The Rebekah Whist Social Tuesday evening was well attended and all report a very enjoyable time. Miss Blanch Radley won first prize for ladies, and L. J. Radley for gentlemen. The consolation prize was taken by Mr. A. G. Erickson.

Have you seen those new stoves at the Bandon Hardware Co? There is something there you will like. That blue flame oil stove is the finest thing you ever saw. Quick, clean, absolutely safe, cheaper to run than a range.

Dr. Stemmeler went to the Bay yesterday with our old friend, David McNair, who has been suffering from an abnormal condition of the hip bone, and the doctor thinks an operation will be necessary to give him permanent relief. —Coquille Herald.

F. J. HAYS OPTOMETRIST will be at Dr. Perkin's office on the 22nd and 23rd of each month. Eyes tested free and glasses fitted. Don't forget the date.

King Edward of England died at the palace in London last week and his son, the Prince of Wales, has been crowned as George V. The new king is a man of quiet disposition and is said to be a very strong man intellectually and personally. Edward reigned nine years and proved himself to be a very efficient king. He was 69 years old at the time of his death. The new king is 44 years old.

The Bandon Grange held their regular meeting in Concrete hall Saturday, and a large attendance was present. An open meeting was held in the afternoon at which the subject of taxation was discussed by Judge Geo. P. Topping and J. P. DeGessen. It was decided to hold a tax meeting in Bandon, on Friday evening, May 20th, at which time the subject of taxation in its various phases will be discussed at length. Judge Topping will open the discussion with the principal address of the evening.

In ordering the address of his REORDER changed from San Diego, Calif., to La Mesa, Calif., which is in San Diego county. F. A. Bates says: "We arrived here safe and well, and believe we have found a climate scarcely to be excelled by Italy or Florida; however, the sudden change makes us sometimes sigh for a breath of Bandon breeze. You don't need an overcoat in San Diego."

Halley's Comet Coming

Next Wednesday is the day set apart for Halley's comet to push us off the earth, but we are not superstitious and take this opportunity to announce that we expect to continue to run the RECORDER at the old stand and are prepared to serve our customers in our line. Advertise in the RECORDER and bring us your job work and the comet won't hurt you.

The Cody mill is now nearing completion and will probably be in operation next week. Geo. W. Moore, President of the Co., announced that he hoped to be sawing boards by Tuesday. Bandonians will welcome the clang of the big band saw once more.

Have you been counted yet? If not be sure and see the census man, Mr. Mavity, or send your name to E. E. Oakes, Pres. of the Bandon Commercial Club. We want a full count in Bandon, and in order to get it, there must be some tall hustling.

One of the interesting geological formations of Wyoming is the extensive areas of decomposed red granite noticeable between Cheyenne and Buford, on the line of the Union Pacific. Having to excavate large quantities of this disintegrated rock in the lowering of the right of way, those in charge of the work hit upon the idea of using it as ballast for the road long distances in either direction. The rock was handled with slight expense by means of steam shovels from bank to car, and so excellent ballast did it prove that it has been used as a surface material for the road and depot grounds from Omaha westward. It is firm, holds its place and gathers little moisture, thus reducing the rot to a minimum.

A fruit ranch that we saw near Mountain Home, Ida., the other day from the car window consisted of scrubby fruit trees set four or five years ago in the midst of the sagebrush in the arid Snake river bottom. The fellow who set them out had grubbed out no sagebrush except where the trees were to stand and given the tract no cultivation whatever. This is a sample of some of the "orchard investment" propositions that the gullible easterner is expected to take over at the end of five years for from $300 to $500 per acre and from which he is assured he will get rich without work in a very few years. Other orchards in the same valley, watered and well tended, are all that a prospective owner could desire. In buying western fruit land it is well to investigate the soil and the water right guarantees, but even more the moral status and business pedigree of the man or corporation promoting the same.

The reason why tuberculosis as a bovine ailment afflicts the dairy cow more seriously than the steer in the feed lot seems largely traceable to the fact that the steer rarely lives beyond the age of three, while the dairy cow may be doing service at the pail when ten or twelve. The average steer doesn't live long enough to be sick.

While the volcanic ash soil to be found in some sections of the west makes a fearful dust during the summer months, the fact remains that it is marvelously rich in fertilizing elements. This is especially noticeable in the Yakima valley, where in places this soil, as fine as bolted flour, is said to extend to a depth of seventy feet.

