Shields & Kennedy have just finished making a plow for E. Dyr that would make the farmers of the Mississippi valley and farther east bulge out their eyes like a crocodile. The plow has a 24 inch lay and is so constructed as to run most any depths one could wish, even to constructing an irrigation ditch if such were necessary. The dirt turning monster is what is commonly called a stump plow, but you could call it most anything from that on up to a ditching machine or a dredge for it would answer the purpose of most anything in that capacity. It is certainly an excellent piece of workmanship, and will serve a great purpose. The plow is supposed to be run by means of a donkey engine, as it is entirely too heavy to be handled with common, ordinary horses.

The Same Prices Prevail

As at all the Sherman, Clay & Co. stores. This means that you can buy a thoroughly well-made and well known piano for the wonderfully low price of $265 and upwards. Prices that—quality considered—are impossible for any small branch or local consignment dealer to make. Your security lies in the well-known policy of the Sherman, Clay & Co.'s organization, viz:

Reliability.
One price to all.
Superior quality of goods.
A "square deal" to everybody.
A small margin added to wholesale cost is our profit.
Easy terms of ownership is the explanation of our large and increasing business.

No fake sales or spasmodic reduction of prices in any of our line of stores.

It is recognized by this company that a very large percentage of pianos is sold on easy terms of ownership. It has been made a definite policy of this firm, therefore, to make these purchasing terms as convenient for the buyer as sound business principles will permit.

In line with its policy to sell none but the best, Sherman, Clay & Company is able to announce that every piano that it handles, of whatever price or quality, is the very best the price can buy. For instance, the Steinway, Everett, A. B. Chase, Conover, Packard, Ludwig, Eskey, Emerson, Kingsbury, Kurtzmann and Wellington.

By all Means

Attend this sale and learn how low the price and how easy the terms may be arranged and you may become the possessor of one of these beautiful Art instruments that will stand forever in your home as a source of pleasure and amusement.
