

The Sunday school in this place is very largely attended, the church affording insufficient room for those attending. The interest by the children is surprising, and makes it apparent that good officers and teachers have been selected. It has been found that nine teachers were inadequate, and new classes are being formed each Sunday. This school should be encouraged in every possible way, since it affords a good place for the children. They learn to read and sing.

The Know-Nothing party is again agitating its doctrines. Circulars containing the following are being sent all over the country: "We demand the unconditional repeal of the naturalization laws; we demand that the soil of America shall belong to Americans; that no aliens shall hold property in this country. Free common schools are the only bulwark of human liberty. Churches must not be higher than the state. Seventy-five per cent of the discharged European convicts come to America. We want no German-American; no Irish American vote; no English dukes; no Italian-Americans."

A San Francisco dispatch of the 10th says: "This city was thrown into the wildest excitement this afternoon over one of the most cold-blooded murders in the history of the city. At 3:30 o'clock Mamie Kelly, a school girl, aged 13, was returning from school with a basket in her hand and her books under her arm. When she reached the corner of Polk street and Ash avenue Aleck Goldenson approached her and putting a revolver close to her head, fired. The bullet entered the right eye and went clear through her head, instantly killing her and scattering her brains on the sidewalk. Goldenson has a bad reputation. He once shot at a policeman, also at his father. He is aged 19 years. He stated to your correspondent that he had been drinking, but was not very drunk at the time."

This furnishes food for reflection, and one of the best excuses for total prohibition ever advanced. The life of the miserable Goldenson is no adequate compensation for that of the poor, innocent, school girl. To remove the cause of so prolific a source of evil will be the cry of some, while others will hold that that would be encroaching on "man's liberties." As to the liberties of such men as Goldenson, or anyone else who glouts so much on this great brute producing privilege or "right," the people should care nothing. One is not apt to find a fair minded man who is not a Goldenson or in a fair way to become one, that attaches so much importance to, and fights for, this great inherent "right," which renders a man competent to the task of shooting down an innocent child.

The Mysterious Robbery.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—Evidence in the express robbery case, made public, goes to prove that Messenger Fotheringham was accessory, or at least a willing victim in the affair. Discrepancies in his statements to the detectives indicate that he knows more of the manner in which the robbery was planned and executed than he would like to have known.

An expert penman, who was before the Grand Jury last Saturday, states that the three letters signed "Jim Cummings" were written by the same man, and expresses his belief that the man was Fotheringham, and that he wrote them before the commission of the robbery.

It now transpires that the messenger's trunk was shipped soon after the robbery, and a number of sheets of paper were found covered with copies of the signature of W. J. Barrett, manager of the express company. It is supposed the messenger became able to forge his signature so that he might add it to the order which the robber presented, which allowed him to enter the car.

Bogus Butter.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The Internal Revenue Inspector says there are between 3,000 and 4,000 dealers in Cook county. The Government has thus far appointed two specials to watch the dealers and act as a check against violations. They might as well appoint two decrepit old women with fly dusters to drive back a herd of buffaloes from a river when they are thirsty, as to expect two revenue officers to head off the rascality and sharp work of butterine manufacturers and the avaricious corner grocer. There are $3,000,000 behind the 3,500 grocers to take care of them. The idea of two specials to look after the city of Chicago is perfectly ridiculous. I see by the press that St. Louis is making an effort to enforce the law, and that they have already seized and confiscated over a dozen stocks. In my opinion a great deal will depend as to how the law will work upon the sympathy or party feeling of the so-called independent United States officials. I have heard even this early in the work of operating the law, that some United States officials have declared that if they got out of office, or out of business, as they put it, they would go into the butterine business, as the chances of profit are better in that business than in anything else.

Canadian Pacific.

San Francisco, Nov. 11.—The Canadian Pacific is making vigorous efforts for the China trade. Five vessels have already arrived in British Columbia this season with cargoes of tea for the new route. These cargoes were valued at $2,000,000. This is only one of the indications of the possibilities of this trade. Another ship is now on the way. It is proposed to cover the route between Japan and British Columbia with steamers next season, which will make the trip in from twelve to thirteen days. This new route will cut into the Suez tea trade more than San Francisco. Wharves and warehouses will be put up at Port Moody, to accommodate the traffic.

Alaska Mines.

One of the miners from the Yukon river region in Alaska arrived in Tacoma yesterday on his way to Portland. He says there are about 150 miners there, and every one has made money over his expenses. Sixty-five of them are wintering there. During the past two seasons over $60,000 have been taken from the bars along the river. So far the diggings are shallow, easily worked, the gold being of a fine character. Rocking is the principal style of mining, though some of the miners are sluicing. The river has been prospected for a distance of 320 miles. There will be a large rush for Stewart river in the spring. The greatest amount rocked out in one day was $100, while sluicing panned out from $30 to $80 to the man. Prospecting for deep ground has been attempted but water has always interfered. A foot or so below the surface frozen ground is met, and this has continued to a depth of ten and fifteen feet.—Tacoma Ledger.

A new republic is to be formed of Western Zululand, Africa. The La Camas paper mills were burned last week entailing a loss of $95,000.

South Carolina is not free from earthquakes, there having been shocks there the past two weeks, occasionally.

The knit goods manufacturers of New York have shut out Knights of Labor from their employ. 20,000 people are engaged in the work and it affects the Knights largely.

A big republican paper is to be started in opposition to the Chronicle in San Francisco. This is done because the Chronicle did not stand in with all the candidates in the election just passed.

