A QUAINT CEREMONY.

cordance With Quaker Rites.

At noon, in the prim meeting house of the Society of Friends at Rutherford place and Flifteenth street, Miss Elizabeth Willets and Dr. Samuel W. Lambert married themselves. No minister officiated, for none was needed. No prayers were said, and no music greeted heir approach to the altar. Ceremony eir approach to the altar. Ceremony and display were lacking. Half an hour before the ceremony was to take place the little meeting house was crowded to the walls. Three thourand invitations had been sent out, but only about 400 could gain entrance.

Everything had a subdued characterthe pews painted in soft yellowish brown colors, the ceremony, the decorations and the people. No flowers were disblayed, but the rostrum and the choir eats were banked with a mass of palms. Especially noticeable among the people were the young women, clad in soft colpred cloth govens, wearing big hats, which drooped in unexpected turns and crept out over their foreheads and had soft veils twisted about the brims, which shaded the eyes and the brows. These young women as they entered kept their eyes right toward the pews where they were going to sit. Scattered among the growd pressing into the church came a few Friends dressed in their old time attire-wearing smooth black coats, with welvet faced standing collars and broad topped lapels, and broad crowned, wide brimmed black hats.

Miss Willets reached the church, accompanied by her father, shortly before hoon. A few minutes later the ushers led the procession up the aisle. Following were the two bridesmaids. The bride advanced leaning on her father's arm. She wore a white satin gown trimmed with point lace and a tulle veil. The bridesmaids were attired in delicate green and white striped gowns, made with full skirts and adorned with black

The procession was received at the tostrum by Dr. Lambert and his best man and Dr. J. W. Markoe. Dr. Lam-bert advanced and took Miss Willets by the right hand. They stood facing each bther, scarcely looking at their assembled friends, as Dr. Lambert said: "In the presence of the Lord and these, my friends, I promise to take thee to be wine assistance to be a faithful and affectionate husband till death." Then Miss Willets spoke a few hurried words, inaudible to the people. What she said was:

"In the presence of the Lord and my friends I promise to take thee to be my wedded husband, promising through divine assistance to be a faithful and affectionate wife until death.'

. No prayer was offered, but after a moment's pause Mr. Howard J. Wright. the white haired clerk of the meeting, unrolled a large certificate. Dr. and Mrs. Lambert walked a step or two to the left, where he was standing, and then seating himself in a chair Dr. Lambert signed his name to the certificate. Then Mrs. Lambert signed the document, writing not her maiden name, possesses the individuality that characterized the New York Tribune when Horace Greeley was its oditor or The Times when edited by Honry J. Raymond.—Kansas Commoner.

The day of great newspapers, e / 2d by great editors, such as Horace Greeley and Henry J. Raymond, has passed away.—Chicago Tribune. We had the pleasure of knowing both Greeley and Raymond. We were more firm. contemporary editors than with the ledo, O. other. They were able, sincere, energetic, public spirited Americans. Neither them was a cherub. Mr. Greeley, good man! said "damn" more than once as we regret to remember, and when he d Raymond "the little villain" that eaded man retorted in language which many people have forgotten. The two did not get along very well together when one was editor of The Tribune and the other among his assistants, nor after- NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT. ward when they were editors of rival papers, though both were of the same party. Neither of them was an "ideal tor," or a very deep thinker, or a first class statesman or a notable scholar.

Greeley was a stronger and more stirring writer than Raymond, but Raymond was a far more skillful editor than Greeley. Greeley was more fervent in mind than Raymond; Raymond was more judicious and nimble than Greeley. Raymond, when he was a member of the legislature, and the speaker of the asthe state, and a member of congress, and a delegate to state or national conventions, gave evidence that he was greatly more ingenious in politics than Greeley who, indeed, during the brief period of his service in congress, did not win distinction. Raymond always kept up a close intimacy with those astute political managers, Thurlow Weed and William H. Seward, while Greeley was unable to stay long in the "political firm of Seward, Weed & Greeley," in which, as he ard, Weed & Greeley," in which, as he his continuous residence upon and cultivation said when he left the concern, he had of, said land, viz: A. P. Condray, N. C. Hinkbeen a "junior partner."

Greeley was more of a philosopher than Raymond, who, in turn, was more of a man of affairs than Greeley. Greeley was often compared with Benjamin Franklin, though he did not possess Franklin's scientific quality; Raymond might be compared, in many respects, with Franklin Pierce, though he was not of Pierce's politics. Greeley had certain to make final proof in support of his claim, and eccentricities of manner and action; Raymond was always regarded as a very level headed man. Both of them be-longed to the antislavery school in polities; but Greeley's fervor in the cause far surpassed Raymond's. Greeley had in his earlier years been a champion of "social reforms" which were bitterly denounced by Raymond, who, however, in the latter years of his life, began to county, Oregon. look with favor upon certain theories of gocialism. Greeley was negligent in his dress; Raymond was natty. Both Greeley and Raymond were founders of New York hely papers which still exist, but neither of which is now characterized by the traits of its founder. We agree with The Kansas Commoner to make final proof in support of his claim, and that notic of the New York papers now that and proof will be made before the Register Then Mr. Wright stood up and read Tribune or Raymond's Times, and no burg, Oregon, on Thursday, February 8, 1891, viz the certificate, which recounted that on one of them can possess it, for both of the certificate, which recounted that on these memorable individuals long ago on Homestead Entry No. 5515, for the sex of these memorable individuals long ago on Homestead Entry No. 5515, for the sex of next sec. 20, descripted for the undiscovered country n the presence of witnesses had pledged departed for "the undiscovered country themselves to be husband and wife. A NARROW ESCAPE! How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afrail to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of Now Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I weighed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 120%. Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit. I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Star, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1882.
