

The Grange Corner

This new department is for the present edited by Mr. Frank F. Eddy, Master of the Bandon Grange.

Well we have organized a Grange in Bandon Why? That is a fair question and I might give something less than a thousand reasons. But this time I will mention only the one inclusive reason. That is summed best in the word CO-OPERATION. Two years of ranching has convinced me of the imperative need of getting the farming class together. The horizon of our lives is bounded too much by our line fences; that is the fact. We isolate ourselves and cultivate our individuality at the expense of those other qualities which make for power and effectiveness in working with and for others.

Now let it be said that getting together is merely the starting point of cooperation or working together. But even the getting together is something. It adds power to each of us. How? Why, suppose there is a piece of bad road to be repaired, and both the saints and sinners know that is easy enough to find, or suppose there is some nuisance to be abated. You protest or I protest and it is just one voice. But suppose you and I call ourselves we, and collectively protest as a Grange what happens? This happens. Our thirty odd voices are blended in one protest. Then those who sit in the seats of authority by virtue of the votes of their fellow citizens begin to sit up and take notice. They say: "Well, well; if all those folks are getting wrathful about this we had better do something." Make that thirty odd a hundred or two hundred, as can easily enough be done and we are a power indeed.

As for the working together, that does not lie with me to say. That remains to be developed out of the possibilities of our situation and out of the possibilities that lie in the membership. I know of many things I should like to see taken up. I shall speak of some of these later. But one possibility of cooperation I very much desire to see in effect is that of cooperation in selling.

We have here on the Coquille river the poorest local market I have ever seen. It is usually impossible to dispose of the small lots of fruits, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc., except at a loss of time and later at the ruin of our dispositions among the store keepers along the river. They do as well as they can, no doubt, and in some cases take produce that they really do not need to accommodate a customer. The result is due simply to the market being glutted,—chronically glutted, with such small produce of the ranches.

This we could do, I think. Let the Grange make freight arrangements with the boats, and business arrangements with responsible commission houses in San Francisco and Portland. On certain days some representative of the Grange could be at Bandon to receive consignments and be empowered to credit and classify and arrange and forward to the point that offered the best market. If a hundred ranchers within reach of Bandon as a shipping point should thus cooperate in selling the small products of their ranches, it would add some thousands of dollars to the incomes of these same ranchers.

This is by way of illustration. It is merely one of the things that seem feasible to me. But the Grange is an exceedingly democratic organization and I would emphasize the fact that this is merely one of my ideas, it is a suggestion I would offer.

My chief aim in this introductory editorial if I may be permitted the dignified title is to issue a call to those men and women who are working early and late on the ranches in this part of the county, to come forward and get together with us and let us see how we can cooperate. Now is the time. The Grange in Bandon is in its formative stage. If you have ideas to work out, now is the time to get in with the ones who are trying to make a new social instrument in the community. I especially call upon the strong and aggressive men and women. Come forward and help push this along.

The next meeting, which will to all intents and purposes, be the first meeting of Bandon Grange will be on the first Saturday in November. Keep that date in mind and come to town that day with a hayseed or two in your hair and "jine" the Grange.

More and more I marvel at the ease with which college professors editors and such like people can give advice to farmers. Anyone who has ever raised six tomatoes and a quart of string beans feels competent to tell how to make money on a ranch.

Armour made a few millions and Patten lost a few millions in the wheat pit the other day. No matter which won or lost so far as the country is concerned. The question is what did the farmer get.

There is a certain separator of which the company proudly boasts, there is over a million in use. I broke one of the million about five weeks ago. I am still waiting for repairs, and swearing. O, yes the farmers life is one sweet song.

Gifford Pinchot, there's the boy. That what I say. But President Taft pats Pinchot on the back and says, "good boy" and pats Ballinger on the back and says "well done, good and faithful servant." Now what does he mean? I "dunno."

WELL-KNOWN HOTEL KEEPER USES AND DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY

"I take pleasure in saying that I have kept Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family medicine chest for about 15 years, and have always had satisfactory results from its use. I have administered it to a great many traveling men who were suffering from troubles for which it is recommended and have never failed to relieve them," says J. C. Jenkins of Glasgow, Ky. This remedy is for sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Death of Mrs. J. W. Haga

On Saturday morning October 2d, the reaper whose sickle gathers alike the ripened grain and the opening flower, claimed, in her full young womanhood, the wife of Wesley J. Haga of Parkersburg.

