PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY. J. A. & D. F. DEAN, EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS

Devoted to the interests of the Coquille River particularly, and of the County generally.

Subscription, per year $2.00. TUESDAY OCT. 8, 1889.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Joe Noyes, of Myrtle Point was in town Thursday. Judge Dyer paid this place a business visit Friday.

Mr. J. A. Streight, of Bandon, was on our streets Thursday.

J. H. Upton, Esq., of Curry county passed through for circuit court Friday.

Georgie, son of our worthy townsman N. Lorenz, has been somewhat indisposed for several days.

Mr. E. C. Whitlay, of North Coquille, passed through town Thursday en route to Empire City, on a business trip.

Campbell, Murphy, Grant & Co's general traveller took in the coast, returning Friday. Since he has been taking orders of up-river merchants.

Mr. E. C. Palmer has made arrangements to build a saw mill of about, thirty thousand feet daily capacity, a short distance south of Drains Station.

HAVE YOU GOT IT?—If so, address Lock Box 762, with stamp, Portland, Oregon. Certain cure. Correspondence strictly confidential and private.

Charley Lyons, Jr., returned to this place after an absence of three years, last week. He came up the coast from Crescent City horse-back, and will return after visiting the bay.

Masters Neddie Lawrence and David Collier each met with accident by falling last week. David's resulted in a badly strained arm, while Neddie is laid up with a lame leg.

Mrs. C. P. Higginbotham is running a boarding house in the Sanford building four doors east of Odd Fellows hall, and gives the best of fare at the lowest living prices. See ad.

Mrs. J. T. Jenkins, who has been so near death's door for some time, we are glad to state, is fast improving, being out of danger. This is another case which speaks in loud and recommending tones of the skill of Dr. Spongole, and also of that of his able assistant, Dr. J. G. Cook, of Empire City.

Little Zettie Messer had the misfortune to be bitten through the hand last Wednesday by one of the dirty curs that infest our streets. The killing of the dog, which should be attended to immediately might prevent a similar accident, and be somewhat a source of revenge but, it would be little consolation for Little Zettie.

A vine to shade the porch and the next year's supply of dish-cloths may be grown at the same time by planting a few seeds of luffa or dish-rag gourd. It is quite common in the south. The vine, with its dark, silvery green leaves, is quite pretty. The gourd is about two feet long and its tough, elastic, fibrous lining is used for dish-cloths.

LOTS OF FISH.—The lower river is literally alive with salmon. On Thursday 5036 were received at Hume's cannery and upwards of 4500 on Friday. For some time all the fish have come in that could be cared for, and it seems now that some must spoil, or the number of fishermen reduced. Machado's seine caught 1508 on Thursday, to say nothing of the smaller ones not counted.

Butte (Mont.) Sept. 29.—A fire starting at noon to-day in the Bowles Block, a four-story brick building erected on West Granite street, near the business center of the town, caused a loss that is estimated at over half a million dollars. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but some people attribute the fire to incendiarianism, on account of the frequency of similar fires lately. The men at work on the building cannot account for it. The fire spread to the roof almost in an instant and a volume of flame was blown north and eastward by a violent wind. That end of the city seemed doomed, but plenty of water and determined fighting confined it to the block on Main street on the eastward front on the north side of Granite street immediately opposite.

Prison Labor.

The agitation concerning the labor of the prisoners in our penitentiaries is developing some valuable thought, says the Western Plowman. Under the present system that compel the prisoner to be idle or give his labor for a fraction of its value to the contractor of prison labor, the family of the prisoner is left without any help from him. It has been suggested with much reason that our present laws that put men in the prison for offences be entitled acts to punish the wife and children of the criminal. The effect of the law is really to do this. The family of the criminal are left to shift for themselves or go to the county houses to be supported by the people, while the work of the prison is sold by the state at so low a rate as to seriously injure mechanics outside the prisons. Would it not be feasible to sell this labor at a reasonable price and use the money for the benefit of the family of the prisoner or for the prisoner himself. In the case of habitual criminals, the proceeds of their work could go to the state as a part of the punishment of offender. It would seem as though the opportunity to earn something for themselves and their families would be a benefit to a large class of criminals, and if paid what their labor is worth there would be an incentive too that does not and cannot exist under present conditions. This matter has been often discussed, but we are not aware that it has ever been tested.—American Farmer.

