

The Mormon Exodus from Nauvoo.

In the History of California, Vol. V, by Hubert Howe Bancroft, we have an interesting review of the Mormon's westward migration from Nauvoo, Illinois, in 1846. When the Mormons had determined in the spring of that year to leave Nauvoo, they had not definitely decided where they would establish their new Zion. Yet there can be no doubt that Brigham Young and his followers had chosen California as the spot most likely to be best adapted to their purpose. But there is no foundation whatever for the theory, more or less current among their enemies, that they intended to occupy the country in opposition to the United States, joining hands with Mexico or England, if their own strength should not be sufficient to maintain their empire.

In a spasmodic attempt to play the critic, some middle-aged crank who evidently yearns for fame and beer, spews some of the drippings of his decayed brain upon the public, through the columns of the Mail, under the head of "Clippings of Wisdom." Oh, Moses! We understand now why Brother Gray prefers to have the best part of his paper published in foreign "parts." His not being able to say—"declined with thanks"—doubtless has driven him to that alternative. He has our heartfelt sympathy. We have probably been too severe in our criticisms on the Mail's patent outside, not realizing how much its editor has suffered by allowing his columns to be besmeared with the vile excretions of some snide scribbler, whose chief accomplishments are a foul stomach, a fetal brain, and large and choice stock in trade of elegant and classical billingsgate.

The enforcement of the hog law is going on in this place. It was considered questionable if the law could be enforced, but our people now seem satisfied, and it is amusing to see an old man, with his half dozen children and two small dogs trying to round up an old hog. It is the law, and the law is the law. It is the law voted on at the late county election, and not a city ordinance. We do not know whether the law will be enforced throughout the county or not, but believe it will come to be generally observed. It is the beginning of an epoch long to be remembered in the history of Coquille City when this annoying scavenger is denied its fullest liberty. In the country it is useful, but in town a very great nuisance.

Coquille City being virtually at the head of navigation for sea-going vessels, and being in the heart of the best body of farming land in the county and at the center of the wagon road system, is destined to become the best town in the county.

The murderer of Preller, Maxwell, who is awaiting execution in St. Louis, has become completely unnerfed. He is haunted by a vision of Preller, and rolls and tosses all night.

Chicago Riot.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Shortly after noon a special train was made up in the stock yards to convey one hundred discharged Pinkerton men back to Chicago. As the men marched into the cars they were greeted with yells of derision by the crowds of strikers and their sympathizers. The same scene was repeated at Fortieth street, where the crowd was very large and abusive. At this point one of the Pinkerton men, exasperated by the jeers, pushed his Winchester through the window and fired into the crowd. The shot struck Dennis Bagley, a well-to-do teamster of the town of Lake. He is believed to be fatally wounded. The crowd made a desperate rush for the train, which, however, started off at a high rate of speed. Another train led of Pinkerton men will start down from the yards this afternoon. Serious trouble is feared, as the crowds are furious at the shooting and vow vengeance.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The stock yards' strike, which promised to end peacefully, has been attended by a reckless sacrifice of human life. At noon to-day a train of cars left Armour's packing house having on board about 100 imported workmen, who were leaving the stock yards to return to their homes, not caring to remain any longer as the old hands were to go to work. In the cars were 170 of Pinkerton's men, acting as guards to the others. When the train reached the Halsted street station, a stop was made. A large crowd of the strikers collected and there was great confusion, also shouting and jeering at the non-union workmen in the cars. It is stated that some of the strikers fired shots from pistols at the cars. Suddenly one of the Pinkerton guards stepped out on the platform of the car and fired his revolver at the crowd. This was the signal for a general volley, and fifteen or twenty of Pinkerton's men began to fire rifles from the car windows at the crowd, which fled in great panic. The greatest excitement prevailed. One of the shots struck Terence Begley, a well-known teamster, in the abdomen and he fell to the ground mortally wounded, dying this evening. The facts of the shooting were telephoned to police headquarters and when the train reached the up-town station the police arrested all of the Pinkerton guards. Six of them were identified as having fired at the crowd. They were locked up and the others discharged. The matter is to be carefully investigated. The strikers were greatly infuriated at the shooting, and claim that it was without cause, but the Pinkerton men state that the strikers fired at the cars and that they returned the fire in order to protect the non-union men whom they had in charge.

The Palace saloon shows signs of life. It looks as if the place opened into the bottomless pit and could not be filled up. —Const Mail. Brother Gray is certainly in a fair way to become a Prohibitionist, whereas we rejoice with exceeding great joy. This is just at it should be. When a man's mind begins to dwell upon the regions infernal, and he sees the bottomless pit yawning and gaping in its eagerness to engulf its helpless victims; when he can see the fiery eyes and flaming tongues, and hear and see the hissing, crawling, squirming—but hold; he only says that the saloon showed signs of life. He does not say whether it went spinning around and around, or whether it went tumbling about or stood on its head or performed any of the feats that frequenters of saloons have observed under certain circumstances.

The Knights of Labor in Philadelphia are taking steps to give practical application of the co-operative principle to cigar making and hat manufacturing. One object is to furnish employment to a large number of persons in that city who are out of work, and another is to get two important branches of manufacture into the hands of working-men.—Ex.

Angora Letter.

Editor HERALD:—Not having seen any items from this place for some time, I concluded to try to tell what I know of the doings of persons and things about here.

