

UP-RIVER DEPARTMENT, ORVILLE DODGE, EDITOR. MYRTLE POINT, COOS COUNTY, OREG. TUESDAY, SEPT. 17, 1889.

LOCAL MATTER.

Mr. James Asler has been in charge of the scrapers on the government works in the river improvements for some time past. During his stay at the Point he has obtained lasting friendship from his associates.

Two large hacks loaded with gentlemen came in from Roseburg recently and proceeded on to Wm. Warners' at Rowland prairie. It is rumored that they are looking out for the interests of a lumber syndicate of Puget sound. The timber land of Coos county will soon be taken. Look out, young men, and get your share before it is too late.

Isaac Carter who lives near Daniel Giles's was burned out last Thursday night. The fire place had not been in use for a month or more. Mr. Carter had received some newspapers that he wished to read, and he kindled a small fire. After reading a short time he went to bed, but got up and examined the fire and supposed it was all out and went to bed again. After a short sleep he awoke and found one end of the house in flames. The loss was a new cook stove and two trunks of clothing.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on Thursday afternoon at half past two. We wish to say that we have a literary pocket for the benefit of the public at W. Rackliff's store. The headquarters for the society's literature is at Mrs. Lewellen's. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. extend their thanks to Mr. Johnson and Mr. E. Rackliff for putting up a box for literature.

E. J. Lewellen, Pres.

The diphtheria that made its terrible ravages felt in the family of Sam Smith, four miles above Coquille City, has filled three new graves, and cast more than a double sorrow over the hearts of an affectionate father and mother. A sympathizing community steps forward ready to offer relief, as dotting parents listen to this sad news fears come to them as they gaze upon their lovely children, and they wonder if this dread monster will visit their household. These sad apprehensions should arouse every one who has a family, and they should at once remove every vestige of filth and rubbish about their premises, cleanse every cess pool, and thus remove the causes that bring this great scourge to the homes of happy families. If this is not done, it may be possible that there will be many new made graves in every part of our fair valley, and those sweet childish notes that make life so joyous, grand and glorious for the dotting parent, will be hushed forever before the leaves cease to fall. Our community has cause to be thankful at present as Dr. Spongole says that the danger is past, and he thinks with proper caution the disease will be destroyed ere it spreads to other families, but this condition must not be neglected.

Dora Items.

Everybody is enjoying good health.

Mr. Simpson has made some improvements on his house lately.

H. Waltermier is putting up a new house below Gravel Ford on his place.

Griffin & Avery have gathered about four tons of bark this season. New comers are hunting for homes in this section.

A Tompkins killed three bears the other day.

Who will put up a fruit cannery near Gravel Ford. It is a good location.

Wheat crops are a little short in this section, but oats are good.

Anyone wishing to trade a work horse for a yoke of well-broke three-year-old steers, call on G. G. Swan, three miles below Dora.

BORN.—Near Dora, September 9th, 1889, to the wife of G. G. Swan, a son, weight, 7 1/2 pounds.

Grandpa Weekly is quite low and feeble. Don Rex.

Mr. Chandler, the gentleman who so ably represents the old original Singer Sewing Machine company, is on the river. He will rusticate at Bandon for a while.

A Worthy Enterprise.