While not much has been said about it, the fact remains that an increase of about 15 per cent was tacked on to the several cereals by the Payne tariff bill, which its makers contended reduced materially the duties on the necessities of life. It is a well known fact that there was no demand on the part of the grain growers of the country for this increase; hence it was probably levied at the instigation of the speculators and millers to help themselves directly and which they could refer to as a compensation to the farmer for placing hides on the free list.

In setting young fruit trees of any kind care should be taken that the root system equals or exceeds that of the top. It seems hard to cut back a thrifty and promising top, but this is just what should be done if the tree is to make the best development.

A well known eastern seedsman advertises an "improved wonderberry." It is surely to be hoped that he can fulfill his promise.

Apples, prunes and figs are recognized by most all diet specialists as mild yet excellent laxatives, and the health of many would be improved were tons and tons more of these fruits consumed.

Those who have looked somewhat into the matter have concluded that the prairie dog does not dig his burrow deep enough to reach a water supply, but gets along on that which he secures from the leaves and roots of the herbage on which he feeds.

A poor draft in the stove, making watery eyes and smoky wall paper, may be due to the stove being clogged up with ashes or to defects or breaks in the chimney above the point where the pipe enters. Wherever located, the cause ought to be sought out and removed.

The wise grower of small grain will exercise proportionately just as much care in the selection of his seed grain as in choosing the sires and dams for his breeding animals. While not so perceptible, the law of heredity—that like produces like—operates in the same general way in the cereal as in the animal world.

The average boy is not half so much in need of being shielded from temptation as he is of assistance in the development of a becoming self respect and backbone that will enable him to behave like a man in the presence of temptation. Being tied to mother's apron strings never gave a boy character and stamina and never will.

In sections where the inroads of the woolly aphid are likely to be serious the young fruit tree may be protected by removing the soil for a distance of two or three feet around the tree to the depth of a couple of inches and placing a layer of tobacco stems and leaves or dust. These should be soaked thoroughly and the earth replaced. While the same means may be used to protect the root systems of older trees, the labor involved is greatly increased.

For the proper protection of the hives of bees it is well to put them where they will be protected from extremes of cold in winter, but we have in mind one swarm of bees that made headquarters in an old hollow bur oak tree for four consecutive seasons and that during their period of hibernation must have been subjected to temperatures of 20 to 28 degrees below zero. Whether they finally died of old age, froze to death or sought warmer quarters we never knew.

In many sections in the north central states, where much wheat used to be grown a score of years ago, but where in recent years it has been almost entirely given up, there will be a good deal sown the present spring. In many of these localities oats are not doing as well as in the past, and wheat is proving an acceptable substitute. Where it has been tried the yield has been from eighteen to thirty-five bushels per acre, and the market price a dollar or better. In securing the seed wheat it is a good idea to buy that which is plump and is grown near home.

While suicide requires a certain degree of physical courage, analyzed a bit it must be conceded as the abject and cowardly solution of the problem with which one may be confronted, for it involves an utter renouncing of all claims and obligations resting upon one as a result of the place he fills in life. The only honorable and heart satisfying way out of a condition that seems unbearable is a continuance in the treadmill, if such it be, consolation coming from the thought that a fellow is doing the best he can. There never was a situation in life so bad but suicide made it several stages worse.

Good Remedy For Blackleg.
Many farmers are complaining of losing stock with blackleg. A good preventive may be found in the following: Mix together well fourteen quarts of common barrel salt and one and one-half pounds of saltpeter. It is good to use the pulverized saltpeter if possible to get it; if not, purchase the crystal saltpeter and pulverize it thoroughly before mixing. Exercise great care to get it well mixed so that the saltpeter will be evenly distributed through the salt. Place it where the stock can have free access to it.

Use System In Watering Horses.
Painstaking and experienced horsemen have proved beyond a doubt that horses seem to be better nourished when systematically watered before feeding and again two or three hours after.

Mrs. Hattie Little arrived home Sunday evening from Arlington, Wash., where she had been for three months, straightening out some business affairs. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Richie, of Colfax, Iowa, and Miss Charlotte Davies, of Arlington, who will remain here during the summer at least.

Fishing tackle. Sporting goods. Every lover of a gun should come in and see that New Standard Rifle. She's a dandy. Bill Doyle hit center the first shot. Bandon Hardware Company.

L. L. Brandenburg has leased the Estabrook warehouse and will do a general warehouse business, in addition to handling all kinds of hay grain and feed. Mr. Brandenburg came up from San Francisco a couple of weeks ago, and is well pleased with the outlook in Bandon.

Mrs. J. E. Clark came up on the Bandon to Coos Bay, and then came over to Bandon to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Conger, until the Bandon returns, as that vessel will probably come in here on her next trip.
