

Badly Named.

The habit of naming boys after some friend and hanging two "last" names to a lad all of his life is about played out. At least, that is what Mr. Sawyer Cook thinks about it. His baby had the cramps the other night, and paregoric did not seem to have the slightest effect upon the little sufferer, so Mr. Cook flew for the doctor post haste. He went to the side window and the physician's voice called excitedly, "Who's there?"

"Sawyer Cook," hurriedly cried the anxious father.

"Saw my cook, did you? Well, what the deuce do I care if you saw the cook, the chambermaid, the butler and the stable boy? You let that bell alone, you loon, or I'll break your homely face! Get out of that!"

"But I tell you I'm no loon. I'm Sawyer Cook."

"Confound it, what do I care if you did see my cook? That's her business if she wants to gallivant around at night. I mind my business, she minds hers, and you had better go about yours if you want to keep out of trouble and the policeman's hands!"

"I don't know anything about your servants, doctor, and I am not drunk; but my baby is sick, and if you don't hurry up she will die."

"Your baby's sick? Who are you?" cried the doctor in astonishment once more.

"Why, I am Mr. Sawyer Cook, of 345 Gripe street, as I told you before, and my baby is dying with the cramps," cried the agonized father.

"Oh, beg pardon, sir—I thought you were some tramp. I'll be down directly."

The baby is all right now, but Sawyer Cook wants his name changed.

A Brave Man Shrinks.

"How's this? You said you intended to propose to Miss Clamwhopper this evening, and here you are back before nine o'clock. She surely didn't refuse you?"

"No-o, I didn't propose. I concluded to postpone the question for a while."

"Now, see here, John, if you don't get that girl, it's your own fault. The idea of being such a coward. You, who have bravely walked up to the cannon's mouth."

"Y-e-s, but the cannon hadn't been eating onions."

Contemporary Journalism.

First Newspaper Reader—What is your paper?

Second Newspaper Reader—The Firmament.

First Newspaper Reader—It won't compare with the Solar System.

Second N. R.—Bah! The Solar didn't give any details about Pef-fer's whiskers being trimmed.

First N. R.—Yes, but it announced exclusively Blaine's Turkish bath last night.
