

BANDON BUTTER MAKES BIG HIT

Served to Portland Commercial Club and Highly Praised

MAKES BANDON BOOSTERS OF CLUB

Concerning the butter sent to Portland for use of the Portland Commercial Club, as was announced in the RECORDER some time since, the Portland Telegram of October the 20th has the following to say:

"Ten pounds of butter, the gift of the Bandon Commercial Club, was received this morning by the Portland Commercial Club and served to members at luncheon. Beside each plate was laid a typewritten slip of paper reading as follows:

"The butter which is used on the tables today has been sent to the Portland Commercial Club, by the Bandon Commercial Club. There is now being carried into Bandon from the south, within a distance of 16 miles, over half a million pounds of butter fat, nearly every pound of which finds a ready market in San Francisco, to which point it is sent by boat. Work has been commenced on a railroad running down the coast upon which the milk will hereafter be forwarded to Bandon instead of by wagon."

The gift of a nature touching the right spot and occasioned favorable comment. Expressions of opinion convey the impression that when the opportunity offers the butter product of Bandon will be individually boosted by the members of the club to which the butter was sent."

In this connection it might be added that the dairy business around Bandon is consequently on the increase, and indications now are that the Bandon Creamery will be able to churn enough butter this winter to supply the local trade, which will be the first time in its history that such has been the case during the winter months. There will probably be twice as much winter milking in this section this winter as there was last, and if the same ratio of increase can be kept up for a few years, the winter dairy business would be a big industry in these parts.

That Bandon creamery butter is growing in popularity is fully evidenced by the growing demand for the same, and with the Portland Commercial Club boosting enthusiastically for the Bandon butter as well as other products of this section, there is every reason to think there will be something doing all the time at this place.

BIG DEVELOPMENT FOR OREGON

Much Money for Irrigation and Good Roads Work to Continue

Portland, Or., Nov. 2.—Extensive irrigation works are likely to follow the railroads now being built into Central Oregon. Promised transportation for that section of the state has changed the irrigation policy of Secretary Ballinger and he will take up various undeveloped projects in Oregon with the Reclamation Service in the near future.

Oregon will get its full share of benefits under the National reclamation law, declares the Secretary of the Interior. In addition to the amounts heretofore allotted, this state will be entitled to $2,700,000 by 1912. Secretary Ballinger plans to set to work on some of the undeveloped projects in this state as soon as the necessary funds become available.

The building of railroads into the interior of the state make the semi-arid districts accessible for reclamation projects. Just what district will be benefited first by new irrigation works has not been announced.

Better roads for this state is the object of the Oregon Good Roads Association, formed here during the past week with a strong membership. The association will work for good roads legislation, uniform plans of improvement throughout the state and the collection of money for road building. It is planned to collect a fund of $15,000 during the next two years and engage a competent road engineer who shall direct all road work in the state. Much good is expected to result from the formation of the association.

Whist Party a Success

The progressive whist party given by Ocean Rebekah Lodge Friday evening was a big success in every particular and was greatly enjoyed by the sixty or more people present. Twenty hands of whist were played and when it was finished it was found that C. E. Hollopeter and Mrs. R. W. Boyle were tied for first place with forty points each, and in drawing for the prize Mrs. Boyle was the lucky one. Mr. Boyle won the other prize with some points. After the games a short program was rendered, and then followed the big banquet in the banquet room. The tables were most tastefully decorated with the flowers of Oregon. The electric lights were turned off and the room was lighted by means of Japanese lanterns which had a very pretty effect.

The banquet was one, such as only the Rebekahs can serve and at a late hour all departed for their homes, voting it one of the most successful social events of the season.

Eastern Star Domino Ball

The local Eastern Star lodge will give a Domino dance Thanksgiving night, to which the public is invited. This will be one of the leading social events of the season and will no doubt be largely attended.

