Iowa Slough Items.

Frank Nosler is in Montana.

B. Vowel has purchased a fine Morgan stallion which will be used as a trotter on the Green Point and Bear Creek road, when not otherwise employed.

The Noslers will slash ten acres of brush and timber this season. Let the good work go on.

Capt. Clawson will lead the van with a good crop this year; he is our banner farmer.

Clark Miller paid us a visit a few days ago. Was glad to see him in these parts.

The election is over and we have a few campaign howls on hand which we will sell cheap for cash.

We set more price on some of the howls than we do on some others, but we will try and average the thing, so that all may have a show to buy one at least.

The bees on the slough have swarmed a great many times this season, and we have fun while hiving them as the following lines will show. Our friend is a great bee man:

It was about a ton of fun,
To see him take that mighty spin,
And all around the orchard run,
A thousand bees close after him.

One hand he held upon his smell
The other on his hearing thing,
And every time he fetched a yell
We knew he'd got another sting.

It was enough to make him swear;
The poor bee-ridden feller, oh!
They stung him in his eyes and ears,
And stung him on his smeller, oh!

And now our friend don't look his best—
His nose bends to the weather side,
One ear is larger than the rest,
And he's a little trigger eyed.

Texas, and the southern parts of Kansas and Indian Territory, have suffered a terrible drowth. It is thought that one-third of the cattle have perished. Beef all over the country will rule high in consequence.

It is counted a singular fact that the vote in this precinct this year is exactly the same as that of two years ago, when it is known that we have increased materially in population. The cause is that none, except the crew of the Coos were allowed to vote except they had a residence in the precinct.

A dispatch was received at San Francisco a few days ago announcing the death of Beecher and the apathy shown by the people was conclusive of the bad feeling for him there.
