TUESDAY, DEC. 22, 1885.

Local Laconics.

Mr. C. Beyerle, of Bandon, visited this place Wednesday.

G. W. Sleeper, the old defaulting sheriff of this county, died at Adin, Cal., on Nov. 24.

Mrs. Thos. W. Johnson, accompanied by her brother, R. J. Clinton, was in town Wednesday.

The friends of Rev. J. B. Perkins will be pleased to learn that he is having better health than for a long time.

Rev. C. A. Wooley, of Eugene City, is in the county delivering the first volume of Gen. Grant's memoirs.

State Superintendent of public instruction McElroy has our thanks for a copy of the sixth biennial report from his office.

Miss Ida Strang commenced school last Monday in the new district recently cut off from the west side of that of Coquille City.

Johnny Leneve, wife and sister, Miss Jennie, left last week for a visit to Curry county, where they will remain till after the holidays.

James Doyle, an old acquaintance of Wm. Hite, arrived here last week from Indiana. His health was very bad, and his coming here was for the purpose of regaining that.

H. McDonough, who spent many weeks in this place this fall, has just been down to Humboldt and brought his family up to permanently locate. He is an old acquaintance of S. J. Miller on Cunningham creek.

James Candlish returned from Butte City, Montana, Wednesday. He has our thanks for late Butte papers—papers of the same date as those arriving (at the time he did) from the Willamette valley towns. Why is this thus?

Mr. A. Pershbaker returned from the city Tuesday. He brought word that the Truckee, which the people had imagined was lost, had arrived in San Francisco with sails and much of her deck load gone. As much of her cargo consisted of shipments from our farmers, dairymen and merchants, the loss will be felt at home.

Uncle Hugh Duffy writes from Myrtle Point as follows:

In the HERALD of the 8th inst. I saw the doleful expressions of Le Garcon on account of the condition of his hands. That, I think, is tetter. If so, let me know; I have a recipe for what cured a lady of my acquaintance who was sorely afflicted by it. "And breathe a sigh in sorrow for mankind."

Our squibites should bear in mind that they are liable, in puffing one person's business, to do an injustice to some one else. We are always anxious to give any item that would be beneficial to our readers, so it does not injure some one else. For instance; last week one of our contributors gave one of his friends a good puff on what he has for sale, while another friend of his is running an ad in the HERALD, and paying for it. Now, do you not see where the injustice comes in? If it would not injure the second party it would be gladly published.

Money in Poultry.

"When I have chickens I always have money," said a gentleman the other day, who has recently come from Minnesota and located here, purchasing a piece of land which he will use for poultry business. "Of course it takes a little time, attention and money, but from the same amount of capital invested I do not know of any other business that will realize so rapidly and well on the investment." Five dozen good laying hens will furnish a small family a comfortable living two-thirds of the year. We are glad to note that many Pomona farmers are devoting some of their energies in the poultry line.—Pomona Progress.

For Husband and Wife.

It is not infrequent that a wife mourns over the alienated affections of her husband when she has made no effort herself to strengthen and increase his attachment. She thinks because he once loved her he ought always to love her, and she neglects those attentions which engaged his heart. Many a wife is thus the cause of her own neglect and sorrow. The woman deserves not a husband's love who will not greet him with smiles when he returns from the labors of the day, who will not try to chain him to his home by the sweet enchantment of a cheerful heart. There is not one in a thousand so unfeeling as to withstand such an influence and break away from such a home. This is the man's story.

A woman's advice is generally worth having, so if you are in trouble tell your mother, or your wife, or your sister all about it. Be assured that light will flash upon darkness. Women are commonly judged inexperienced in all but pure womanish affairs. No philosophical students of the sex thus judge them. Their intuitions or insight are the most subtle, and if they cannot see a cat in the meal there is no cat there. A man should keep none of his affairs from his wife. Many a home has been saved and many a fortune retrieved by a man's full confidence in his wife. Woman is far more a seer and a prophet than man if she be given a fair chance. As a general thing wives confide the minutest of their affairs and thoughts to their husbands. The men who succeed are those who make confidantes of their wives. This is the wife's story.—The Moon.

A good story comes from Franklin, N. H., and at present the young folks of that burg are having more fun than the Indians. A young roller-skater, by the name of George Darrow, fell in love with a fair but fat young damsel named Miss Sarah Carey, and as Sarah's papa was prejudiced against roller-skaters in genral, he forbade her going with the young man. At last George could stand it no longer, and proposed that they elope. Now Sarah tips the beam at 240 pounds but nevertheless she is very romantic, and she jumped at George's proposition like a terrier would jump at a rat. That very night George drove around to the Carey mansion, and Sarah was on hand like a wart. George helped her into the wagon, and taking his place beside her was about to drive off, when crash! the wagon broke down and Sarah was landed in the ditch. Mr. Carey was awakened by the noise and drove his would-be-son-in-law away with the shotgun. The young people have written to young Darrow, and told him if he would return, they would supply him with a stone wagon in which to remove his heave-weight lady-love to a place of safety.—Pecks Sun.

Root Crops.

The root crop is far better entitled to be called "the pivotal crop" of the farm than grass is. It is indeed the pivot around which the whole of the farm work will revolve. Five acres of roots should yield from four thousand to five thousand bushels or one hundred and fifty tons. One ton of roots will feed one cow or one steer for about forty to fifty days, and the five acres will therefore provide for the feeding of thirty head of stock during six months. With this supply of roots and plenty of straw and some purchased bran or oil cake meal, then, thirty head of stock can be fed or fattened, and by good management two hundred tons of excellent manure can be made for the improvement of the land. If this crop, then, does not deserve to occupy the central position in the farmer's mind, what other crop can? It is very important just now to consider this subject, because if roots are to be grown immediate preparations should be made.—N. Y. Times.

Oregon National Banks.

The report of the comptroller of the currency shows that the national banks in Oregon earned in the year ending September 1, 1885, 21.49 per cent, on their capital and surplus. The national banks in Wassington territory earned a little less, or 19.50 per cent. The average earnings for the same period of the national banks in New England were 4.39 per cent., just about one-fourth of the earnings in Oregon. This accouts for the increase of national banks in Portland, and also for the fact that the bankers of this city do not encourage people to send or bring money here to loan. It also serves to explain why the people generally are not more prosperous. The banks have maintained a sort of a corner in money, and without competitors they easily earn these enormus profits which of course, are a tax upon the productions of the people.—Daily Standard.

A Big Territory.

The Estelle (D. T.) Bell commenting on the proposed division of the Territory says: Suppose Dakota could be painted red, white and blue and fastened to the Washington monument, it would make a flag that would float out across the Atlantic and make those Britishers out there tired of life. Pull Dakota out by the roots and throw it over the fence into the British possessions, and you have a hungy-looking hole big enough to bury Minnesota, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, and what the cyclones have left of Iowa.

Preserving Eggs in Lime Water.

A peck of fresh lime is slacked in water, and when cool is diluted by adding water to make half a barrelful. When this is well settled and perfectly clear, a proper barrel or other vessel is procured, which must be sweet and clean, and the eggs carefully laid in it, so that none be broken or cracked. The clear lime water is then poured over the eggs. A piece of muslin cut larger than the top of the vessel, is then laid over the eggs, and the soft lime from the bottom of the barrel in which it was slacked, is poured upon the cloth to the thickness of half an inch, and this is kept always covered with water. If set in a cool place, with a wooden or other cover over the vessel, the eggs will keep good several months.—Globe.