With your kind permission, I wish, through the columns of your influential journal, to introduce to the notice of the Coos county public a local enterprise which is particularly worthy of commendation and which is, in no small degree, contributing to the general prosperity of the county. About one and one half miles from Bandon, and lying between that town and Pershbaker's mill, is situated a tract of land containing about 1300 acres belonging to Mr. Parker and considered by experts as by far the finest tract of cedar land in the county. In the logging of this timber Mr. Parker has, with the enterprise for which he is noted, determined to use not only the latest and most improved logging devices and machinery, but to put some of his own original ideas to a practical test. As Mr. Parker's ideas in this line are the result of years of experience combined with a natural inventive capacity, it is safe to predict that when reduced to practice the result will be a full realization of his most sanguine expectations. Mr. Ed Taylor has been selected as a gentleman peculiarly fitted by experience and natural ability for the successful prosecution of this enterprise. Mr. Taylor logs the claim by contract, and while Mr. Parker builds the railroad and handles the rolling stock, Mr. Taylor makes all the other improvements at his own personal expense. Mr. Taylor commenced the construction of the railroad June 10, and the work has been prosecuted with vigor since that time. The track is now about two miles in length, and will require an extension of another mile to reach the eastern boundary of the timber. The railroad runs, for its entire length, through the centre of a beautiful little valley; through this valley flows a stream of the purest water which in its meanderings is crossed by the railroad several times on substantial bridges. The road is built by laying two inch plank as stringers, these stringers are crossed by two inch plank, cut in four foot lengths, and placed closely together. The rail is laid of 3 1/2 inch rolling on top of which is laid a strip of surfaced myrtle 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches in size. This style of railroad which has been designed by Messrs. Parker and Taylor, and is the first of its kind, is peculiarly adapted to this locality. From the soft peaty nature of the ground on which the track is built, a track laid on ordinary railroad ties would sink and shift a great deal, and require a considerable expenditure from time to time to keep it in repair; by the present mode of construction this difficulty is entirely obviated. The road has been thoroughly tested by hauling loads of lumber of 3000 feet and upwards over it, and has proved in every respect an unqualified success. The inland terminus of the road has a landing on each side where the logs are rolled on to the trucks. The line from high water mark to the wharf on the Coquille river, a distance of 250 feet, is built on trestles. The wharf is built well out in deep water and the largest vessels entering the river can lay alongside. The boom at landing has a capacity of 200,000 feet, and is built with a sufficient strength to withstand the test of freshet and storm. The towing from Parker's mill will be done by the Katie Cook. The hauling on the track so far, has been done by horses, but ere long a locomotive will take their place, and it is expected she will put in from 25,000 to 30,000 feet per day.

As the logging of this tract of timber will require about five years Mr. Taylor has put up buildings of a substantial and permanent character. They are by far the finest logging camp buildings in this county, and will compare favorably with buildings for similar purposes in any lumbering state in the Union. The principal building is 24x52 feet, floored and ceiled with matched lumber. In this building are located the office and store, dining room, kitchen and private apartments of Mr. Taylor and family. In the dining room the table is supplied with the choicest edibles that the market affords, and the style in which the various dishes are served up, speaks volumes for the proficiency of Mrs. Taylor and her lady assistants in the culinary art. The store, which is supplied with everything that the men are likely to need, is presided over by Mr. W. A. Moulton, of Coquille City. Mr. Moulton has not been here long, but his genial smile, and obliging, gentlemanly manner, have already won the hearts of the men and made him a general favorite.

The building erected for the men's quarters is 16x32 feet and is a model of neatness and comfort. The bunks are arranged in two tiers, on each side of the building, leaving a very wide passage-way between; the floor is of matched lumber. One end of the building is specially fitted up with large heating stove, table, seats, etc., and here the employes spend their evenings. The table is supplied with all the county papers of latest date, together with San Francisco, Portland, and some eastern weeklies. There are also some good readable books by standard authors and I am happy to say, that the dime novel, and trashy advertising magazine do not find a place amongst the collection. There are some talented musicians among the men, and the selections rendered of an evening, would do credit to many a pretentious musical society. Is it any wonder then, that the men, their day's labor over, ensconce themselves in their cosy quarters, where they are surrounded by such refining and ennobling influences, in preference to spending their evenings in the Bandon saloons? Taking it all in all it is a vast improvement on the old time bunkalation, specimens of which, I am sorry to say, are still to be found in this and many other lumbering districts. I think Mr. Taylor deserves especial praise for the provisions he has made for the comforts of his men, and let us hope that other employers will not be slow to follow his example, and that we are about to hail the advent of a new era in logging, when employers will treat their men with the regard for their comfort due a fellow mortal, and with the consideration for their feelings due their general intelligence.