There has been quite a refreshing rain lately. The grass has begun to show itself quite nicely. It will be welcomed by stock generally.

Crops are nearly all harvested, sheep sheared, and some are gone to Roseburg with their wool. Sheep on outside range are not very fat and it is thought that a good many will not winter without lots of feed and shelter in consequence of overstocked range.

Jim and George Mullen, of Rock creek, killed a couple of fat elk, Monday.

J. G. Belien and family were up from Ki chen creek this week, visiting Mrs. B's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Critchies. Also Matt Belien and family, of Canas valley, have been visiting relatives and friends for nearly two weeks.

A. H. Fish returned from a visit to his sister in New York a week or two since. He reports having had a very pleasant trip and visit.

A farewell dance was given John Jenkins last Saturday. He is leaving the "parental roof-tree" to fight his battle in the big world all alone. He is leaving even his "dolls" behind; but of course he'll come back again and—well they know all about it, and we'll have another dance. We hope he may soon "raise a stake."

Mr. Thos. McFee, of Douglas, has moved his family and effects to a place on Rock creek, about a mile above Uncle Mike Belien's. We welcome them, as we do all newcomers. We think "the more the merrier," and there is plenty of room for a great many more.

Mr. Thos. Rookard harvested this year what is supposed to be the largest crop of corn ever harvested on Middle fork, and there was only 328 bushels all told. We do not know how many acres he had in corn but he thought he could raise 60 bushels to the acre, and not half try. He must be a Missourian.

Potatoes were not very good in this section.

Mr. Critchies has been quite ill for nearly two weeks; he seems to have some kind of spinal disease.

What young man was it that took three girls to the party the other night? And what other young man was it who went after a girl and after he got to the house became afraid and turned and went back? Walked a mile for nothing!

More anon, Ina Foster, Angora, Ogn, Oct. 15, 1886.

A late San Francisco dispatch says: The Chicago & Alton yesterday sold to a party of Portuguese third class tickets from Boston for $40. This is a cut of $23. Another sale was made at $39. Beginning to-morrow the Union Pacific will give an excursion rate of $60 to San Francisco and Los Angeles, good for six months. It is believed that this will be cut to $40. Here promises to be the largest influx of visitors this winter ever known.

A boy at Turlock, Cal., is a sparkling mass of electricity. A Stockton dispatch says: The Stockton Mail last night sent a reporter to investigate the phenomenal doings of Willie Brough, the boy with fire eyes, who is amazing the neighborhood of Turlock, and is being followed by mysterious blazes wherever he goes.

The preliminary reports received from the reporter this morning verify the published stories. Leading business men of Turlock and persons who have seen the phenomenon assert its truth.

The school children of today will be the business men and women of the not distant future. Upon them will rest the burdens which we now bear, and we shall live with them, perhaps be depending on them, when we are too old to work. No part of the education we are giving them is of more importance than the formation of correct business habits. In these is about all the difference between success and failure.

The habit of having something to do, and not a little but a good deal to do, and of going, at once, to do it, not loitering by the way, but proceeding directly to and through the task, is about the best capital with which we can start on in life. —his often-tardy, frequently-absent, half-in-earnest, slipshod way in which some children are allowed to attend school, and do their school work is very bad.—Ex.

Col. Crocker, the railroad manager, is credited with saying to a reporter in the city, that the California & Oregon railroad would be extended as rapidly as possible north as far as Klamath river. Reaching there, however, it is a debatable point whether to continue the road to Ashland to connect with the Oregon & California, or build along the Klamath river and lakes past Goose Lake, into Eastern Oregon, eventually connecting with the Oregon Short Line. To determine this a surveying party is now engaged in examination of the Klamath river route. Their report will determine the question. An excursion train in two sections will leave here on October 28th for Siskiyou. Several hundred have purchased tickets at $13 the round trip.

PYÆMIA

Is the most virulent form of blood-poisoning. Less speedily fatal, but not less certain, is the violation of the blood, of which the first symptoms are Pimples, Eruptions, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions. When the faint of fever of a day gives warning of its presence, an indication, no time should be lost in using AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, the only perfect and reliable medicine for the purification of the blood.

Coming, Coming, Coming!!!

COQUILLE CITY!

The coming Town of S. W. Oregon!

Few towns possess the natural advantages that Coquille enjoys, and which will, in the near future, cause it to blossom as the rose. It has a beautiful and pleasant site, being situated, for the most part, on a level plateau on the sunny side of the Coquille River, thirty miles from the Pacific Ocean, which is reached every day by a four-hour steamer ride. Coquille City has the center of the converging wagon road system of Coos County, and is at the head of deep water navigation, and in the central part of a vast body of rich, river bottom land, which is the source of all true and enduring prosperity. The country round about is filled with precious metals, minerals and coal to an unparalleled extent, and is covered with a variety of timber that for quantity and quality is not excelled by that of any place on the Coast, if indeed equaled. As a dairying and stock-raising country, and a sanitarium for those seeking health, it is bound to come to the front rank. The mining industry will prove an important factor, while the numerous mills and factories, completed, in course of construction, and contemplated, will make the whole country a buzzing hive of industry and wealth. Coquille City is in the center, is the most eligible and will enjoy all. Its school, church, and society advantages are second to none in the county. Building material is cheaper at this point than at any other in the county. It has the advantages of a corporation, and is to soon have a mountain stream of water run through it for protection against fire. Property reasonable.
