Letter from J. C. Canterbury.

Redlands, California, Dec. 10, 1889.

HERALD and friends:—After a long silence on my part, I write to you once again.

The HERALD keeps me posted as to the changes in my old home, many of which are for the better. I am glad to hear of the growth and prosperity of your county, but don't become egotistical and conclude that yours is the only place.

Notwithstanding the "bursted boom," the prices for good "acrege" property where oranges will thrive is fully up to the boom standard, i. e., $125 to $300 per acre, with water. As to business being dead or any where near it, that is a grand mistake. Of course the wild-cat town lot business is dead and buried as i ought to be, but the legitimate business of the county is making immense strides forward all the time. In the country on the farms, there have been during the year just past, more buildings erected, and more trees and vines planted, four times over, than during the whole time of the boom. It is true the price of nursery stock has diminished greatly, but the demand is greater than ever. Deciduous fruit trees such as apricots, peach and plum are scarce at 25 to 40 cts each for one-year-old buds. Orange trees are plentiful, one-year-old buds at from 50 cts to $1 each. Rooted grape vines are also in good demand. There is no immediate danger of values decreasing much when a profit of from $100 to $1000 per acre can be made on the investment. A neighbor living three-quarters of a mile from me realized over fifteen hundred dollars an acre for his oranges last year, and will do nearly as well this year. His trees are thirty-year-old seedlings. But, as a rule, it is only the man who has money to begin with that can make money here. Yet, if a man has grit, a good team, money enough to build a cabin, and good health along with it, he can, by the share system, earn a good home in a few years. I hope at some early date in the future to give you items of interest on other topics. Wishing long life and prosperity to my friends in Coos, and especially the HERALD, I remain, etc., etc.

Whisky Punch.

Norristown (Pa.), Dec. 11.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union addressed a letter to President Harrison's wife, expressing regret that in entertaining the Pan-American delegates she served them with whisky punch. The letter concludes with "push back the wine cup in our name."

George Barton, of Empire received the sad news last week, that Mrs. Barton, who was visiting at Portland, had died rather suddenly. Mrs. Barton leaves her husband and one child, besides numerous friends, to mourn her loss.—News. — LATER.—The Mail says the lady is not dead, but lying very low.

Mr. T. A. Deroven, merchant Deroven, Louisiana, says: "The St. Patrick's Pills went like hot cakes." People who have once tried them are never satisfied with any other kind. Their gentle action and reliability as a cathartic is what makes them popular. For sale by J. H. Nosler, Coquille City, and W. L. Dixon, Myrtle Point.

The Portland Morning Journal is dead.

Answer Him.

Editor HERALD:—I am contemplating planting an orchard especially for profit some time in the near future, and having some experience in that line in other sections, do not care to fall into the general error of many others by planting too many varieties, and three-fourths of these perfectly valueless, except what few can be used by the family on the spot. Finding my experience as to varieties in other sections nearly valueless here, where soil and climate are so widely different, would ask space in your columns for the opinions of residents of this county as to which varieties succeed best with them, and have these published for the benefit of those wishing to plant, and especially for newcomers like myself. What I desire to know most about, is winter apples of good show and keeping qualities, that are free from disease of fruit, and healthy trees grown especially for market, with a description of their ripening and time they will keep, color, shape and any other information of value to the planter; and varieties which are not affected with the blight or dark spots on the surface of the fruit rendering it valueless.

Who of you, brother farmers, who have orchards that have not valuable ground taken up with worthless varieties of fruit, while alongside perhaps in the very next row stands trees under same circumstances bearing most noble and perfect fruit, and no cause for the difference only by having varieties, one suited to our needs, the other not? How important, then, that we come to some proper knowledge of varieties suitable to our section and needs before bestowing years of careful culture and pruning on an orchard, without which no one can hope to succeed as a fruit grower for profit! I desire some information about pears, prunes and cherries, only taking in a wider range of season than simply winter keeping in view. Canning and shipping qualities of pears and cherries and valuable drying qualities of prunes and a few varieties of plums might be of interest to many. Would respectfully ask that each confine himself to five varieties of each class of fruit and write direct to me, giving names, color, shape, season of ripening, length of time they will keep, and any other information he may deem best, and I will in return have these published in a condensed or tabulated form whereby each will receive a benefit, as it would take too much space to publish each entire. No one should wait for others of more experience, as all who have an orchard must have more or less knowledge that is valuable to future planters. While this may seem almost useless to some at this time in view of our limited markets available, it is perfectly plain to me that it will turn out here as it has in other parts of Oregon where I have lived, where no transportation was at hand to get fruit to markets, that were willing to pay good round prices for choice fruit.

