Rouse's coal at the Estabrook warehouse. 21tf

The fruit crop in this section has been one of the heaviest in years and much of it will go to waste for want of a market. The completion of even the Bandon Port Orford railroad will be a God send to the farmers down this way for with a market for the produce many a place that is now barely keeping one family would support several.—Tribune.

Two choice lots on Atwater street for $1250; for sale by Bandon Investment Corporation. 11

A Chinaman twenty-eight years old, employed as a cook in a residence of Bangor died last Thursday of tuberculosis. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon and according to the wishes of the dead man and in compliance with the customs of the Orient, a friend rode on the hearse scattering bits of paper to dispel the evil spirit.—Harbor.

A. T. Morrison, the well known Coquille business man, and family left on the Elizabeth for Los Angeles, Calif., where they will visit a month or so with the gentleman's parents. Mr. Morrison is one of the best boosters in Coos county, and he will probably take the opportunity of telling the people "dowa south" of some of the good qualities of this section.

Timmons Waterfront Addition is on the market; see Bandon Investment Corporation for plats and figures. 11

Mr. Mills of the Hotel Callier and daughter Miss Edna, spent Sunday at the T. P. Hanly ranch near Lampa.

Two choice lots (corner) in Azalea Park for $155 Bandon Investment Corporation. 11

Miss Lottie Carey, who has been spending some time in California returned to her home in Bandon Tuesday evening.

The H. S. foot ball team is doing daily practice work when the weather permits, and they hope to have several good games before the close of the season.

Number 3 cedar for building purposes. See Estabrook Co. 26t

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnston will make the round trip to San Pedro on the Fifield this trip. Thos. Trethake of San Francisco will have charge of the Estabrook Co.'s business here while Mr. Johnson is gone, after which he will go down the coast to their mill and will look after business in that section.

The plats of the Catholic church property are now completed and the lots will be put on sale at once. These are desirable lots and will no doubt meet with ready sales. The proceeds of the sales will go toward the erection of a parish house on the property that is reserved.

In grading for the new depot site in the west part of town, a body of rock and slate was uncovered that miners declare is indisputable evidence of coal not far away. The evidence crops out abutting the railroad track and if a good workable vein was uncovered it would be about as handy for shipping as could be desired. It is but another evidence of the truth of the government reports that this section is underlain by an immense coal field. —Myrtle Point Enterprise.

See Spencer for reservations on Breakwater, at the office of the Bandon Light & Water Co. 30 tf

The Enterprise says: Quite a large shipment of groceries and dry goods have been delivered to the people of Myrtle Point and vicinity orders for the goods having been taken by peddlers who canvassed the country. A gentleman who has made a careful comparison of prices declares that those who purchased goods from these peddlers could have saved about 10 per cent on their bills if they had given their orders to local merchants. Besides this the peddlers and the houses they represent contribute not a cent toward the development of the country while the local merchants are here to take a hand in the various features of development.

The Grange Corner

Conducted by Frank F. Eddy, Master of Bandon Grange.

Last week I used the space so kindly given me by the RECORDER in discussing the grange as a means to an end,—the end being practical cooperation. I might continue that theme for it is like the kale plant in having a thousand heads. But I forbear at least for this time, to speak of the grange as an end in itself.

The mere coming together for social good fellowship and for the exchange of ideas is in itself worth while. Life on the ranch is crowded with work. To one who likes country life its hours are full of incident and every day has its store of surprises. We of the farm can watch living things grow and can have the pleasure of association with animals and life holds few things more pleasant than the companionship of plants and pets. But of human companionship in our ranch homes there is usually too little and that little confined to a small circle immediately in our neighborhood. Hence the value of the grange as a social opportunity.

I might add that the grange everywhere has strong educational features and the theme study and discussion outlined by the State Lecturer of Oregon last year seemed to me to be unusually ambitious.

Do you know that the state of Washington has established the first chair of Highway Engineering in America and that the Good Roads building at the Seattle fair becomes the property of the State University where this new department will be honored. Time to get busy in Oregon. hey grangers!

President Roosevelt's Country Life Commission had a nice trip and interviewed quite a number of college professors and some few farmers who had time and money to get out of their hearing usually held in some city or large town. It was a fine thing that commission for the commissioners.

I do not know whether they discovered it or not but the chief thing we farmers need is a fair square chance to make farming pay. Give us the money and the leisure and we will remedy our ills as well as the city dweller. A square deal is what we want.

Perhaps we will get that same square deal when we show the politicians there is something to be afraid of besides the corporations.

Well the Bandon Grange has its first meeting on the first Saturday in November. We are receiving many applications for membership. At this meeting new members will be received without formal initiation upon taking the obligations. After that the regular initiation will be conferred. So join at this first meeting and give the new grange a big send off. We want a class of at least fifty on that date. The first Saturday in November that is the appointed time. Other wise beware of the goat.

Vote of Thanks

The newly organized Camp of Sons of Veterans, desire to extend a vote of thanks and voice of due appreciation for the kind assistance of the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. especially to the good ladies of the W. R. C. and D. of V. who gave us such a sumptuous repast early in the evening to brace us up for the ordeal of being mustered into the Sons of Veterans, which we were able to go through with the usual zest of sons of those who assisted in preserving the union.
