Pennoyer is the favorite for governor among democrats, and has the enmity of the Oregonian. Thus he stands a fair show for re-election.

The Odd Fellows of Marshfield condole the loss of their brother Henry Grow, engineer of the ill-fated fearless. He was truly a noble young man.

EXCHANGE.—I have some very fine, young mares and horses that I will exchange for good heifers.

It is singular that no one goes properly into the poultry business in this part. Eggs are 40 cts. per dozen and cannot be obtained for that. With good hens of right age and properly cared for eggs can be had at this season as well as at any other.

Read the letter from Bro. Canterbury. In a private note to us he says that his oldest son Milas after eleven months of sickness is able to be up. J. C. has 18,000 young orange trees in his nursery. He is already drying fruit and making raisins on his ranch.

REBEKAH BALL.—The Rebekah ball that was to have been given Dec. 7th, has been postponed till New Years eve. It is to be the best ball of the season. The ladies are sparing no pains to make the supper one of the choicest ever set in Coquille City.

Dr. Nickerson of Marshfield has opened permanent dental rooms in the Olive hotel at east entrance. Dr. Smith, his assistant, occupies the office and is said to have acquired considerable knowledge and skill of the work. He is a most exemplary young man and we wish him, as well as the old boss unbounded success.

Why not open the various streets of Coquille City? None of you own so many lots but that a week's work would open the streets to the middle around them, and it would give the town such a boom as it never before saw and add five times the cost to the value of your possessions. Speak to your neighbor about it; agitate the subject. It would not amount to much if you alone did it, but to have it general would make the town look one hundred per cent. better and it would build up doubly as fast as without it.

A FINE BUILDING.—Hon. Binger Hermann will next spring erect a commodious store building in the town of Myrtle Point, Coos county. G. W. Orcutt, the architect, showed us the plans and specifications for the building this week, and we are satisfied that it would be a credit to any town in Oregon. The building will be of brick, a portion of it two stories high. The lower rooms will be used for store purposes, and the upper story for the I. O. O. F. hall. Myrtle Point is fortunate in securing this structure.—Roseburg Review.

Dr. Elgin spent Thursday and Friday with friends in this place.

A big supply of garlic constantly on hand at Wimer and Campbell's.

The tenderest and choicest of meats always on hand at Wimer & Campbell's.

The tug Triumph brought up a big scow load of bridge timbers from Parker's mill on Wednesday.

Tommy Norris has the lumber on the ground for the bridge he is building across the gulch on Henry street.

In land contests for this district G. W. Smith, John Bienvue and Jesse R. Huggins, have been successful against the O. & C. railroad company.

A railroad from Roseburg to Coos bay is said by knowing ones to be an assured fact for 1890. This would mean a genuine and permanent boom for Southern Oregon.—Review.

Geo. T. Moulton left on Tuesday for Southern California expecting a change of climate to build up his enfeebled health. His aunt, Miss Millie Bunn, accompanied him. Bon voyage, George.

Ex-Minister Phelps is lecturing on divorce in Yale college. He thinks every state should make a law that would not allow a divorced person to marry again as long as his or her spouse was living. He is right.

We must see to it that Coquille has a salmon hatchery. Last season's product in Oregon amounted to nearly three million dollars, notwithstanding the catch is going down to a mere nothing for want of hatcheries. The catch at Rogue river is proof enough that the hatchery will return its thousand fold. Five hundred dollars expended annually in planting salmon spawn in some of the small creeks not too far from the ocean would bring thousands of dollars to the river every year. Coos bay could be made a young Columbia river in the production of this excellent food fish, having the finest fishing grounds imaginable. Coos river should be thoroughly stocked every year. With four good hatcheries the bay could supply half a dozen large canneries. The cost is a mere nothing in comparison to the returns. Fraser river in British Columbia had become thoroughly fished out, until hatcheries were put in. These have been properly attended to the past four years and last season they put up 365,000 cases, the largest catch in the history of that stream. We must have hatcheries.

In Memoriam.

At a regular meeting of Myrtle Lodge No. 78, A. F. and A. M., held Saturday evening, Dec. 14, A. L. 5889, the following resolutions were adopted, viz.:

WHEREAS, The great God of the universe has removed Wm. P. Mast from this world to one more perfect, to receive the reward of well doing, we his brethren who have known him long give this as testimony to his worth and integrity

"An honest man—
The noblest work of God."

Resolved, That in his death we lose a worthy brother, the state a useful citizen. And to his family we extend heartfelt sympathy, in their irreparable loss.

Resolved, That this lodge be draped in mourning one month, that the members wear the usual badge of mourning, and that a copy of these resolutions with the seal of the lodge, be sent the wife of our brother, and a page of the records be set apart to his memory.

Oakland.

