W. L. Crow of Portland, president of the Oregon Co and Portland representative of the Wheeler Real Estate Co., of this city, was in Bandon the latter part of last week, looking after business affairs. Mr. Crow has been successful in selling a large amount of Bandon property for the Wheeler Co.

CLEAR FIR AND CEDAR FINISH—CODY LUMBER CO.

Oregon is not the only place on the coast where it has rained this winter, even down in Suiny Santa Barbara they have had about thirty inches of rain since January 1st and the last time we heard from there it was still raining.

SIDEWALK PLANKING—CODY LUMBER CO.

A. N. Anes had the misfortune to get his leg badly wrenched last Thursday while shoeing a horse. The horse threw its weight on Mr. Anes, bending his leg to the floor and causing a bad sprain of the ligaments. He has been around on crutches part of the time since.

All dogs not protected by license by March 1st will be liable to be taken up and killed. F. A. Holman, Marshal. 6-3t

Seven stalwart young Swedes arrived in Portland last week direct from their northern home. They all came from one village and in a great many cases their sweethearts had preceded them. A prominent society belle of that city is quoted as saying that she wished she were a Swede, as they had lots more fun than she and her friends.

The high schools of Coquille and Myrtle Point held a debate Friday night of last week. The question was: Resolved that Greece has done more for the civilization of the world than Rome. Coquille won the debate, the decision being two to one in her favor.

CODY SHIPLAP—CODY LUMBER CO.

The S. S. Alliance did not stop at North Bend on her arrival from Portland Tuesday morning, but because the Plant was lying at the dock making a landing somewhat difficult, Captain Parsons pulled the ship on to Marshfield. A large number of people lined the dock waiting for her arrival in expecting to meet friends, and numerous complaints were heard on every side because of the action. Many Marshfield people were on the wharf, as is the custom, people coming from that city to meet their friends for the Alliance has never come into port without making this her first stopping place.—Harbor.

Nice line of flash light batteries. Standard Electric Co.

CODY FLOORING—BEST BRAND MADE—CODY LUMBER CO.

Thomas Anderson brought a bunch of radishes to this office last Saturday that he had grown out of doors this winter, and it might be added that this was not the only bunch he raised, as he brought a large number of bunches down to the hotel Gallier the same afternoon. The radishes were of the long red variety and were of exceedingly fine flavor. Mr. Anderson also has some cauliflower heading out and has other winter garden stuff that has grown right along regardless of the stormy weather, and they grew out doors too. If people in the east really knew what we have out here they would be running over each other to get here first.

R. H. Rosa Co.' spring lines are coming and being shelved.

It is reported that twenty-eight students have been forced to leave the University of Oregon at Eugene on account of failing to pass the required number of semester hours. Fifteen of these are freshmen. The severe requirements of the high student standards set by the faculty are responsible for the failure to pass examinations. Thus it will be seen that the university expects the students which go out from its halls to know something, and it is right they should.

Luther O. Lighthall, a laborer 74 years of age, and a resident of Ten Mile for the past sixteen years, was brought to Marshfield yesterday in a dying condition. He was taken to Mercy hospital at North Bend where he died at a late hour last night. Heart failure and general debility, due to his advanced age were the cause of his death. The aged man had been practically blind since childhood. J. B. Hibbard, connected with the Pettijohn-Nicols Company of this city, is a nephew of the deceased and a daughter Mrs. Hattie Goodin, resides in Cairo, Mich. The body will be held until the daughter is heard from.—Times.

ROUGH LUMBER—CODY LUMBER COMPANY.

E. R. Bascom, proprietor of the Bascom Cafe, has made friends with hundreds of the gulls that are plentiful around the Bay during the winter months when the hard storms of the coast drive them inland for food. Every day he throws them the scraps from the restaurant on the bank back of the castle building overlooking the bay. There are usually a score or two of them waiting his arrival and with his appearance hundreds flock to the place to get their meal. The screeching and fighting over the food is amusing to the old-timers as well as to the new-comers. Mr. Bascom is of the opinion that if these birds could be taught to lay hens eggs they would be a paying investment.—Coos Bay Harbor.

A. BRILLIANT SHAM.

Paris Under the Rule of the Third Napoleon.

