Mustache vs Bangs.

There is, perhaps, nothing in all the world that the average man would rather abuse and blackmail than a woman's fashions. He hates bangs and detests powders; he roars at back hair, and almost blows up at bustles. He doesn't like to see pinched feet or tight lacing; despises Jerseys or patent calves; while, on the other hand, he never once thinks that men are votaries of any fashion that would be called absurd. Doesn't seem to know that there is nothing in all the world that the average man will hang on to with such a grip as a mustache. There is nothing he so dotes on, in his eye; it is a thing worth fondling; a beautiful, elegant thing. It may resemble a bunch of oakum or wisp of hay; it may spread out over his face in a mild kind of way; it may turn up at the ends, or it may turn down into his nose or into his mouth; it makes no difference to him; it is a mustache, and he loves it. It may plunge into his soup or wallow in his coffee; it may swab the butter from off his bread, and ruin forever the romance of a kiss, but for all that, men think a mustache is a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Lodi.
 The Nora Harkins arrived in the bay Thursday, having made the round trip in 13 days. Three of the Coquille schooners left the river the same time she left the bay, but she got away with them on the trip. When she discharges her cargo again in the city she will make a trip to the Sound.—[Coos Bay News. Yes, the Nora Harkins is a good and smart craft, but she is in every sense a Coquille boat, she having been built here only a little over two years ago.

J. H. Kimball undertook to capture a burglar recently at Eureka, Cal., when the latter opened fire and instantly killed him.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

[Coast Mail.]

Huden has put in another fire in his blacksmith shop, and has employed a fancy horse-shoer to put shoes on horses that expect to win races, etc. Huden is rushing business, and his establishment promises to become an important industry.

The Coos started out for the Coquille river Sunday night. All the vessels at the wharves whistled, and Capt. Dunham whistled, as she steamed down the bay. Monday she came quietly back and crossed over on the mud flats and laid down. John L. Howard, general manager of the Oregon Improvement company, was on the bay last week. This company represents a capital of $5,000,000 and is one of the most important on the coast. Mr. Howard is also general superintendent of the O. S. I. company. There does not seem to be any prospect that this company will immediately resume operations on the bay.

[Coos Bay News.]

Wm. Barkis is building a large barn on his farm on North Coos river. About 30,000 feet of lumber will be used in its construction.

Several parties have lately come to the bay from the lower Coquille via Whisky Run and the "Devils," and all are unanimous in asserting that a good road can be built at a small cost, considering the benefit settlers on the lower river and coast would derive from its construction. They have expressed their willingness to donate labor, and with some assistance from the county the road can be built.

County warrants have been called in up to February 1st, 1885, and over half the warrants issued since then have been redeemed. The financial condition of Coos county is better at present than it has ever been before, and the books will bear us out in this assertion. The very fact that county scrip is at par now, is the best evidence of the able manner in which the county business has been managed.

Decoration Day.

New York, May 26.—The official programme for Decoration day is completed. The president will go to Brooklyn early Monday morning, and return in time to review the New York procession at the Worth monument, the Old Guard acting as guard of honor. Among the distinguished invited guests who will ride in carriages at the memorial column will be Lieut. Gen. Sheridan and staff, Rear-Admiral Jouett and Gen. Doubleday. Next will follow the first division of the National Guard, and after this fifteen divisions of the Grand Army of the Republic, a navy yard battalion, and regulars from the harbor ports will take part in the Brooklyn pageant. All detachments from the North Atlantic squadron now in this harbor have been ordered to join the parade. These will include 800 men, detailed from the Tennessee, Brooklyn, Galena, Swatara and Yantic. The procession will start at 9:30 and move down Fifth avenue to Washington square, returning to Madison square. In the evening exercises under the direction of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be held at the Academy of Music, Mayor Grace presiding, and an oration will be delivered by Postmaster-General Vilas. During the day Grand Army posts will decorate the tombs and monuments of heroes and patriots. The oration at Grant's tomb will be delivered by Gen. Logan. At its conclusion vessels of the North Atlantic squadron will pass up the Hudson and fire a salute opposite River side Park.

Two Men Drowned.

Walla Walla, May 28.—Doc Smith, and Henrietta Selzer were drowned in Big Eddy, thirty miles up Clear Water river from Lewiston, Idaho, while coming down on a lumber raft from the North Fork.

A $250,000 fire destroyed the hoisting and pumping machinery in the Grand Central mine at Tombstone, Arizona, a few days ago.