The Northern Pacific railroad company persist in obstructing the work of building the postal telegraph. The meanest part yet is the filling up of holes dug for the postal telegraph poles.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.) Washington Nov. 1, 1886. There are no sensations here this week. The Congressional districts have monopolized them for the time. Washington is about the only city in the United States which does not resound just now with battle yells and wild hurrahs. The noise of the fray does not reach it. The streets are silent and one can sally forth on business or pleasure without being over-run by a frantic mob. The people are mostly sober too—intoxicated neither with spirituous liquor nor with excitement. They do not have handfuls of electioneering documents stuck under their doors every hour during the day, and their morning papers are not entirely filled up with denunciations, imprecations, flagellations, imprecations, adulations, and defamations.

To-morrow, however, the political complexion of the Fiftieth Congress will be determined and public interest and public men will at once turn again towards Washington. In every direction there is busy preparation here for Congress and the coming season. There is a smell of new paint in the corridors of the capitol, the postoffice of the House of Representatives is filled with scaffolding, and the desks of the members are packed in a heap in the Speaker's room. Order will soon come out of this chaos, but there will be no special difference in the appearance of the Capitol when Congress convenes. Everything will be fresh and clean as usual, but no appropriation was made except for the annual renovation and repair, and there can be no extensive changes.

The Department clerks seem to take less interest in the Congressional elections this year than ever before, and the number who have gone home to vote can easily be counted. Indeed, none of those who live at any great distance went home for the purpose. In every department, except one, employees who had leave due them had permission to go at this time. The exception was the Postoffice Department. The Postmaster General requires that there shall always be on duty 30 per cent of the working force of each bureau and division of his Department.

Washington is growing now with marvellous rapidity. Hundreds of handsome residences have been built since last spring. The absence of three months sees changes and improvements on every side. Since the long drought and devastation of the trees by caterpillars, residents think the streets never looked so untidy and ill kept as now, but visitors insist that it is still the cleanest and most beautiful city in the country.

One of the largest projected improvements is the building to be erected by the Mexican government for its representatives in this country. Thinking met of the community have long predicted that foreign nations would recognize the advantage to be derived from the possession of a legation building in Washington. The British government was the first to take the step, and her substantial structure on Connecticut avenue has been a source of pride to her ministers, and also to visiting Englishmen.

The estimated cost of the Mexican building is $50,000. It will be located on I street, near the residence of Chief Justice Waite, and in architecture it is to be French renaissance. It will embrace the residence of the Minister and the business offices of the legation. Since a lead has been taken in this direction, it is probable that other foreign legations, Russia, China, and Japan will soon be provided with handsome buildings owned by their respective Governments.

The city has been full of new people during the week. The autumn races attracted many despite the weather, and then there are always scores of bridal tourists here at this season. They come in greater numbers every fall. At this moment there are just twenty-one of these interesting couples stopping at the Ebbitt House alone. They always go over to the White House to see the President and the suite of handsome parlors, and they are always anxious, of course, to see Mrs. Cleveland. Few of them catch a glimpse of her these days except by accident. She has held no receptions since about the middle of July, and is much absorbed now in the work of planning and superintending improvements at the country house.

On Saturday afternoon, promoters on Pennsylvania avenue observed the President's coupe, drawn by his seal browns, dashing towards the Capital. Within sat Mrs. Cleveland and her poodle, Hector, his fore paws resting on the front of the carriage and a bow of yellow ribbon around his neck. Everybody turned to look at the President's wife, and the ladies thought she was very becomingly dressed in her tight fitting suit of grey cloth and hat to match.

Democrats are gleeful in California over their late victory.

Speaker Carlisle was not defeated as we stated last week, he scratched in on a very small majority.

The Democrats have 20 Majority. Washington, Nov. 11.—The chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee now estimates that the republicans will have 152 members in the next house and the democrats 172.

A murdered man's remains were found in the uncompleted Villard hotel in Portland the other day. He was cut and slashed to pieces. No clue.

See notice of the Empire City and Drain Station stage route. This is the favorite route, and can be always relied on for quick transit. As the figures indicate, it is the cheapest route to Portland or the interior of the state.

Coming, Coming, Coming!!! COQUILLE CITY!

The coming Town of S. W. Oregon!

Few towns possess the natural advantages that Coquille enjoys, and which will, in the near future, cause it to blossom as the rose. It has a beautiful and pleasant site, being situated, for the most part, on a level plateau on the sunny side of the Coquille river, thirty miles from the Pacific ocean, which is reached every day by a four-hours steamer ride. Coquille City is at the center of the converging wagon road system of Coos County, and is at the head of deep-water navigation, and in the central part of a vast body of rich, river bottom land, which is the source of all true and enduring prosperity. The country round about is filled with precious metals, minerals and coal to an unparalleled extent, and is covered with a variety of timber that for quantity and quality is not excelled by that of any place on the Coast, if indeed equaled. As a dairying and stock-raising country, and a sanitarium for those seeking health, it is bound to come to the front rank. The fishing industry will prove an important factor, while the numerous mills and factories, completed, in course of construction, and contemplated, will make the whole county a buzzing hive of industry and wealth. Coquille City is in the center, is the most eligible and will enjoy all. Its school, church, and society advantages are second to none in the county. Building material is cheaper at this point than at any other in the county. It has the advantages of a corporation, and is to soon have a mountain stream of water run through it for protection against fire. Property respectable. J. A. DEAN, AGENT, Coquille City. M. J.
