MARRIED.

At the residence of the groom's parents in Florence, Sunday, was celebrated the nuptials of Miss Ina Schade to Joseph L. Morris, Rev. Thos. A. Yost officiating.

A large circle of friends and relatives were present to congratulate the young couple and bid them good-bye on the voyage of life.

The bride is one of the popular young people of Lake creek, where her parents reside, while the groom is well known about Florence as a young man of sterling worth and integrity.

The West wishes them all happiness.

ALPHA CLIPPINGS.

By EVEN CHANGE. January 29, 1901.

Wm. Austin, wife and children are visiting at Alpha and with friends on Bear creek.

Howard Pope went to Eugene last week to be appointed administrator of his brother Jim's estate.

The Misses Maud and Mabel Miller of Chickaloomny are over visiting Miss Ellinor Hale and other friends.

There will be almost no logs put in on Deadwood and Lake creek this year, as parties who have lost most of their logs by going to sea say that the boom is inadequate to meet the demand.

and that the mills, having a large supply of logs, are very independent, having paid $1 to many of the loggers, refuse to contract for more than $3 this year, and it is a well known fact that only one man who logged at Mapleton on tidewater, cleared any money.

The Alpha sawmill is running right along and is getting out a fine fruit drier 16x30 feet on the tunnel process, the tunnels to be 30 feet long with the crates of fruit loaded on cars, which enter at the top green, passing through the hot air tunnels and emerging at the lower end ready for the market.

Mr. Chas. Potter, who lost the bulk of his fruit last season for lack of evaporating facilities, wishes to avoid the repetition of a like loss next season.

Mr. Webster, an old gentleman who took a claim on the left fork of Deadwood several years ago, has been in poor health for some time, and living alone he became sick, when Joe and Andy Acheson went up and cut him some wood, and making him comfortable in other ways.

As Mr. Webster did not think that he was seriously ill he told the boys that he could get along all right, when they went home.

The next day Mr. Farmer and Mr. Acheson, Sr., took him some food, and on going into the house found the old gentleman in bed as he had retired, with his arms crossed peacefully over his breast, lying peacefully in death.

The remains were removed to the residence of Mr. Acheson and prepared for burial, and were interred in the Deadwood cemetery last Friday.

Mr. Webster was about 68 years of age and came to this place about three years ago from the East, where he has a family.

GREENLEAF ITEMS.

January 28, 1901. Miss Beckie Acheson, of Alpha, is home from Eugene.

Misses Maud and May Miller have been visiting on Deadwood creek the past week.

A merry party of young people enjoyed themselves last Monday evening at the Acheson residence. They stayed until daylight.

The Carlyles killed a bear on Olchahouing creek week before last. Their dog drove him out of a hollow tree.

Mrs. Lucas Wheeler has had enough of the woods. After one winter on Nelson creek she went to the valley to spend the present one, and now she has concluded to stay there and the Nelson creek farm may be vacant again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Levar gave a dinner to Marion Wheeler and wife and Marion's parents on Marion's 21st birthday, January 20th.

The young couple had just got far enough out of their honeymoon of typhoid fever to have ravenous appetites, and as the feast was a good one it was severely punished.

Twelve-year-old Winnie Miller, son of S. S. Miller, of Inlow, is a horse tamer. Lucas Wheeler, who had a cayuse that efforts had been made in vain to break to saddle.

Miller traded for the animal a short time ago and Winnie has broken it. The third time he rode it was last Tuesday, and he rode it over to Lake creek. The erstwhile terror seemed as gentle as a kitten with Winnie at the helm.

Serrel Webster, who took a homestead on the left fork of Deadwood creek a couple of years ago and has been living alone there, was found dead in his bed Wednesday morning.

He was 69 or 70 years old and rather feeble. A few days previous to his death some of the neighbors went up to see how the old man was, and found him confined to his house and out of firewood.

They cut a lot of wood and fixed him up as comfortable as they could, as he refused to be removed from his cabin. Wednesday morning he was found dead, apparently having assumed the position he wished to be found in, lying straight on his back with his hands crossed on his breast, and passed peacefully away. He was a native of Maine and an old sea captain.

She leaves a large circle of sorrowing relatives and friends to mourn her untimely death, among whom are a father, mother, brother and sister.

The burial took place in the Masonic cemetery, the funeral services being conducted by A. W. Wight, Sunday.
