DIED.

At his home on South Slough, in Douglas Co., Oregon, on Saturday Oct. 3rd, 1896, at 9 a. m., T. F. Tripp aged 52 years.

Mr. Tripp was a native of Pennsylvania, having been born in Lackawanna Co., of that state in 1844. At the age of about 18, he enlisted in the union army and served nearly all through the war...

In 1867 he was united in marriage to Miss Louisa Johnson who survives him and who has borne him seven daughters, all of them being with their father in his last illness.

Mr. Tripp had been unwell since early in the spring but was confined to his bed only about a week. The remains were taken in charge by Gen. Lyons post G. A. R. of Florence, of which the deceased was a charter member.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Morford and the burial took place at the Mapleton cemetery. We learned to love this niece in her childhood and we know that death's messenger has been met by a kind and unselfish life.

We strive to put off the dread hour, to dodge the inexorable law of Nature, to prolong the life of our loved ones, but when the fell blow comes we are conscious that the departed one enjoys a peaceful slumber.

DIED.

Lillian Grace Knowles, daughter of Frank and Elizabeth Knowles, died at her home at Mapleton Saturday evening at the age of 13 years 9 months and 6 days.

The sickness which caused her death had its origin in a severe cold which she contracted early in the spring. She was a great sufferer during the last three weeks of her illness but clung to life with extraordinary vitality and courage.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Morford and the burial took place at the Mapleton cemetery. We learned to love this niece in her childhood and we know that death's messenger has been met by a kind and unselfish life.

SALMON PROPAGATION Cannery Men Give Valuable Assistance Pack Increased 10 Fold

Hatchery Capacity is an Annual Incubation of 1-2 Million Eggs and Can be Easily Increased to 2 1-2 Million.

It has been predicted by many that the salmon pack on the Siuslaw would rapidly diminish until the fishing industry, which has brought thousands of dollars into our valley and furnished its pioneer settlers with almost their only means of obtaining a livelihood, became an enterprise known only to the early history of our country.

When Professors Meeks and Alexander, deputy U. S. fish commissioners, arrived here four weeks ago it was late in the season and the difficulty of procuring salmon for propagating purposes which made the operation of the hatchery under the management of Mr. Hubbard two years ago a failure.

Hubbard two years ago a failure, threatened to produce a like result this year. This was prevented, however, by the timely assistance of Wm. Kyle as managing owner of the Florence Cannery Co. and P. J. Shiestad as manager of the C. Timmins Co. for Elmore Sanborn & Co.

These men, seeing the benefit to be derived by their companies and the citizens in general by the successful operation of the hatchery, were promptly on hand with an offer to furnish free all the fish that Mr. Christensen could catch with the seine that were fit for propagating purposes, and the results are most promising.

The eggs of at least 75 Chinook will be incubated and this will result in turning into the river about 500,000 young salmon which at the lowest estimate will greatly increase the pack of salmon in four or five years. It is estimated that at least one fourth of the salmon hatched live to return to their native river.

This will bring back 125,000 large salmon and if one-half of these are caught the pack will be 62,500 fish while it is now about 6,000. This means an additional yearly earning by the fishermen of $16,800 and a profit to the canneries of $23,500 figuring upon a basis of the present price for fish and 20 per cent profit for the cannery men.

This estimate is made upon the output for this year which is but one third the capacity of the hatchery. Its present capacity is the yearly incubation of one and a half million eggs which can easily be increased to two and one half million by the purchase of a few more baskets and troughs.

If the government fails to conduct the enterprise in the future, the canning companies are ready and willing to do so provided they are given the free use of the building and apparatus. With these prospects in view the fishing industry on this river can safely be looked upon as a permanent enterprise the profit of which will be increased ten fold in the next ten years.

I have berries, grapes and peaches, a year old, fresh as when picked. I use the California Cold Process, do not heat or seal the fruit, just put it up cold, keeps perfectly fresh and costs almost nothing; can put up a bushel in ten minutes. Last week I sold directions to over 120 families; anyone will pay a dollar for directions when they see the beautiful samples of fruit. As there are many people poor like myself, I consider it my duty to give my experience to such, and feel confident anyone can make one or two hundred dollars round home in a few days. I will mail sample of fruit and complete directions to any of your readers for eighteen two-cent stamps, postage, etc., to me.

Francis Casey, St. Louis, Mo. A late letter received by our cannerymen from H. D. McGuire State Fish and Game Protector indicates that he is contemplating the preparation of a bill to be presented to the next legislature which if passed will extend the close season of salmon fishing to Nov. 15 or 20th, on rivers south of Columbia and will also license fishing gear, canneries, and wholesale shippers for the purpose of raising funds to build and operate hatcheries under state supervision. He has been corresponding with different canneries along the coast in regard to the matter and they all seem to be in favor of such a law. It is probable that the bill will provide for restricting the state so that the funds raised by the license law will have to be expended on those rivers where the license is collected.
