WIFE AND HUSBAND.

It is a curious coincidence that a woman who has a will of her own is seldom willing to keep it.—Boston Post.

An ocelot, or puma cat, an animal that has never been known to be tamed by man, will soon be added to the zoological collection at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia.

A correspondent asks if it is proper to dance with a married lady when her husband is looking on. Certainly. The dancing is sure to be very proper under such circumstances.—Philadelphia Call.

At Toulon a brass band has been engaged to play in the public squares, so that the people may not be low spirited. Some who have heard the band prefer to have the cholera.—New Orleans Picayune.

A Pennsylvania woman has been sent to prison for horse stealing. The dear creature is getting their rights one after another, thanks to the efforts of the noble pioneers in the field of agitation.—Boston Transcript.

There hasn't been an earthquake in this section for several weeks, and when a family hears the walls shaking they naturally infer that next door, a husband and wife are settling a personal difficulty.—Philadelphia Chronicle.

"Yes, said a Denver man to his wife, 'in the past week I have seen two rainbows, both red.' 'I can tell you the next thing that you ought to see,' remarked the lady, quietly. 'What is that?' 'A doctor.'—New York Sun.

A Louisville man has turned out some sort of an electrical invention by which a man can lie in bed and fish. There is no demand for such a contraption, for anybody knows that a man who will fish can lie anywhere.—Merchant Traveler.

An old writer says female beauty is a silent fraud. He must have been a manufacturer of cosmetics. Of all the beautiful things of earth, a handsome tombstone is about the only one we don't want more of.—Merchant Traveler.

A Parisian doctor proscribed for a lady who had objections against growing stout: "Take exercise, my dear lady. Consider the trees of the field; they never take exercise, and as a consequence they keep on growing bigger and bigger every year."

The Italian government thinks of prohibiting the exportation of organ grinders, because they give a false idea of the country and injure its dignity. All the world will uphold Italy in this desire to protect its dignity.—Detroit Free Press.

Victor Petite, of Staten Island, had such a nice saloon that he feared burglars. Therefore he bought a Newfoundland dog and put him in charge of the place for the night. In the morning the dog was there but the glass of the saloon was broken into half-inch pieces. Loss three hundred and fifty dollars.—N. Y. Sun.

A Scotchman seldom loses his self-respect when in the presence of titled men and women. He is courteous, but not obsequious. The following anecdote illustrates that his courtesy may be tinged with sly humor:

During the stay of the Queen, some years ago, in the vicinity of Loch Veonachar, the Princess Louise, who lacks none of the love of her sex for shopping, drove into the town of Callander to get some velvet matched.

Having procured what she was in search of, she was about to pay for it, when she discovered that she had left home without her purse. Explaining the matter to the draper, and promising to send the money next day, the Princess was greatly amused at receiving the characteristically pawky reply: "Dinna fish [trouble] yourself, mem, yer mither has an account here."—St. Stephen's Review.

Natives of Texas are noted by all newcomers as being very inhospitable. As an instance: A man was traveling on "the boundless prairie," and when night was about to fall, he spied a log cabin near a small piece of cultivated ground. As he was twenty miles from any other inhabitant, he felt that he had been lucky in coming on this settlement. As is customary when within hailing distance, he shouted, "Hello!"

In reply to this a bushy female head was thrust through the door, and in a loud voice, demanded "What's wanted?"

"I want to stay over night and get a bite to eat," was the answer. "We haint got nothin' to eat," said the planter's wife.

"What?" said the traveler in astonishment, "Haven't you got corn bread and bacon?"

"We haint got no cawn bread, we haint got no bacon, we haint got no nuthin', and you can't stay." And as the weary traveler turned from the door he heard a voice which seemed to come from behind a pile of straw in the corner, "Marier, I reckon you had better tie the dog loose."

In summer, when the ground is dry, Our wayward minds impressing With what is meet—what we should buy— Light calf skin is a blessing. But, when the rain descends, and impedes perambulation, We need a boot both strong and good To reach our destination. Go to Dean & Huntington's— They will fit and please you; They keep every thing. From about boots for winter. To light cues for spring.

 Pacific Coast.

THE CHRONICLE BUILDING.
 THE SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE is the first paper on the coast in ability and in the freshness and reliability of its NEWS. Nothing that the world desires to know is omitted from its columns. It also has the very best of every department of a first-class paper.

Its telegraphic reports are the latest and most reliable; its local news the fullest and simplest; and its editorials from the ablest pens in the country.

THE CHRONICLE has always been, and always will be, the friend and champion of the people against combinations, cliques, corporations or oppression of any kind. It will be independent in everything, neutral in nothing; fair and impartial to all parties, yet exposing corruption whenever found, and working with fearless endeavor to promote and protect every interest of the great public whom it serves and on whom it depends for its support.

THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLY CHRONICLE, the most brilliant and complete Weekly Newspaper in the World, prints regularly 72 columns, or eight pages, of News, Literature and General Information; also a magnificent Agricultural Department.
