DALLAS, SATURDAY, SEPT. 18, 1869.

Dallas Cemetery-Notice.

Every person who has visited this silent city of the dead must have remarked the great necessity that exists for improvement in its condition. All civilized people under the sun take a sacred pride in decorating the last resting places of their lost loved ones, and we are sure the good people of this community are not dead to the feeling which prompts men to pay these tributes of respect to the memory of | manship. those whom they loved and honored in this life. Quite a number of the citizens of Dallas have agreed to meet at the cemetery next Friday morning, Sept. 24th, equipped with the necessary implements to clear out the grubs, trim the shade trees, and remove from within the enclesure the logs and dead timber that encumber the ground and impede the passage of vehicles between the graves. All persons who have friends buried here, or who desire to assist in making this sacred place worthy of the community are requested to be present at the time stated. The tools necessary for the work required are axes, spades, mattocks and crosscut saws, and gentlemen are requested to bring along as many of such tools as they can make convenient. Turn out, everybody, and assist in this good work.

DALLAS LITERARY CLUB .- This society met on Tuesday mening last and elected the following gentlemen to act as officers for the current term : President, T. J. Ford ; Vice President, J. D. Lee; Secretary, C. W. Goodwyn; Treasurer, T. G. Richmond; Sergeant-at-arms, J. L. Shelton. Eighteen gentlemen signed the Constitution. The members were divided into two classes, which classes will alternate each week in debate and literary exercises. A cordial and earnest invitation was extended to the ladies of Dallas to join the club and participate in the literary and musical exercises-and debate, too, if they see fit. The subject for debate next Tuesday evening is-Resolved, "that the right of suffrage should be extended to women as it is now enjoyed by men " As this is a subject of peculiar interest to the fair sex, the ladies are expected to attend en masse. Applications for membership must be made in

"PHYSICIAN HEAL THYSELF."-The Uniquist takes Beriah Brown to task for spelling Dickens' famous character of Micareber "McCawber," and in the same item Sam. Clark makes two ignorant blunders of a similar character. The name of the celebrated historian, essayist and poet, Macaulay, is distorted into "McCauley," while the eminent Frenchman Barriere is nicknamed "Barrere." Truly Byron's definition of fame or bonor is correct. He said it meant one's being killed on the field of battle and having his name mis-spelt in the Gazette. "People who live in glass houses shouldn't FALLING .- After an interval of a few warm days and bright skies, Aquarius again let forth the contents of his cisterns rather freely last Thursday, and it has continued to rain at intervals up to our going to press. Yesterday it looked as though the Webfoot winter had commenced in earnest, but the warm rays of the sun shot forth towards evening, leaving us still in doubt. The soil is now in excellent condition for plowing and our farmers are taking advantage of it.

THAT "EQUALIZER."-We learn that Dr. McCurdy of Salem has purchased the medical apparatus known as the "Equalizer," and is operating with it very successfully, his time being fully occupied. Our old friend Pumpelly is still under treatment and is becoming entirely regenerated from its effect. Dr.McCurdy's office is over McCully's.

VICTIMIZED .- The editor of the Jacksonville Sentinel has been imposed upon by some literary thief, who sent him a trio of stanzas for original and which be published under the title of "My Treasure." We read the lines many years ago, and have had a copy of them in our scrap book at least two or three sum-

CAMP MEETING .- There was to have been a camp meeting of the M. E. Church at Ellendale, commencing last Thursday, but we presume the rain must have compelled them to postpone it, inasmuch as we have not seen any person who has be n there. If the weather is propitious there will doubtless be a large attendance there to-morrow.

Sour FARM .- We learn that Gen. Nesmith refused, last week, an offer of $50,000 for his farm near Dixie. There are not a great many such farms in Oregon.

A man named Pyburn has been sentenced to thirty days imprisonment in the Douglas county jail, for disturbing the peace and using bad language in the streets of Oakland .- Ex. The foregoing paragraph forcibly struck us as being a precedent that might be profitably followed by the authorities of this county. In this town of Dallas there is more contemptible rowdyism displayed by a class of young men than would be tolerated in a better ordered and less indulgent community. We do not allude exclusively to the young men of the town. Many of these nuisances come in from the country on cayuse ponies, "cavort" around like Bedlamites and indulge in the grossest profan-ity and obscenity in loud voice, on the public streets. Anywhere else these rowdies would be locked up in the calaboose for half as much as we have witnessed pass unrebuked. But there is a class ip town that fills the above bill to an iot >-- barring the cayuse. They congregate in and about the hotel chiefly, and conduct themselves in such a manner as to disgust any person of gentlemanly instincts, and in many instances force guests to get up and leave the house to rid themselves of their pestilent presence. This we know to be true from personal observation. We have also seen respectable strangers who happened to be stopping at the hotel, where they had a right to expect courteous treatment, made the victims of low flung gibes and inuendoes of an insulting character at the hands of these depraved things. We also know the proprietors of the hotel have done everything in their power to suppress this nuisance, but to no purpose. We therefore shall deem the officers of the law derelict in duty if writing and presented to the club by one of its | they do not put a stop to these outrageous proceedings. The character of the town and the fair fame of the community is at stake, and it should be attended to without delay.

