THIRD DAY.

Grand excursion over Coos bay bar on the tug Escort.

Mr. C. H. Merchant has kindly tendered to the institute the services of the tug Escort for an excursion over the bar, Friday, August 13th, 1886.

Arrangements have been made with the transportation lines whereby teachers may come and go for half fare, and be with the people of Marshfield for their entertainment while here. It is especially urged that the school directors of the county will extend to their teachers the same courtesy they have heretofore, by allowing their time to go on while the teachers are at the institute, as the work is one in which all are equally interested, and the profit of the institute accrues to the patron and pupil as well as the teacher. All teachers whom we have met seem anxious to come. A large attendance is expected, and a profitable and pleasant time anticipated.

Very Respectfully,
A. J. Sherwood,
School Supt. for Coos county, Or.

The Coming Fair.

Great preparations are being made to make the coming district fair one of especial interest to all who may attend it. The horse racing, for which the people have more interest than most anything else, will be all that could possibly be wished. All the local fast stock will be there, and much from a distance. The good record of our home horses has stirred up a feeling out side, and every effort will be made to carry off the laurels. To this our people object, and lively times resulting in competition will be had. Fast horses will be on the ground especially to beat the Woodbury stock, and there is going to many of these same horses pitted against one another.

The exhibit of fine stock and that of the various products promises to be complete. The people are awaking to a realization of the importance of exhibiting their products, stock and wares at their district fair. The purses and premiums are very liberal when we take into consideration the means at the disposal of the managers.

Regarding the privileges we will say that a big attendance will make all these pay largely, and the persons buying these will be in luck for once. The following shows how many are sold and those yet for sale:

There are 5 restaurants seating 24 persons each, $5; 1 sold to John Snyder.

Three stands for candies, nuts, lemonade and foreign fruits, $10 each; 1 sold to F. P. Norton.

Three stands for cigars and tobacco. $5 each; 2 sold to John Nasburg and 1 to F. P. Norton.

Three stands for domestic fruits and cider, $5 each.

Two hay stands, $5 each.

Two stands for meat, eggs and poultry, $3 each.

Two barber shop stands, $2.50.

Three soda water stands, $5 each; 2 sold to John Nasburg and one to F. P. Norton.

One photograph gallery stand, $5.

One shooting gallery stand, $5; sold to George McEwan.

Books and stationery stand, $2.50.

Swing, exclusive privilege, $20.

The Apache War.

It is to be hoped that congress will not adjourn without making some effectual provision for the prosecution of the campaign against the Apaches upon a more formidable scale than it is now maintained. There are not enough soldiers in Arizona, nor are the transportation facilities adequate to the emergency. The whole territory is practically in a state of siege. Business is suspended in the principal towns, and the people are making arrangements, where this is possible, to quit the country. All this has been brought about by a mere handful of savages who escaped from their reservation two years ago and have since spread terror and destruction over all that part of the Southwest. Although they have been continuously pursued by the available troops in New Mexico and Arizona, the character of the country—the long reaches of uninhabited desert, the frequent intersection of mountain ranges, and the thinly populated and widely scattered districts—has enabled them to escape. The most frightful atrocities have been perpetrated, and men and women put to death with comparative impunity. Such conditions are a reproach and a shame to the country. If all the Indians on the reservations were vicious, treacherous and irreclaimable, there might be some excuse for the demoralization which marks our method of governing them. But such is not the case. Only a few of the Indians are hostile; but so long as they are able to defy the government they are liable to tempt and corrupt the others.

The fact is, all who have intelligently studied the Indian question concur in the opinion that the first thing to be done is the suppression or extirpation of the hostile Apaches, and then, in some effective way, to get rid of the present incoherent and inconsistent Indian system, by bringing the common sense and philanthropy of the nation to bear upon it—revising all the laws touching upon the problem, subjecting the young to education and industry and the old to inflexible restraint. The reservation system, as now conducted, is a mistake and a crime. The settlements are asylums for laziness, debauchery and crime. The young are trained in vicious habits and the old confirmed in savagery and lawlessness. All this should be changed and changed without delay. As congress can alone deal with this problem, it should not shirk the obligation of attempting to solve it at once.—Examiner.

SAVE YOUR MONEY.—J. H. Nosler, of the New drugstore soon goes to the city to lay in a new stock of goods, and will sell goods for the next 30 days for almost cost for cash. Give him your patronage.

NEW FIRM.—Mr. Rose of the firm of Johnson & Rose has retired from that firm and Mr. J. C. Laird has formed a partnership with Mr. Johnson, under the firm name of Laird & Johnson. We take pleasure in recommending them to the people of Coquille City and vicinity.

The heliographic station in Bisbeen canyon has received a dispatch from Fort Bhwie saying the hostile chiefs in the Sierra Madres sent word that they desired to parley with General Miles or a representative. An order has been sent Lieutenant Parker to cease pursuit of the hostiles until the result of the parley has been ascertained. Geronimo is wounded.

Supposed to be Dead.

Ed. HERALD: We heard that Lo-li was not expected to live. I suppose he is dead now. He must have gone through Purgatory in a hurry. I presume he received the name of "Pen" while in Spirit Land. Well, Pen, I suppose you have seen many strange things the past few weeks, but they havn't had much effect on you; in fact you write so much like you used to, that without your subscription we would not be able to distinguish between the writing of the dead and the living.

Now, Pen, we know some of the facts about that trouble at school, which you mentioned in your last article. You know that in every settlement there are those who are pleased with nothing, and district No. 14 is no exception. There are those in that district who think that if they cannot rule they will ruin.

Now I propose to tell you who have quit school, and why. There were three little boys attending from another district; two of whom were asked to quit by one of the directors; which they did the last day of the first month; the other one, a little boy twelve years old, quit one month later, because he had to come alone two or three miles along a trail through the mountains. All three are attending school in their own district at the present time.

You know why Mr. Barrows' two sons do not attend school; it is because of the illness of their father.

They are the only ones who do not attend, and there has been no trouble with any of them.

There was some trouble in school, caused by the disobedience of a large pupil. We say make the older pupils mind as well as the little ones, and we will stand by the teacher in enforcing that principle.

Now, Pen, if you don't think the school is governed as it should be, and wish to be instrumental in finding out who is to blame, you are cordially invited to go and superintend affairs for a day or two and then report to those having aurthority, or if you don't want the job you can let it out to some one who helps to support the school.

Perhaps over in spirit land the telegraph wires were not in good condition when you received your news, but we hope this dispatch will be plainly understood.

"Stonewall" Jackson.

Dora Items.

Ed. HERALD:—There is nothing like improvements in this age of the world. The latest in these is the process of curing hay with water. They all admit it is not as good as the way formerly practiced, but it is something new, and like the ladies' improvements on the fashion of hats, it matters not with them if it was fashion to wear a cow's horn on the head, they would all follow the fashion.
