Fruit & Medicine.

The Journal of Health speaks right out in favor of fruit as a regulator of the system.

Fresh, ripe, perfect raw fruit is safe and healthful at all seasons of the year, and amid the ravages of disease, whether epidemic, endemic or sporadic, general, special or local.

1. Fruit should be eaten ripe, raw, fresh and perfect.

2. It should be eaten in moderation.

3. It should be eaten no later than four o'clock in the afternoon.

4. No water or fluid of any description should be swallowed within an hour after eating fruit.

To have its full beneficial effect, nothing else should be eaten at the time fruit is taken.

It is to the neglect of these observances that erroneous impressions prevail in many families, and to an extent, too, in some instances, that the most luscious peach, or apple, or bunch of grapes is regarded as that much embodied cholera and death.

Enterprise Again.

Ed. HERALD:—You are a good one turning my last week's letter to account. I shall heed what you say when I see that a move on my part will insure the starting of a pork packing establishment.

I am really glad, Mr. Editor, to see that you have not lost sight of the necessity of a woolen mill on the Coquille river, and that you are in correspondence with parties who wish to start one here.

S.; Nels Nygren, Treasurer; W. H. McBride, Marshal; Miss Jerusha McBride, Guard; Frans Nordberg Sentinel; Capt Wm. Tichenor, Chaplain. The Lodge will meet on Friday nights in Myer's Hall.

One of the best county papers in Oregon is the Polk County Itemizer.

A Mormon Belle.

Among the young ladies who recently graduated in the Arkansas school for the blind, was one of whom the Little Rock Gazette gives the following reminiscence:

Miss Sarah E. Dunlap, valedictorian of the graduating class, is a survivor of the horrible Mountain Meadow massacre. She was an infant in her mother's arms when an Indian's bullet pierced her tiny wrist, shattering it so badly that she now bears as a consequence a withered arm and badly crippled hand.

Potato Blight.

The Southwestern Oregon Recorder is out with a long-winded theoretical article on potato blight. The causes attributed are as far from the true reason, as it is possible for them to be.

In years past, on this river, occasionally blight would affect the crop, and it was observed that it invariably sets in just after the passing over of a strata-like fog which hunts the lower plots of ground and seldom gets to any considerable altitude.

Ketchum Bulletin: This is a monster county. Within its boundaries, both the states of Vermont and New Hampshire could be included with room to spare.

Whereas at a general election held on the 7th day of June A. D. 1886, the question of whether or not swine should be allowed to run at large in Coos county, Oregon, was duly submitted to the legal voters of said Coos county; and whereas it appears from the returns of said election of said Coos county that the whole number of votes cast for county officers were 1531, that there were 170 votes cast in favor of swine running at large and 361 votes against swine running at large in said county, and it appearing from the returns of said election, that a majority of the votes cast on said question were against swine running at large in said Coos county.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

An act to Prevent Swine From Running at Large.

Whereas at a general election held on the 7th day of June A. D. 1886, the question of whether or not swine should be allowed to run at large in Coos county, Oregon, was duly submitted to the legal voters of said Coos county; and whereas it appears from the returns of said election of said Coos county that the whole number of votes cast for county officers were 1531, that there were 170 votes cast in favor of swine running at large and 361 votes against swine running at large in said county, and it appearing from the returns of said election, that a majority of the votes cast on said question were against swine running at large in said Coos county.

Therefore, notice is hereby given that after sixty days from the date of this notice, it will be unlawful for swine to run at large in Coos county, Oregon, under penalty of five dollars for the first offence and ten dollars for each subsequent offence to be recovered from the owner of such swine, by civil action in the name of the state of Oregon, before a justice of the peace of the precinct in which such owner or keeper or either of them resides.

J. J. Lamb, County Clerk.

Young man, the world could have got along without you. You came without being called, and the comforts and luxuries around you are mostly an inheritance from generations that are dead.

Radishes Without Worms.

A Canadian correspondent grows excellent radishes in this way: He selects a piece of ground in the corner of his garden and keeps it especially for this purpose.

A superstitious subscriber who found a spider in a copy of his paper wants to know if it is considered a bad omen. Nothing of the kind. The spider was merely looking over the columns of his paper to see what merchant was not advertising so that it could spin its web across the store door, and be free from disturbance.—Ex.