The Hles Company arrived in Bandon last evening and opened up at the opera house. They will be here all this week including Sunday night and will give an excellent repertoire of plays. Bandonians are glad to see their smiling countenances once more and they are being accorded a good patronage

LABOR LEADERS MUST SERVE TERM

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison Must Go to Jail

BOYCOTT CASE DECISION ANNOUNCED

Washington, Nov. 2.—The District Court of Appeals today affirmed the decree of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia adjudging President Samuel Gompers, Secretary Frank Morrison and vice-President John Mitchell of the American Federation of Labor, guilty of contempt of court in the Buck Stove and Range case. Chief Justice Shepherd dissented from the opinion of court on constitutional grounds.

The court held that the fundamental issue was whether the executive agencies of the government should be obeyed or defied. The mere fact that the defendants were officers of organized labor in America, said the court lent importance to the cause and added to the gravity of the situation but should not be permitted to influence the result.

"If an organization of citizens, however large," the court held, "may disobey the mandates of the court, the same reasonings would render them subject to individual defiance. Both are subject to the law and neither is above it. If a citizen though he may honestly believe his rights have been invaded, may elect when and to what extent he will obey the mandates of the court and requirements of the law as interpreted by the court instead of pursuing the orderly course of appeal, not only the courts but the government itself would become powerless and society would be reduced to a state of anarchy."

The action of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia sentenced Gompers Mitchell and Morrison to twelve, nine and six months imprisonment in jail, respectively, was the result of the failure of these three defendants to obey the order the court directing them to desist from placing the Buck Stove and Range Company of St. Louis on the "Unfair" list in prosecution of their boycott against the corporation.

Effects of Port Commission

Engineer Carroll assisted by Donald Charlston and others is making a new survey of the Suslaw with the idea of government aid for the port. The government turned the Suslaw down once, but since they have organized a port commission and gone to work for themselves, the power behind the throne has reconsidered.

The government will help every port where local people will help themselves.—This is something to be remembered and should stir people along the Coquille to action in the matter of establishing a port commission.

BILLIONAIRE TO VISIT BANDON

Man of Much Money Will Mingle With People of This City

Bandon is to have a billionaire present next week. His name is J. Custis Moneychop and he will be visible to the naked eye on Thursday and Friday evenings at the Opera House where he will help the students of the high school in paying for the school piano. Mr. Moneychop is "Father" in the new musical play, "Father and the Game;" "the Game" is football. The billionaire tries to rescue the students of the school from the dangerous lure of the sport and gets over the danger line himself. His "moral destruction" is accomplished by the efforts of the manager of the team and his able assistants on the team and along the side lines. Even Mr. Ethan Allen Tuttat, the billionaire's prim and sedate private secretary, succumbs to the spirit stirred up by the students and the faculty also feels obliged to be on hand at the game when the referee's whistle blows.

It takes two acts to complete the renovation of Mr. Moneychop's prejudices. The first is in the parlor of the billionaire's Bandon home where the students have been invited to listen to a philanthropic project evolved by Mr. Moneychop. The second act is in "the jungle" just a short distance from the foot ball field.

As in "Saving the Game" Carl R. Moore, the author has attempted a portrayal of life as lived by the young people of Bandon, not so much as it is, but rather as it might be if some of the present tendencies were strongly emphasized. He has tried painstakingly to reproduce the western American with all of that truly "western" spirit which makes him different from the American of the east, and the personal independence of the individual which is usually blended with a loyalty to American ideals, patriotic, scholastic or otherwise. The dialogue has been written in a vein of kindly satire, which brightens the best features of our western life and pokes fun at the bad ones. To make the "local color" more striking an effort has been made to utilize as far as possible the everyday speech of the southwestern Oregonian, full of unfathomable slang but of a picturesque strength that appeals to the student of dialects and sectionalisms.