Mrs. Haga's last illness was of but a few weeks duration. Previous to that time she was busied in the discharge of household and social duties.

Although for some months not enjoying the best of health, she little thought, nor did her family and friends, that just outside the happy little home, the sombre visitant waited, to seal on earth forever, the lips of the devoted wife and mother, the affectionate daughter and sister.

The funeral was conducted at the home Monday morning by R. H. Allen of the Methodist Episcopal church of Bandon. Mr. Allen read from the Ninetieth Psalm and from First Corinthians, fifteenth chapter 41-58. His text for the short, but sympathizing and earnest discourse, was John, eleventh chapter, 25-26. Interment was made in the cemetery at Bandon, the ceremony at the open grave consisting of the brief and simple, but impressive, ritualistic burial service of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Annie May Taylor was the daughter of William and Martha J. Taylor and was born at Coquille, Coos county, Oregon, May 18, 1881 and was, on the day of her decease, aged twenty-eight years, for months and fourteen days.

She was united in marriage to Wesley J. Haga, at Bandon in her native county and state, December 23, 1896.

During the thirteen years of their early married life there came to bless the home four children: Bessie Florena, Clara May, Lester Eldred, and William Arthur. These children the husband, the aged mother, four brothers and three sisters and a wide circle of friends remain to mourn her departure.

In the pretty home in the Bear

Creek Valley, commanding a view of the beautiful Coquille as it winds its way to the sea, order, love and hospitality dwell a gracious trinity.

Mrs. Haga's life was lived in deeds rather than words. Modest, quiet and unassuming there was that in her smile which drew all hearts to her.

MORE THAN ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. ### The Moral Effect of It

Young McKinley, one of the notorious band of land fraud criminals that at one time played a high hand in this state of Oregon, is accorded special privileges at the Multnomah County Jail, where he is retained as a United States prisoner. These special privileges are something out of the ordinary as such things go. They include the freedom of the grounds about the Courthouse; an occasional steam bath in a bathroom across the way from the jail; immunity from work that is required of other prisoners, and the favor of eating his meals at the same table with the jailer and eputies. McKinley's treatment is altogether better than that usually accorded trustees in a jail; and it deservedly attracts public attention because the moral effect of it is bad.

All Oregon is familiar with the McKinley character—a smooth, sporty, debonaire, unscrupulous young scoundrel, whose only bid for favoritism in jail treatment appears to be his callousness to shame. If he were a common petty larceny inmate of the jail, whose exploits had not attracted the attention of young boys, who cultivate loose tendencies in thought and action, the matter would not be so bad. But McKinley has managed, after a fashion to transform his rascality to something of the heroic; made the more attractive to a certain class by reason of unmitigated immorality. To favor such a man above others who are confined with him is to recognize merit in crime, if it is only bold and shameless enough. This is the lesson that such favoritism teaches, and we say again, the moral effect of it is bad.—Telegram.

HOW TO CURE A COLD

Be as careful as you can, you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Oregon Will Double Wheat Crop of Northwest

Portland, Or., Oct. 4—That Central Oregon will, within a few years, double the cereal crop of the whole Pacific Northwest is the belief of Theodore B. Wilcox, president of the Portland Flouring Mills. When opened up by the railroads now building, an immense acreage will be thrown open to wheat raisers.

"In Central Oregon," said Mr. Wilcox, "there are millions of acres of land which unless I am greatly mistaken in the nature of the soil, will be excellent for grain growing without irrigation. Out of this vast territory there must be at least 2,500,000 acres available for wheat. There is as large an acreage as is now in wheat in Oregon and Washington. All that is needed to open up this great territory is a railroad and with two lines now entering that section, it will be only a matter of short time until the country will develop. Nor will the increased yield reduce prices. With such a condition of affairs as now exists, there is no danger of lessened prices through the exploitation of wheat fields in Central Oregon."

FOR CHAPPED SKIN

Chapped skin whether on the hands or face may be cured in one night by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It is also unequalled sore nipples, bruises and burns. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Notice to Mariners

Capt. Hansen of the Sch. "Dora Blum" reports that at 3 p. m. on July 17, 1909 in Lat. 36 02' N Long 129 30' W, he passed within a cables length of a small vessel floating bottom up about 4 feet out of water. Stern was broken off pretty well amidships. Bottom was of a dark color with no grass or barnacles showing. The derelict was about 50 feet long and no name was visible.

THE BEST PLASTER

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lambeback or pains in the side or chest give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains and is certain to please anyone suffering from that disease. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.
