Manager C. J. Millis, Surveyor Whereat and the master mechanic of the local railroad were in Myrtle Point the first of the week. It is understood that the object of their visit was to consider the advisability of building a sidetrack to a gravel bed in the northern edge of town, the gravel being desired for ballast on the road bed. Mr. Millis thinks that the time will come when the people of Myrtle Point will think better of the local railway and its management. He was not interviewed on the subject, but his friends here believe that he intends to begin improving the depot facilities here at an early date. A contract for the grading of the depot site has been let to Albert Barklow, but he has not yet been instructed to begin the work---Enterprise.

Lampa Notes

R. Pomeroy was called to Texas on Wednesday of last week to see Mrs. Pomeroy who left here sometime ago for a visit with relatives in the Lone Star State, while there it was deemed advisable for her to have an operation performed, which was successfully accomplished and the patient seemed to be getting along so nicely that arrangements were being made to bring her to her home on the river by her husband when he received tidings she did not seem as well. He left at once for Texas.

Mr. W. H. Thomas, the well known pioneer logger, who sold his fine ranch on Fishtrap some time ago, and accompanied by his son-in-law John McVay, the popular valley dairyman left these parts about a month ago with the intention of buying a large stock ranch in Mexico. By comparison they find Coos County is a veritable paradise with its incomparable climate, rich soil and evergreen pastures and manifold industries and opportunities for intelligent effort. Mr. Thomas has again purchased property in our county and will engage in business here again and Mr. McVay will again take up dairying, business in which he has made a great success owing to his untiring energy and by using up to-date methods.

Good Roads at Fair

Seattle. July 20—For the first time at any World's Fair, a separate building has been devoted to the Good Roads exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

This building is permanent and was erected at a cost of $10,000. It will be used by the University of Washington as a school of Good Roads after the Exposition.

The exhibits are arranged to work out for the benefit of the people of the northwest, the economy of all the important pavements and roads

In the large room to the left of the main entrance has been placed a model of the Deception Pass quarry which will soon be put in operation by the State of Washington. All of the equipment of this quarry is reproduced in minature to represent the state plant, which is probably the best quarry in the United States for producing road building material.

Models of different sections of road, together with minature road building machinery, are placed in the exhibit room. In the south front room is the laboratory testing equipment which will soon be used to carry out a series of practical tests during the summer.

Near the Good roads building have been laid three short sections of pavement, one ashpalt, the other brick, and the other wood block. The relative force required to draw a given load over all three of these roads will be determined by a series of experiments.

Some Eggs and Butter

There were 200,000,000 dozen eggs laid by Nebraska hens in 1908. This is a total of 1,200,000,000 eggs. These eggs would average two inches in length. If laid in a double row, ends touching, these eggs would have reached 13,381 miles further than the railroad mileage built in the United States in 1908. If laid in a ribbon five feet wide they would have made a sidewalk of eggs reaching from Omaha to Ogden In the same year Nebraska manufactured 35,000,000 pounds of butter. It would require 1,166 freight cars to hau that much butter, making a train nine miles long, or thirty-three freight trains of thirty-five cars each.

And yet there are lots of us who continue to wonder why the price of eggs and butter remained so altitudinous.—The Commoner.

To Construct Jetty

J. A. Lawhead is in this city and will proceed at once to the construction of the jetty across the river which is to protect the residence of the light house keepers. Mr. Lawhead is in the employment of the government as an inspector of public works. W. H. Logan has the contract for building the jetty and as soon as the work is started Mr. Lawhead will go to Cape Blanco where he will do some inspection work.
