, appropriate services and a short program at the Episcopal Church this evening between the hours of 5 and six.

The repairs for the steamer Dispatch arrived on the last Elizabeth and are now in tact and the Dispatch has resumed her regular run, making the round trip between here and Coquille every day and carrying the mail.

The Eastern Star lodge elected officers at their last meeting as follows: Mrs. C. Kinn, W. M.; C. R. Wade, W. P.; Mrs. Clara Snyder, A. M.; Mrs. Boyle, Con; Mrs. Chas. Martin, A. Gon; Mrs. Anna Craine, Sec; J. W. Mast, Treas.

If you are having a Christmas dinner of any kind let us know about it and we will publish it next week. We want to get the news, and if our friends will only help us we can succeed, but it is rather hard to find out everything that is going on unless people tell us about their doings.

Making Caricatures.

The way in which some artists can distort features without making them unrecognizable is certainly very remarkable. Thomas Nast possessed this faculty to an extraordinary degree, and he had a very peculiar way of adding new faces to his mental photograph gallery. When a fresh subject would arise in politics, for instance, he would invent some pretext to call upon him at his office or house and hold him in conversation as long as possible, studying his features. When he took his departure he would purposely leave his cane. Once outside, Nast would make a hasty pencil sketch on a card and would usually find that his memory was deficient as to some detail. He would then return, ostensibly for the cane, and another look at the victim would enable him to perfect his sketch. After that he had the man forever. When Joe Keppier was alive he used to make frequent trips to Washington for the purpose of seeing statesmen whom he wanted to draw. He was very clever at catching likenesses and scarcely ever referred to a photograph.

A Wonderful Bird.

One day a wonderful bird tapped at the window of Mrs. Nansen's (wife of the famous arctic explorer) home at Christiana. Instantly the window was opened, and in another moment she covered the little messenger with kisses and caresses. The carrier pigeon had been away from the cottage thirty long months, but it had not forgotten the way home. It brought a note from Nansen, stating that all was going well with him and his expedition in the polar region. Nansen had fastened a message to the bird and turned it loose. The frail courier darted out into the blizzardly air. It flew like an arrow over a thousand miles of frozen waste and then sped forward over another thousand miles of ocean and plains and forests and one morning entered the window of the waiting mistress and delivered the message which she had been awaiting so anxiously.

Would Let Folks Know It.

Somebody sent this to the society editor and made affidavit that it really happened.

Here it is: They were out at an afternoon card party. A stout woman dropped a card to the floor. "Would you be so kind as to pick up that card for me?" she inquired of the little woman at her right.

"Certainly," said the accommodating woman at the right, picking up the card.

"You see," explained the stout woman apologetically, "I've got on a brand new fifty dollar corset, and I'm afraid I'll strain it if I lean over."

"Hum!" commented the other woman enviously. "If I had a fifty dollar corset I'd wear it on the outside. I really would."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Crazy.

"We find the prisoner not guilty by reason of insanity."

"But the plea was not that of insanity," remarked the court.

"That's just the point we made," rejoined the foreman. "We decided that any man who didn't have sense enough to know that an insanity plea was the proper plea must be crazy."—Philadelphia Ledger.

He Was Sensitive.

Blobbs—"You're pretty much stuck on Miss Gobbs, aren't you, old man?" Hobbs—"I was once, but after what she said to me last night I'm not going to pay any more attention to her. Blobbs—"Gee! What did she say?" Hobbs—"No!"—Cleveland Leader.

Freshman Mathematics.

Freshly—"Professor, is it ever possible to take the greater from the less?" "There is a pretty close approach to it when the greater is taken out of freshman!"—Jewett Ledger.

Different in Books.

In the books this is the way they say it:

"Outside the wind moaned unceasingly, its voice now that of a child which sobs with itself in the night, now that of a woman who suffers her great pain alone, as women have suffered since life began, as women must suffer till life wears to its weary end. And mingled with the wailing of wind rain fell—fell heavily, intermittently, like tears wrung from souls of strong men."

Outside the books we say:
"It's raining."—Atchison Globe.

The Brakeman's Joke.

"Ran over a cow this morning up above Coffeyville," said the brakeman to a reporter.

"How did it happen?" asked the reporter.

"She was drinking out of a creek under a bridge," shouted the brakeman as he swung on to the last car and went grinning out of town.—Kansas City Times.

Brutel

Jimson—"Where's your wife? Haven't seen her often lately. Weed—"Oh, I sent her away on a little vacation. Jimson—"So? Where'd she go? Weed—"To the Thousand Isles. Jimson—"Stay long? Weed—"Yes. I told her to take a week to each island.—Judge.

A Saving Grace.

Florence—"I can't understand why Ethel married Mr. Gunson. He is old enough to be her father. Lawrence—"Yes, but he is rich enough to be her husband.—Exchange.

A Christmas Idea

What could be more practical and of more benefit than the gift of a scholarship in the MILLER-CLEAVER BUSINESS COLLEGE?

The young man or young woman who has a business education is entirely independent and can make his own way under any circumstances.

Parents can you do better than to give that boy or girl an opportunity to become equipped to earn a good salary at pleasant work with numerous chances for promotion.

Give us the student and we will see that he becomes a competent bookkeeper or stenographer, or both.

Make Your Paint Money Buy Satisfaction

PAINT satisfaction means the working—spreading—covering—lasting qualities of the paint. There's neither satisfaction nor economy in cheap paints—they crack and peel and blister—won't wear. And hand mixed lead-and-oil paint is little better. But your money buys unflinching satisfaction when you get "High Standard" Paint—it's made of best materials—and ground-and-mixed into a perfectly uniform paint-liquid by machinery. Then there's thirty-five years of paint-making experience back of it. That's why "High Standard" Paint covers more—and wears from two to four years longer than other paint, and costs less.

Low Brothers
High Standard
Liquid Paint
