The Only Injury Was to the Author's

"I was at Elk Rapids, Mich., summer," said the bookman, "and as I was strolling around one day I met an Indian with a dog. It was a real Indian dog, long bodied, short legged and the homeliest canine I ever looked at. I had no sooner set my eyes on him than I felt like throwing clubs and running him into Lake Michigan. The Indian saw my feelings in my face and

"Tie dog up. You throw. One cent

"The idea tickied me, and I told him to go ahead. While he was tying the dog to a bush I collected a hatful of stones from the beach and got ready for business. The Indian drew a line within 30 feet of his canine and told me to go ahead, while he picked up a stick to tally as I threw. I didn't want to knock that dog's head off or break one of his legs, but I did want to plunk him once or twice for his looks. I thought it would be the easiest thing in the world, but that was where I made a great mistake. As true as you live, I threw exactly 100 stones at that dog, at a cent a stone, and never grazed him. He was tied by a long rope, and he was lightning on the dodge. At the hundredth stone I gave up in disgust, but next day I made up my mind to hit that dog or die. On that day it cost me $1.70 for throws, and still no hits. On the third day it cost me $2, and at the end of a week I was out $7 and hadn't a tally. I was getting lop shouldered, nearsighted and ugly tempered, and my wife coaxed me to give up throwing and go nishing. The Indian

Why He Discharged Hin "No," said the Philadelphia grocer, "the new clerk did not last long. He was an honest, respectful boy, but he had no idea of natural philosophy, and I had to let him go."

"Has natural philosophy much to do with the grocery trade?" was asked. "Yes, now and then. For instance, the other morning when it was 12 degrees below the freezing point the new clerk hung four bunches of bananas outdoors and carefully piled up a dozen washboards behind the stove."

Well Supplied. "That was a queer case," began the The cross eyed boarder raised his eyebrows encouragingly. "A young Polish girl had six lovers, and the men got to fighting about her and were sent to the workhouse. She had more than two strings to her bow." "I should say so. She had a line on six Poles."-Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"I can't see how a poor little boy like you can afford to smoke cigars." "Indy, you wrong me, Allow me to state dat I'm not poor. Me fader is a plumber." -- New York Evening Jour-

A very dramatic conversation, printed in the London Ontlook, has the donble purpose of satirizing both the English and American bent of mind and manners. 'The "smart Yankee" is represented as coming home to his admiring town and telling in somewhat exaggerated dialect what he thinks of his cousin over the water.

"Say, tell us," said a friend, "air the English so terrible slow and dull, after

John and Jonathan

"Waal," replied the traveler, "I reckon so. I sat down one night in the parlor of a little village pub. Yes; it's a public house, but they call it pub in "There wuss the boss of the pub, the local butcher, the local evurything, and there wuss myself. I just listened. though I can't say there wuss much to listen to. The talk ran like this: 'I 'ear as Ted Robinson got the sack last week,' remarked a villager. "'Ted Robinson?' said the other villager, deliberately puffing smoke.

"Yuss; I 'ear so. Ted Robinson got the sack las' week.'
"A pause. More snoke. " 'Got the sack, eh?' "'Yuss; I 'ear as 'ow 'e did.' "A longer pause.

"'Las' week, was it, 'e got the sack?" "'I 'ear as 'ow it was las' week.'

"A long, long pause.
"'Ah! I 'eard that a Friday.' "And," continued the Yankee, "not a soul among 'em smiled. It was their reg'lar mental diet. Oh, yes, smart men the English are and no mistake."

Chinese Criticism of our Alphabet. The high class Chinaman, speaking through his interpreter, was giving the eminent American visitor his impressions of the English language.

"I cannot understand," he said, "how anybody ever finds time to learn it. Take that singularly formed letter in your alphabet, for instance, the letter 'g.' What an awkward and ill shaped character it is! What is the significance of that little curling projection at the upper end of it? I have never seen anybody who could tell me, Than, again, when the learner has familiar-ized himself with that letter and can recognize it at sight he learns that it is only a part of a word and that it enters into the composition of thousands of words. It has different pronunciations and sometimes is not pronounced at all, being entirely silent. Now, when you see one of our Chinese characters you know at once what it is. It is a wonder to me that your people do not discard the cumbersome forms of your written language and learn our simpler and more easily understood system."

The eminent American could only bow his head in humiliation and promise to bring the matter before the educational authorities of his native land. -Chicago Tribune.

Too Much For the Cab. One of the wealthlest wine merchants in Paris and also one of its Price $5000, including stock and me stoutest citizens was the hero of an epi- chinery. sode which caused much laughter in the Rue Princesse.

R., the corpulent man, bailed a cab, which came alongside the curb. He opened the door and, getting a purchase on the railing of "cabby's" seat, tried to hoist himself in.

But his weight was too much for the vehicle, which careened over and, as the sidewalk is very narrow, crashed into a window of a printing office. M. R. had meanwhile collapsed on the ground, and "cabby" by a miracle clung to his uncertain perch.

Then followed a stormy period. The printer came out and wanted to have the price of his broken window, the fat man tried to get the cabby to drive him | $450. away, and cabby refused to take any such load on board.

police station, where the difficulty was straightened out, and M. R. set to work looking for another cab.—Paris Temps.

Shrinking. Once upon a time there was a Bathing Suit which was much reprehended in that k was not modest. There was likewise at this same time also a Violet whose modesty was a matter of universal comment.

"What is your system," asked the Bathing Suit, accosting the Violet, "for I would fain be thought modest too?" "Why, I shrink," quoth the Violet, meaning no harm. But when the Bathing Suit shrunk in pursuance of this hint it was only reprehended the more and was finally cast away as being quite impossible.-Detroit Journal.

"Your little birdle has been very, very ill," she wrote to the young man. 'It was some sort of nervous trouble, and the doctors said I must have perfect rest and quiet and that I must think of nothing. And all the time, dear George, I thought constantly of The young man read it over and then read it through again very slowly and put it in his pocket and went out un-der the silent stars and kept thinking and thinking and thinking. He only Dr. Markthirst deliver an address on his observations in the slums." "Aren't you going to preach at all?" "Oh, yes. I'll preach my regular sermon, after which Dr. Markthirst will tell you some things that will open your eyes."-Philadelphia Press.

"I want to get copies of your paper for a week back," said the visitor to the newspaper office.

"Wouldn't it be better to try a porous plaster?" suggested the facetious clerk.—Philadelphia Record.

Minutes

There will be another car. But the mau can't wait. He chases the car and swings on, panting and hot, but satisfied. He keeps this gait up all day. He works that way, he lunches that way. He continues this until his stomach "breaks down" and nature compels him to "go slow."

Bus hess men who have impaired their digestion by hasty eating will find in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a cure for dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It does not give mere temporary relief, but it effects a radical cure. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves and purifies the blood.

"For six long years I suffered with my liver kidneys, and with indigestion, which baffled the best doctors in our country." writes E. L. Rauseil, Esq., of Woolsey, Prince William Co., Va. "I suffered with my stomach and back for a long time, and after taking a "cart-load" of medicine from three doctors, I grew so bad i could hardly do a day's work. Would have