In my last I promised you some statistics bearing upon the capabilities of this city. I regret to say am compelled to ask your forbearance for another week for I find very little printed matter upon that subject. When I can do so it will be a great pleasure, for I regard the Herald as a paper of the people always at their services and among the very best local papers in Oregon and one upon which there is a lot of hard work which always follows home prints. When I write up the goodness and greatness of Oakland I will leave out police Judge Alexander Laidlaw who a few evenings ago went on a general "jamboree" drunk and who on the 5th instant to the surprise of the clerk of his court ordered himself to "stand up and receive sentence." Of course he first arrested himself and then "released the prisoner on his own recognisance." After reprimanding himself and threatening that if he should ever repeat the crime he should resign his office, he fined himself $50 and paid over the money. Only one other such incident as this ever happened and that was in Arkansaw. Oakland now takes the penant away from that far-away state as easily as she captured the base ball penant in the present years league games, but with less eclat. Since my last the storm has been a regular down pour with little cessation. Much damage to property is the result. Spring valley and lake Chabot water is badly discolored. The two great cities now slake their thirst with side hill slickness, a sort of "highly concentrated extract of decomposed vegetable matter, dead squirrels, grass-hoppers and bug juice, such as would not be used at all if it could be got for nothing, but you see it costs high and the cost goes right on whether you use it or not; hence hightoned people in order that they may be regarded as metropolitan just shut both eyes and swallow.

It never rains but I am reminded of the cheif editor of the HERALD, when a slip on the green sward sent the steel point of our umbrella rib crashing through his new derby and on down into the labyrinth of the third joint of his neck and how we helped him back to the office and even offered to call a doctor and have amputation performed at my own expense. Without joking the 17 inches of rainfall up to this time would go to convince you that it has been wet down here.

Recently one Mrs. Woodworth of Indiana has been creating a peculiar kind and a vast quantity of religious ferment in Oakland; men, women and children and even hoodlums are overcome by her power and what some are pleased to call "religious ecstacy or hypnotism, and collapse in the straw-bottomed tent. Negroes are delighted with her religious fervor. The other night a brawny handed laborer and a dusky maiden were both overcome at once and fell "arthwise" in each others embrace; the oak and the fir inter locked as it were. She has her tent stretched at the corner of 12th and Webster streets on the site of the Grand Central hotel which burned some years ago. There is much mystery about the power shown by some of her converts, and no small amount of guessing at to the real nature thereof. People fall down and remain in a sort of comatose state for hours. A pin inserted in a boy's leg to see if he was fooling was discovered by his mother two days later. One bald headed convert, whom the hoodlums styled "his jiblets" frequently went to grass; once they poked his head so full of pins as to give it the appearence of a pin-cushion. One hoodlum while making fun of the proceedings was overcome and was carried out by his comrades and walked up and down the streets between two of them until he rallied. His name is a secret to this day.

The style of her meetings is a noted improvement on the salvation army—kind of cross with it and the old methodist revival meetings of former times; but say what you will she has many followers, some of whom are learned divines. One old German prays and exhorts something after the style of the old Dutchman who, when entirely overcome, jumped to his feet and exclaimed: "brav on brutren, bray on; gif the devil the downset, for God vas the feller yet." While there are many conversions and a never-waning interest at the tent, the learned deacons of the big churches are scolding their lambs for attending her meetings and shaking their fists at the progress she is making, but in vain. They even go so far as to threaten her and have notices served upon her to leave the ground upon which she is camped, but she gets even by ordering a tent from Chicago which ready furnished is to cost $1700. It is a fact that hundreds of those who attend her church and are doing more than all the others in her behalf are persons who do not consider themselves welcome to attend the fine, stiff-backed churches of these two great autocratic cities; hence it is the first good unadulterated opportunity they have had to publicly worship God these many years.

Catching Creek Jottings.

A few nice days make us want to make ourselves known to the neighboring communities of the Coquille. We are having fine weather, but a little cool; grass growing but slowly, and stock looking very well considering the late heavy storms. Our part of the valley is improving very rapidly in the way of building roads, bridges and houses. The Adams brothers are fitting up their farm in first-class order, building and making new fences, cleaning land and making pastures. In the course of a few years they will have the best farm in this section of the country for they are rustlers and are bound to make a showing. Polk Elliott has just completed and moved in a nice cozy house which wonderfully improves his place and speaks great praise for Polk as a mechanic. He treated the young people of the creek to a very sociable party on the evening of the 7th in honor of his daughter Nora's fourteenth birthday. The supper was just grand. Rev. C. B. Marsters is doing a lot of fencing which adds to the convenince of his large stock range. He is very successful in raising the Angora goat, of which he has a large flock. James Bryan is doing quite a logging business. He has a fine lot in the creek and is still cutting more. He is logging for the Myrtle Point mill. We wish him success, for there is fine timber on this creek and we should have some way of getting it to market, and if floating it down the creek is a successful way, logging will be carried on more extensively.

There has been quite a number of families moved to this creek which we are glad to see, for more families, mean more improvements, and more school. James Johnson has moved to his place in the hills where he intends to reside the rest of the winter. We saw him start out with eleven pounds of something wrapped up in a shawl, and by his high stepping like a blind horse, one would imagine he was saying to himself, "I am dad!"

Health is good as far as we know, and no reason to complain only at muddy roads.

You may hear from us again providing the sun will shine.

BOOTS.

The only "Elixir of Life" for all the ills that flesh is heir to lies in the ability to successfully treat them. A lifetime devoted to the study of the causes and cures of womb troubles and female weaknesses, warrants a permanent cure in nearly every case, at home. Many derangements and complications of the system arise from womb troubles, when the sufferer does not know what the matter really is. All correspondence strictly confidential. Medicines packed and sent with specific directions for use. Address:—A. L. COLE M. D. Specialist, 162½ First St. Portland, Oregon.