A Plea for the Farmer.

Out of a population of 60,000,000, says the Farmer and Dealer, there are probably about 21,000,000 who earn wages and live by work. Included in this count is something over 9,000,000 engaged in agricultural pursuits, and it appears that we have no other single industry that employs and furnishes a living for so many of our people. In fact, this one industry feeds all the people, and no other industry can live without it. Here then, we see that we have in this country more than 40,000,000 people living without earning any wages, and most of them live directly or indirectly off the earnings of those who toil, and they, with all the dealers and traders, etc., are dependent on the success of the agriculturist and the protection of that interest. Then it is proper for us to first examine this most important of all our industries and see what danger threatens. Now, what the farmer wants first is a good home market for all his surplus product. This cannot be assured while we import in one year more than $60,000,000 worth of food and livestock, not including coffee, tea, sugar and molasses. Why should we import into our country about $3,000,000 worth of vegetables, being cabbage from Holland, potatoes from Scotland, potatoes, beans and peas from Canada? If the farming interest is what we here claim for it, then it is proper for us to import $1,600,000 worth of hay and $9,000,000 worth of breadstuffs, and 20,000,000 dozen eggs, partly from Denmark and Sweden? We think it is bad policy. The farmer needs to be cared for first, last and all the time, in order that other industries may thrive with him and good wages be paid to manufacturing operatives as they go on turning our vast resources from raw material into that which is necessary for our welfare and safety in peace or war. Diversified farming is our only hope and safe anchorage at this time, and in it is the whole business. Let the diversified interests be built up from our own raw material and means at hand, and the people who are engaged in the work will consume all the agriculturist produces, the market will be at home, and the nation will go on in prosperity, which is something that no nation has yet done without diversified interest.

Notice.

The Duck Hunter's Castle.

With a genuine feudal independence, the Lake Champlain duck shooter may claim that his blind is his castle. It is undoubtedly the most elaborate affair of the kind in use among the wild fowlers of the country. Totally unlike the bush blind of the eastern river, the reed blind of the west, or the box blind of the south, it stands quite alone as a representative type of field architecture. It is, in fact, a miniature house, equipped with all the paraphernalia of domestic economy thoroughly provisioned, and fitted out to stand a siege of six weeks' bombardment by the great army of southward flying ducks. Let us take a peep at one of these Lake Champlain blinds.

The house part of the blind is very nearly square, about five by six feet and five and a half feet high. It has a sloping roof to shed rain a door at the front end, and a small window at one side. On the opposite side there is a board slide to be opened to provide air and furnish an out look. Across the back end—the ends being the long sides of the blind—are two bunks or berths, one over the other.

A wide shelf under the board slide answers the purpose of a table. Heat and cooking facilities are furnished by a small oil stove standing in the corner by the door. In the other corner is the "armory," a rack in which are placed the guns of the occupant or occupants of the blind convenient for immediate use. A cupboard under the lower berth contains the dishes, cooking utensils, ammunition, etc. of the garrison, while a big chest answering also the purpose of a bench, stands conveniently beneath the shelf, packed with provisions and other perishable supplies of the gunners. So much for the interior of the house part of the blind. The door opens upon a platform about three and a half feet wide railed all round and heavily bushed with cedar or pine to such a height the gunner when erect can conveniently shoot over the wattled boughs. On the front part of the platform is a long trough like pen in which are confined live decoys. The entire structure which I have describe is over laid and concealed with evergreen boughs so that it looks like a dark green mound standing on the edge of the shallow water.—Forest and Stream.

CAPIOLA.

Let us give the readers of the HERALD a little timely advice. Hot weather is coming and with it colic, cholera morbus, dysentery and diarrhoea. The only safe way to combat these diseases, is to keep some reliable remedy at hand, and all who have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will admit that it is the most prompt, reliable and successful medicine known for these complaints. It costs but 25 or 50 cents, and may be the means of saving you or your family much suffering, if not life itself, before the summer is over. For sale by J. H. Nosler, Coquille City, and W. L. Dixon, Myrtle Point, Oregon.

FOR SALE.