People seemed generally to ignore fruit planting as it did not pay. Presently railroads dropped in upon them like a reprieve on a condemned criminal, and such joy, to think that they had choice markets for their fruit brought right to their very doors, while on second thought they suddenly remembered that they had scarcely any fruit to sell, and what they did have was of varieties wholly unfit for shipment, having been wholly selected for home use of varieties that would not keep, but tasted good when they were boys as they used to hie over the fence and get a supply to put away in a hole in a hay stack for future visits. Then began a bemoaning of their luck, while their more far-seeing neighbor was raking in the shekels from an orchard that they had carefully grown and cared for while they were waiting for the good times that are bound to come to any county that is blessed with such resources as Coos county has, sooner or later. Then, let us be up and doing, and assist each other what we can by exchange of ideas and experience that will make success more certain.

Address communications to me before Jan. 10th, next.

In Memoriam.

To the memory of W. P. Mast, who died at his home on the north fork of the Coquille river, Dec. 10, 1889.

W. P. Mast was born in Watauga Co., North Carolina on the 6th day of June, A. D. 1834. At the tender age of two years he was left motherless. His childhood was passed under the kind and watchfull care of old "Aunt Mary," the mother of the colored family owned by his father. He received a common district-school education. His days passed uneventfully at the home of his birth until his marriage, which occurred on March 5, 1857, at which time he was joined in matrimony with Charlotte H. Mast. Five boys were the fruits of this union, all of whom are living. He was the most loving of husbands and the kindest of fathers. In Jan., 1850, in company with his father he turned his face westward, settling in the eastern portion of the Lone Star state. Not enjoying good health, early in 1861 he returned to the land of his childhood. He had scarcely become relocated when the tocsin of war resounded through the land. Being loyal to the land of his birth and deeming it to be his duty, he donned the "Gray," and leaving his young wife and child behind, marched to the bloody field of Chicamauga. He was in the field till sometime in '65, when he was captured by Sherman's men and taken to Camp Chase. Here he became reduced to a living skeleton through sickness and starvation. Being paroll-ed he returnd home to find his all reduced to ashes. Nothing daunted, he at once proceeded to the work of restoration and in addition erected a wagon shop, grist mill and woolen mill. Being energetic and progressive he soon tired of the slow progress of the country during the years of reconstruction, and in 1862 he again set his face westward, reaching Oregon in due time and located upon his late home, then a wilderness, and immediately set to work to hew out a home in the land of promise. After a time he again grew restless and in 1878 moved to eastern W. T., returning in Oct, 1879, where he has since resided up to the time of his death. In 1885 he began suffering with affections of the kidney and urinary organs from which disease he finally succumbed, with what suffering only those know who stood by him and smoothed his pillow and cooled his aching brow during the last sad days which were ended on Dec. 10, 1889.

The late W. P. Mast has been honored by his fellow men upon several occasions with public and private trusts all of which were conducted to an honorable and successful termination.

His name was not found enrolled upon any church register although he lived and died practicing the greatest of all the commandments God has given us: "Do unto others as you would wish others should do unto you." He was most loved where he was best known.

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said "Let there be Light; and there was Light."

W. P. Mast first saw the Light June 4, 1878, in Boone Lodge No. 68 North Carolina; was passed to the more honorable degree of a Fellow craft July 2nd, and raised to the most sublime degree of a Master Mason Aug. 27th of same year. At the time of his death he was an active member of Myrtle Point Lodge No. 78, A. F. and A. M., Myrtle Point Oregon.

Though the column is broken and the sprig of acacia has been planted, yet his work was here, and will remain as a fitting example of one who was a devoted Mason and an upright man.

"The Old Oaken Bucket,
The Iron-bound Bucket,
The Moss-covered Bucket,"

is very likely the one that has conveyed poisons to your system from some old well, whose waters have become contaminated from sewers, vaults, or percolations from the soil. To eradicate these poisons from the system and save yourself a spell of malarial, typhoid or bilious fever, and to keep the liver, kidneys and lungs in a healthy and vigorous condition, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It arouses all the excretory organs into activity, thereby cleansing and purifying the system, freeing it from all manner of blood-poisons, no matter from what cause they have arisen. All diseases originating from a torpid or deranged liver, or from impure blood, yield to its wonderful curative properties. It regulates the stomach and bowels, promotes the appetite and digestion, and cures Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," and Chronic Diarrhœa. Salt-rheum, Fetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands and Tumors disappear under its use.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the only blood and liver medicine, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of its benefiting or curing in every case, or money paid for it will be promptly returned.