Never was there so pleasure loving and so easy going a court, and seldom has there been one which was externally so splendid. The emperor spent money like water and thereby produced a prosperity for the time and with it popularity for the government. Hundreds of millions were lavished upon Paris, much of it being wasted, yet none the less with the result that the city really deserved its title la ville lumiere. In these days it has gone to seed and grown shabby, but in 1809 everything seemed fresh and new and brilliant and imposing. The city was rotten to the core. Yet the emperor's cent gardes were splendid soldiers to the eye. Society was no less demoralized, yet its gaiety was exhilarating. These were the days when it was said that good Americans when they die go to Paris. The emperor conferred distinction by recognizing any foreigner. The empress set the fashions for the world. It was all a sham, but it was thoroughly magnificent in its way. It can best be understood at present by reading Zola's early novels, by recalling some chapters of Daudet's "Le Nabab" and by remembering Jacques Offenbach, whose opera bouffe was the most characteristic production of an empire which itself was bouffe. That shallow and yet catchy music was a tonal sneer. Every libretto was a mock at the old time virtues of chastity and honor and courage.—Harry Thurston Peck in Bookman.

BELLINI'S BEST OPERA.

"Norma" Was Hissed at First—The Composer's Death.

Bellini was born in Sicily. He died at Puteaux, near Paris, under somewhat strange circumstances, in 1835. Baron Ayne d'Aquino wrote to a friend: "I rode out to call on him; but, as usual, the gardener of his house refused to let me in. Later on in the day there was a heavy storm, and at about 5 o'clock I once again tried to see him. As no one answered the bell I pushed against the gate, and it gave way, so I got into the house. I found Bellini on a bed, abandoned by all. At first I thought that he was asleep. When I touched his hand, it was quite cold, for he was dead."

A curious letter is published, written by him when his "Norma" was hissed at the first representation: "I have just returned from the Scala. Would you believe it? 'Norma' was hissed. I no longer recognized the friendly Milanese, who received with enthusiasm and delight the 'Il Pirata,' 'La Straniera,' 'La Sonnambula.' I have deceived myself. I have made a great mistake. All my progenitors have been wrong. All my expectations have been illusions. But, I assure you from my heart, there are morsels in it that I shall be proud if I can ever excel. Did not the Romans hiss 'L'Olympiade' of the divine Pergolesi? In all theatrical productions the public is the supreme judge. The public will reverse its judgment. It will recognize that 'Norma' is the best of my operas."—Argonaut.

Where Parliament Failed.

According to all accounts, the Cameron highlanders militia are a fine body of men physically. Not long ago four of them occupied the least crowded seat in a full compartment on a Scotland railway. Just as the train was moving off a diminutive little clergyman jumped into the compartment and tried to edge himself in between two of the highlanders. Not finding it very comfortable, he turned to the one on his right and said: "Sit up, please. You know that, according to act of parliament, the seat holds five." The highlander looked at him for a moment and then replied: "That may be a right enough for your kind, sir, but shairly ye canna' blame me for no bein' constructed according to act of parliament!"

Colored Preacher's Text.

A colored man in Atlanta, Ga., is a preacher on Sundays and a barber on week days. One of his customers makes it a rule to be first in the chair on Monday morning, when he is sure of being entertained by a resume of "Uncle Rastus'" Sunday dissertation. At night the family always looked for the latest from the colored brother. This was one of his recent effusions: "Yesterday I took for my text 'Cleanliness am next to godliness,' and I dun reach my climax wid dis argument: 'Now, what day follows Sunday? Why, Monday. Monday is wash day in all well regulated families. Monday comes nex' to Sunday; so, my bredden, that settles it that the words of my tex' am true, 'Cleanliness am nex' to godliness.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Too Much Quiet.

On one occasion the bustling and energetic archbishop of York, Dr. MacLagan, wrote to the vicar in an outlying village suggesting that he should lend his church for the purpose of giving the clergy of the district a "quiet day" for meditation and fraternal reunion. The witty vicar of this sleepy hamlet in the woods promptly replied:

My Dear Lord Archbishop—Your very kind letter to hand. But what the people in this village want most in their spiritual life is not a "quiet day," but an earthquake.

Notice of Street Improvement

Notice is hereby given that on Jan. 30, 1909, the common council of the City of Bandon, Coos county, Oregon, at a regular meeting thereof, by resolution, ordered that Atwater Street be planked, graded and sidewalked from Columbia Avenue east to city limits, and at a regular meeting on Feb. 15th, 1909, ordered that Sixth Street, including Randolph, be graded, and sidewalked from the east to the west city limits, pursuant to which orders, and also Sec. 57, City Charter this notice is published, three times from Feb. 18th, 1909, to March 4th, 1909.

Unless written remonstrances against such improvement above designated, each signed by the owners of two-thirds of the real property upon each street be filed with the Recorder on or before the 10th day of March, 1909, then for each or both of such improvements, unopposed, at the earliest convenience thereafter and within six months, the said council will pass an ordinance directing that such improvements be made as above described, and the cost thereof assessed to the adjacent property owners.

Dated at Bandon, Oregon, Feb. 18th, 1909.
C. R. WADE,
Recorder.
