FARM NOTES

A Good Strainer Is Necessary.

Dirt-carrying bacteria once in the milk has done its harm, and no number of strainers of any kind yet invented can take out the pernicious germs. The best strainer for the average dairyman is a metal vessel, as shown in the cut, with a wire screen of 100 wires to the inch. A wire screen on a strainer should be replaced as soon as it becomes broken or rusted. The only satisfactory way to clean the screen of a strainer is with a small, stiff brush. The best kind of a strainer is one with the screen on the sides, rather than on the bottom, for then there is no undue pressure, which sometimes forces small particles of dirt through the screen. The screener cannot be counted upon to make up for previous carelessness in milking. Scientists say that a poor strainer may even increase the bacterial content of milk. In using cheesecloth or thick linen for straining milk it should not only be boiled after use, but should then be wrapped in a paper and baked in the oven for thirty minutes and then kept wrapped up until time to use again.—Farm and Home.

SUNNING BOX FOR DAIRY UTENSILS.

Truck Patch and Orchard.

When one of our Western farmers goes down East he is impressed with the fact that the truck patch, the orchard, the poultry yard and the dairy are relatively of vastly greater importance than in his country where broad fields of grain, alfalfa, spuds and sugar beets are in fashion and big bunches of beef cattle enliven the landscape. The great cities, some of them containing more people than the entire State of Colorado, must be fed from the farms. The products of the West are mainly such as may be readily transported over long distances. But milk, vegetables and small fruits are better, as well as cheaper, if produced near the place of consumption ,and this line of agriculture has from the exigency of things become the industry of Eastern farmers.—Field and Farm.

Acidity and Butter Flavor.

It has been a generally accepted theory among teachers of and writers on dairy subjects that the production of good butter necessitates the development of a certain amount of acid in the cream, for two reasons, to develop a desirable flavor and to improve the keeping quality. Recent investigations by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate, however, that butter made from Pasteurized sweet cream has better keeping qualities and remains free from objectionable flavors for a longer time than butter made from sour cream. If these facts are established it might seem that in the years to come only sweet cream would be bought for butter making.

Starting Indians as Farmers.

The Cheyenne River Agency will be busy for some time to come, as the distribution of live stock to Indians has commenced. To each head of a family is to be given twenty-three head of 2-year-old heifers, or in case he so desires a team of mares, a wagon and harness, agricultural implements, five cows and $50 in cash, says the Pierre correspondent of the St. Paul Dispatch.

This distribution means that to any of the Indians who desire will be given a start of about $1,000 in value either toward starting a herd of cattle or beginning farming operations without any expense.

The Country School.

The farmers in every school district are responsible for the school they produce, says Hoard's Dairyman. If they wanted better schoolhouses they could easily make them. If they wanted better teachers they could procure them by paying what they are worth. If they wanted the school to help make intelligent boys and girls who would understand the chemical terms that are used in farm literature, they could secure that also. If the country school is a bad failure, if it fails to make intelligent men of their boys, the farmers are alone to blame for it.

Rape as Stock Food.

For generations English farmers have made extensive use of dwarf Essex rape as a stock food. This plant may be described as a ruta-baga run to head. The seed is sown like ruta-baga turnips and cultivated, without thinning.

Commercial Egg Farm.

The production of market eggs is probably the safest branch of the poultry business, and the amount of capital invested need not be very large. In the New England States, New York and New Jersey there are many commercial egg farms, keeping from 500 to several thousand hens. The farmers, too, in this section of the country keep large flocks for eggs for the Eastern markets, and all seem to be doing well and making money. What we need in the South is more egg farms. Lands are cheap, material for housing and labor cheap, and, again, it is not necessary in the South to build such expensive houses. We have every advantage in the Southland for producing eggs at a less cost than our Northern brothers, and with quick and satisfactory railroad facilities to the Eastern markets the South should become the greatest poultry producing section of the entire country.

Other branches of the poultry industry may pay better than egg farming, but none are attended with so little worry and risk and are so certain of steady returns and a fair remuneration for the time and money expended.

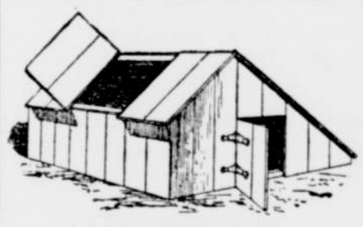
Early Plowing Always Best.

Last summer we got a field of wheat stubble about half plowed when other work called us away. The remaining stubble was turned under early this spring, and the whole field planted to corn. The corn on last summer's plowing is now several inches taller than that on the land plowed this spring, and is ranker and better in every other way.

There is a difference between summer and fall plowing, the difference being in favor of the summer plowing. Turning a green growth into the soil seems to be very much better than turning an equal growth under, but waiting until it has matured and dried before doing it. Here on this farm we aim to do all the plowing possible this summer. It may be hot work but the days are long and one does not need to hurry the teams. Not only is it better to get the work done as soon as possible for any crop to be sown this fall, but our experience proves to us that the earlier the better if corn is to be the next crop.—Farmer's Mail and Breeze.

A Hog Shelter.

The form of individual hoghouse shown in the illustration is 6 feet square on the ground and both doors are hinged so they will open and close readily; 12 foot boards make the side and roof. Use good soft pine flooring, as it is lighter and much easier to move when necessary than heavier lumber; four pieces 2x4 inch and 6 feet long are for sills; two pieces 2x4 inch and 6 feet long are for ridge and plate. The door in the roof can be opened when the sun shines. Sunshine is the best tonic known for little pigs in early spring, and the door is essential when the sow needs attention at pigging time as a means of entrance and, as is sometimes the case, a very hasty exit.—Breeders' Gazette.



INDIVIDUAL HOGHOUSE.

Feeding Manure to Plants.

Our people are perfectly satisfied that they can put character into milk and cream and butter by feeding the dairy cow a properly balanced ration and all that she will properly stand. The cow is simply a machine, the soil is simply a machine, and the cabbage head is a machine into which we can put a certain amout of material and turn out from it so many dollars. If you feed this vegetable matter, with high-grade nitrogenous manure you can make it pay.

Dairy Notes.

Butter methods are gradually gaining favor.

Working to the best advantage means using brains.

Cold and overfeeding will kill the young calf more quickly than anything else.

Don't try to keep a cow for milk and beef. She will disappoint you every time.

The man with a "dual purpose" dream usually wakes up to find that he is in the beef business.

It's just about as hard to get a good heifer out of a scrub as it is to make water run up hill.

The creamery patron has his monthly cream checks while the other fellow has the store bill.

The ordinary man may be judged by the company he keeps, but the dairy farmer is judged by the cows he keeps.

The best way to insure high prices for dairy products is to make them so good that the people can't help eating them.

LEADER PNEUMATIC WATER SUPPLY SYSTEMS FOR COUNTRY HOMES

The best and most logical method of furnishing water yet devised. The tank is placed in the basement or in the ground near the house and keeps the water cool in summer and proof against freezing in winter. It never leaks. It is impossible for impurity to get into it. It outlasts the building in which it is installed. It costs a little more to begin with, but there is no second cost. We have a catalogue which illustrates and describes the Leader system. Ask us for it.

STOVER GASOLINE ENGINES