The score of the opera has been pronounced superior to that of "Saving the Game" and contains many melodies of the whistleable sort. In the lyrics an effort has been made to produce something of lasting merit. Mr. Walker, the organizer of the Bandon grange said that "Oregon" had just the right tone and he hoped to see it published in some periodical having a state-wide circulation. Other numbers of considerable merit both in lyrics and music are: "Lucille from Coquille," "If you ever see a foot ball game," "A night in June," "Down near Mobile," "The man who has the coin," "Lovelight," "Spookey Woods" "Oh you kiddo, with the bunch of grit," and others. There are nineteen numbers in all, including the overture and the instrumental introduction to the second act.

It is conceded by all who have worked with them that the high school students possess more than the average aptitude for amateur theatricals and especially

GOOD PROGRESS ON CODY MILL

Will Probably be Inclosed by the Fifteenth of December

BEST OF MACHINERY TO BE INSTALLED

Work on the rebuilding of the Cody mill is progressing very rapidly and it is hoped by those in charge to have the building inclosed by December 15th. The dock is now nearly all reconstructed and work of installing the heavy timbers for the main mill is proceeding rapidly. This part of the mill will be 50 x 260 and will be built with exceedingly heavy timbers with the idea of great strength and durability.

All work will be rushed as rapidly as possible, and it is hoped to have the mill in operation very early in the spring.

The machinery, which was ordered from the Ellis Saw Mill Machinery Co. of Milwaukee, Wis. will arrive in about sixty days. The machinery is all of the very heaviest kind manufactured and is made with the special object of being equal to the occasion, with the heavy timber of the Pacific coast.

The plant is to be modern in every particular and when completed will be one of the very best mills on the entire coast. The capacity of the new mill will be somewhat greater than that of the old and the equipment throughout will be the best that money can buy.

Anyone who has not been keeping tab on the progress of the work would really be surprised to see the big showing that has been made in so short a time and it is now where the progress will be greater, and more apparent each day than it has been heretofore.

Brown Heir to Fortune

Lee Brown, former pursuer on the Wilhelmina, which plies between here and Coos Bay has fallen heir to $80,000 according to an article in the Portland Telegram. Mr. Brown did not advise any of his friends here or at Coos Bay of his good fortune, consequently it comes an agreeable surprise to all. He was at one time pursuer on the Alliance. Following is what the Telegram says: "Among the passengers on the steamship Alliance, Captain Parsons, arriving from Coos Bay were E. L. Brown and H. W. Skinner, ex-pursers of the Alliance. Mr. Brown recently fell heir to $80,000, left him by relatives in California. He will remain in Portland for a day or so when he will leave for Seattle on a business trip."

for dramatic productions in which there is music. For several weeks past the students have been rehearsing the play and their work has been so satisfactory so far that the faculty does not hesitate to promise all those interested in the school and educational work in general a good time if they attend the performances. They are certain to laugh a great many times while they are there and also to whistle or hum the songs on the way home.

Remember the dates: Thursday and Friday evenings, Nov. 11 and 12. Reserved seats 50 cents. General admission 25 cents. Tickets on sale at Mars' Confectionery.

SUPERINTENDENTS IN CONFERENCE

Heads of Coos County Schools Met at Marshfield Last Saturday

H. C. Ostien was in Marshfield Saturday where he attended a conference of the school superintendents and principals of the county.

Among those present were Superintendents, Golden of Marshfield; Raab of North Bend; Anderson of Coquille; Shepman of Myrtle Point; Ostien of Bandon, and Principals Grubb of Northhead and Montgomery of Marshfield.

Among the things discussed were the date and conditions of the Frye oratorical contest, the program to be followed in the county with regard to the state debating league.

Athletic regulations also came in for their share of discussion and general rules for the governing of all contests were mapped out.

These meetings are a source of benefit to the schoolmen as they have an opportunity of exchanging views on various subjects and thus developing many schemes for the bettering of the county schools.

Lives but Short Time

A beautiful baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Pressey last Thursday but the little flower lived only a short time, and on Tuesday of this week, she passed out of this life. The funeral and interment were Wednesday afternoon at the Bandon cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Pressey have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in their time of great bereavement.
