Weather fine and our farmers are taking advantage of the same by doing their fall plowing. Mr. Steele, of South Coquille, has rented M. Kroll's fine farm, and with his family has taken possession.

W. P. Mast, our popular gardener, has the boss pumpkins in the county. He has quite a number that weigh from 100 to 125 lbs each. Who can beat it?

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the residence of L. L. Harman last Thursday evening. Games, dancing, and a good time generally was the order of the evening.

Our public school is progressing finely under the control of Miss M. Montgomery as teacher. We visited her school not long since, and judging from the interest manifested by both teacher and pupils, Miss M. is the right person in the right place.

Coos county's favorite photographer, Mr. Ramsdell, took a run up this way a few days ago, and has turned out some splendid work for our people. Those desiring work in his line will do well to call on him at Myrtle Point, where he is prepared to do all kinds of work at prices defying competition.

Namrah Nosiell. Fairview, Or., Nov. 8.

The owner of this town site, Mr. M. J. McDonald, has been sued for $20,000 for the death of David W. Morris, the young man who was killed by an explosion in the Henryville coal mine a year ago.

Our Methodist brethren held their quarterly conference meeting at Dora the last two days in Oct. Good meetings and good preaching by Revs. Michael and Haynes. Mr. Sheppard and family, late arrivals from Nebraska, have anchored for the winter near M. Krantz's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Levellen will likely be at their home on the Coquille ere this reaches you.

Now, Mr. Editor, please don't tell us about Gironi going to Florida, any more, for I heard him say in Myrtle Point the other day that going to Florida was a humbug, as he didn't intend to be sent there, but expected to go to Lower Cal.

C. Andrews returned from San Francisco a week ago to-day. Mr. A. Flanders has built and moved into his suburban residence.

Remember the best bargains to be had in town can be found at A. L. Nosler's Cash store.

Lee Weekly, wife and mother, of Dora, spent Wednesday and Thursday in this place visiting friends.

Phillip Drane has been rushing his house, on his farm a half mile south of the town, to completion the past two weeks.

By the use of hammer, saw and paint, John Morris has made his house on Taylor St. present a very neat appearance.

J. A. Collier sent to the city recently and got a beautiful B flat cornet for his little 5-year-old boy David. Now if there is one thing that David thinks he can do brown it is to play "Marching through Georgia," and his efforts would surprise any one.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

[Southwestern Oregon Recorder.] Messrs. Leneve & Mars, druggists and apothecaries, Port Orford, are building up a reputation for fair dealing, low prices and prompt attention to mail orders which is no doubt gratifying to the young men composing the firm, and which will encourage them to renewed effort to the end that they may continue to extend their trade.

The Wright place up in the hills was sold some time ago to a Polk county man, whose name we could not learn, for $4,500, and the new owner is now in possession. This ranch, comprising over a section of land, is said to be the best out in that country.

It is said that Jos. Hare and Capt. Jorgensen contemplate building a schooner at the mouth of Sixes river early in the spring. As the former has the complete rigging taken from the wrecked Anna Hermann, and as the best of lumber for the purpose is near at hand and cheap, it would seem that the gentlemen ought to be able to build a vessel at the place indicated for less money than at any other point on the coast.

LeRoy Curry is dangerously ill, and fears are entertained for his recovery.

S. D. Merriman is ahead on corn, as well as potatoes. He brought to our office a stalk that measured 14 feet, 9 feet to the first ear.

Married—At the residence of A. R. Miller, in Jerrys Flat precinct, Curry county, by Charles Dewey, J. P., Mr. George B. Miller and Miss Sarah J. Hise, both of Curry county.

A large amount of grass seed is being sown, and the prospects are that the area of pasture land will be materially increased in the county during the next year.

East Fork Items.

After a silence of some time, we have again found a small batch of items for the HERALD. Oh! yes, I forgot in my last, to mention the return of Mrs. Mary Scofield to Dora, her old home, after having been absent about a year on a visit to relatives in Iowa, Kansas and Illinois. She says she likes Oregon best. Welcome back, grandma.

relations with Great Britain and a desire not to give offense which might interfere with negotiations then pending between the two countries; and these were not unfounded, for the differences between the American settlers and McLoughlin were assuming serious proportions. But for an account of this, as of the Whitman massacre, the Cayuse war, and numerous other important and interesting matters, we must refer the reader to the volume itself. In conclusion, we can refrain from adding a word to the general commendation which Mr. Bancroft's former volumes have elicited and which this deserves. Obviously it is more difficult to treat fairly and judiciously so modern a period as that under consideration; it is so near us that it is difficult to maintain the just proportion and perspective. And yet Mr. Bancroft has done his work wonderfully well. He has taken the hundreds of personal narratives, from which such a history as this must be prepared, and has carefully winnowed out the chaff, leaving the facts plain and clear and in most valuable condition for the student of history. His literary style in this volume is also more picturesque, though he never suffers the impartiality of the historian to be biased by the brilliancy of the literature.

Saunders Sentence.

At the recent sentence of Saunders, the murderer of Campbell, Judge Boise said:

W. W. Saunders, stand up. Have you anything to say why the sentence of death according to the judgement of the jury shall not be pronounced upon you?

Saunders who stood erect with his arms folded, replied, "I believe not."

The court then pronounced the sentence of death, saying:

"The judgement of this court will be that you shall be taken from here and securely confined in the county jail until the 23d day of December, 1886, when you shall be taken from the jail and hanged by the neck, between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 2 p. m. of said day, until you are dead."

The prisoner tried to appear unmoved, and even attempted to smile, but when the ominous death sentence was pronounced, he turned visibly pale. The sentence was very brief, and after it was rendered, Saunders was immediately escorted from the court room by his jailors, leaving the court house for the jail with a cigar in his mouth.

An effort should be made to change the time-honored Thanksgiving day from late in November to an earlier day. The Puritans chose the time we observe for the reason that they objected to the observance of Christmas day, and thought it would supersede the observance of the latter.
