E. L. Strader brought an apple of the Bismark variety to this office last Saturday, that to the ordinary judge looked like a perfect apple. At any rate it was good enough to show that perfect apples can be raised in Coos county, it the same care of the orchards was taken that is taken in the famous apple belts. The apple was one of Mr. Strader's own raising and was perfectly sound yet, showing that it is a good keeper as well as a nice looking apple. Mr. Strader indorses the sentiment that Coos county is as good an apple country as can be found anywhere.