A building 16x32 feet contains the blacksmith and carpenter shops. Both of these shops are supplied with all the tools and apparatus necessary to the turning out of the finest work, and are specially fitted up with a view to the requirements of a logging camp. The barn, built on a natural mound, which furnishes a very desirable site, is 40x60 feet, and is large enough to house ten yoke of oxen and store sixty tons of hay. Several smaller buildings, for the accommodation of families, are springing up around the camp. There are four families here at present, and as each of their quarters is bountifully supplied with little arrows, to use a scriptural phrase, the scene of an evening when they all get together is quite a lively one. They romp, and play, and shout, until the very woods seem to ring with their innocent merriment, and an observer is almost led to believe that he is in a country village, and not in a logging camp. There are twenty men employed here at present, and I venture to say that a more respectable or intelligent lot of men cannot be found in any logging camp on the coast. The present force will be increased to twenty-five or thirty men when the camp is running at its full capacity.

Now, Mr. Editor, a word about local journalism and I am done. I believe that all thinking people will agree with me, that if there is one duty more than all others which a local paper owes to its patrons, and to the public generally, that duty is to command and encourage local enterprise of such a nature as to contribute to the general prosperity of the county. Picking up the Bandon Recorder and looking at it from that standpoint what do we find? While it finds space to devote to the scandalous escapade of a certain Rev. major, and treats the subject with a brutal plainness, and a disgusting minuteness of detail, that would do credit to the columns of the "Police Gazette." Here is an industry right under his very eyes, in which thousands of dollars have already been invested in permanent improvements, and from which thousand of dollars will flow annually through the hands of employes, into the channels of trade to contribute to the general prosperity; and the "Recorder" has not one word of encouragement for it, in fact does not even deign to notice it. This is the more remarka-

Then look to your interest by examining that brand new house with ten rooms and spacious porch sixty feet long, with water in two parts of the house, thorough drainage and everything comfortable; price $1500—one half cash, balance on long time. Situated on a corner back of Lorenz's store; also six room house and one lot just one door west for $1000 on same terms.

Neat four room cottage and three beautiful lots on NW corner of 5th and Elliott streets with new fencing and out buildings; price $600. Call on Sherwood & Sanford who will show you the property.

Horses to Sell or Trade.

Mr. A. Alexander of this place has some good horses that he will sell cheap for cash or trade for cattle. A number of them are broken to work. 5tf.

Winter Cholera.

A species of bowel complaint, known as "winter cholera," appeared in several cities in the Northwest last winter and is likely to be more general this season. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a certain cure for it. For Sale by J. H. Nosler, of Coquille City, and W. L. Dixon, of Myrtle Point.

Two GOOD SCHOOLS.—It is with pleasure that the HERALD calls attention to the advertisement of the widely and favorably-known Portland Business College, and its associate school, the Capital Business College of Salem. Both these schools are perfectly equipped for the work in hand, and offer superior facilities to those who desire to take either a business course or a shorthand course. Hundreds of their former students now occupy responsible positions in various sections of the Northwest, both as book-keepers and stenographers. Mr. A. P. Armstrong, the manager of these institutions, is an experienced successful educator, and is doing grand work in fitting the youths of our land for business careers.

Let us give the readers of the HERALD a little timely advice. Hot weather is coming and with it colic, cholera in rim, dysentery and diarrhoea. The only safe way to combat these diseases, is to keep some reliable remedy at hand, and all who have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will admit that it is the most prompt, reliable and successful medicine known for these complaints. It costs but 25 or 50 cents, and may be the means of saving you or your family much suffering, if not life itself, before the summer is over. For sale by J. H. Nosler, Coquille City, and W. L. Dixon, Myrtle Point, Oregon.