CONVERSATIONAL CLUBS .- Are the latest fash. ion in New York. They meet once a week, and some one member, selected at a previous meeting, talks fifteen minutes on the subject assigned him when selected. After the chief talker of the evening has concluded, any member of the club may occupy five minutes, either in ques- Nucle. Let us quit this unpleasant subject, tioning the chief, who is supposed to be fully Smarty, and stick to more congenial topics of posted on the topic of the evening, or in giving a social and local character. You excel in these his or her own views. A dozen or more per-sons may in this way give utterance to their ence for good in this community besides being ideas, in the course of the evening, and a great variety of thoughts will thus be brought out. We should think this was a m way of spending an evening, and suggest that you to wish to see you mixed up in the "filthy a Conversation Club be organized here. It will combine the benefits of a lecture and debating society, having the defects of neither. A half FRIGHTFUL.-Since the late rains, the game of pitching horse shoes has been revived, and now progresses with unwonted vigor. There is a feature about this pastime, however, that suggested the above heading, to wit: the unearthly yelling that follows the achievement of a "ringer." A biped with ordinarily long ears might distinguish some of the voices almost as far off as bixie. Go a little easier, boys. If a lady higher wages than he who has no trade; and in the condition ladies like to be who love their lords should happen to be in the neigh borhood, the consequences might be disastrous. that in case of mistortune he can return to his Just think! Our Portland cotemporaries, if they "nip" the above are also requested to ap-pend this addendum: While in Portland recently we noticed one afternoon, two gentlemen connected with one of the leading business firms of that city seated on a dry-goods box in front of their store, on Front street, and busily engaged in playing a game of checquere. Port-land is not much shead of Dallas after all—in one respect at least.

HALF CROP .- Mr. Sam. Goff, of Dixie, who has been running a thresher all through harvest, informs us that the mean average of all the grain threshed by him this season was eighteen bushels to the acre, thresher measurement-about half the usual yield. In other localities the crops have done better. We hope in a week or two to give the mean average for

Is he angry? Now for Johnathanus. His Enigma No. 6 is huge. But he never made it himself. He had ment, some of the "sports" about town have help. I know. I could easily recognize him in been indulging in the above cruel pastime (to his first; but that last takes me. However, we us) during the week. Better wring their necks must live and learn. I never knew before that at once than torture the poor creatures to death. the Siamese Twins had any other name than "Chang and Eng." I see now that they have.
I will say for friend J., if he really did make that himself he has found his calling, and advise him to go on. He did not spell "Willamette" right in No. 5.

You ask my advice as to what shall be done with the young gent who "forgot." I don't know. I am sure, unless you make a scar on the other cheek. But I guess I wouldn't mind, as the "lady" has not gone so far but that you can make your "acknowledgements" in person. I like your style of talking to rowdies, and all such, about maintaining order and decency at public places, and especially in churches. It is terribly disgusting to see men spitting all over, wherever they happen to be, and no gen-tleman will do it. You have a great work. Go after them.

Now a word to you. sir. Seems to me, that as long as you have no opposition, would it not of books, stationery, music, and other articles be as well to be a little easy on politics, as there in that line outside of Portland He imports are some good people of the other side who now in New York City. direct, and can thus offer superior inducements | don't care to bave their feelings hurt every time they look at the paper. P. S .- "Ad Interim, Sen.," need not be mad, for "thy voice is ever near." We had almost given "Smarty" up for lost as her communication did not come to hand till Thursday. However, the foregoing speedily relieved our anxiety. Doesn't she "wade into" "Johnathanus," though? If his infirm health will permit him, we expect to see Smarty "hauled over the coals" next week. Ad Interim, Jun., is still a laggard-perhaps his absence from town may furnish to some an excuse for "Antonius" has gone "down by the Sound-ing sea," so it is doubtful if he will furnish Smarty any more food for satire. Now for the portion that alludes to ourself. Smarty ventures the assertion that many "good people" have their feelings hurt every time they look at the TIMES on account of the political views expressed therein. With all due regard for our fair correspondent we "can't see it in that light." If a fair and honest expresion of opinion-on any subject-free from personalities or vulgarity, can shock a person's sensibilities, we do not envy that person his jaundiced, intolerant disposition and narrow minded prejudice. Suppose we were to assert that every time we opened one of our Republican exchanges our "feelings were hurt" (and they apply far more opprobrious epithets to us than we indulge in). why, everybody would laugh at us. And, again, we know that every sensible person (of the male sex, any rate) will respect us more for being candid and honest than if we truckled to our opponents in matters involving great principles and interests; and we wouldn't give a fig for the friendship of those who would act otherwise. Again, Smarty says we have "no opposition." Have we not opposition in every Radical sheet that circulates in Oregon, to say nothing of the plans being concocted and the wires laid at this very moment, in this and adjoining counties, by Senator Williams, Judge Boise and others, to secure more firmly the yoke of bondage on the necks of our hardworking plow-holders and plain-drivers, to pamper in idleness and insolence the shoddy moneyocrats of this once great Republic. Opposition,

He has that at any rate : failure in business cannot deprive him of it, his speculations may break down, but he has an anchor to leeward, as the sailors say; his subsistence and that of his family are sure. In this country, where fortunes, quickly gained, are also quick ly lost, it is still more necessary and prudent trade, and learn it thoroughly.
