Before the law was written down with parchment or with pen; Before the law made citizens, the moral law made men.
Law stands for human rights, but when it fails those rights to give,
Then let law die, my brother, but let human

"WHERE ARE WE AT?"

Senator Voorhees Deserts His British Hessian Pluto-Democracy

And Returns to Populistic Jacksonian Principles, the Dollar of Our Daddies and of the Constitution.

Indianapolis, April 29.—Senator Voorhees, in a talk today with the Sentinel Washington correspondent, made the following statement of his views in regard to the free coinage of silver:

"I do not regret the agitation of the silver question. Sooner or later it has to be definitely settled whether the labor-producing people of this country can be bullied out of one-half of their debt-paying money or whether they will stand like free men and protect and defend the money named and provided in the constitution—gold and silver, both—not one of the precious metals alone, but both, and on terms and conditions as to coinage and use of absolute equality. That is the question immediately before us, and no better time than now will ever be found for its settlement.

"The tariff will not return to plague us again for years to come.
It has been so wisely adjusted that no attempt at general revision is now in contemplation in any quarter.
There is no longer any issue in regard to federal election laws, and the threat of the bayonet at the ballot-box. No great national question is at this time in the way of a full and free discussion of money, currency, precious metals, ratios, standards of value, units of account and payment, and the bearings which all these things have on the general welfare of the great body of American people. The silver question itself is also plainer to the view, less obscured by the craft of its enemies than at any time since the assassination of silver money took place in 1873. There are no legislative switches now in existence to lead people away from the main track; no cowardly makeshifts or insincere shams can any longer darken discussion or betray honest counsels. The Sherman act which was conceived in rancorous hostility to silver, and brought forth into a law by an iniquitous betrayal of silver's free coinage, has been buried in an unhonored grave, over which no lament will ever be heard.

"I have never been willing to admit that our system of currency should be dictated by England and other foreign countries, and I repeat that idea now.

"The real and vital issue now presented to the American people is the proposed elimination of silver from our currency; its total overthrow and destruction as a money metal, and the use of gold alone. This is what is now meant by the movement against free coinage of silver, whatever disclaimers may be made to the contrary. This movement means the destruction of one-half the debt-paying money of the United States and of the world. If it should be so, it would double the burdens of every debtor and multiply the income of every creditor wherever the sun shines.

"The debts of the American people, both public and private, are appalling in amount. They have been contracted on a bimetallic basis, and it is now proposed to make them payable on a basis of gold alone. The two metals also constitute the specie basis for such paper currency as may be put in circulation. If silver money is destroyed, paper circulation must be contracted in that proportion.

Every form and kind of money must become that much scarcer and harder to get in exchange for labor and the products of labor. Such a policy is, to my mind, simply horrible.

"I have not a particle of doubt as to the result of the contest now going on. The enemies of silver will be driven to the wall. Silver money will not only survive, but it will be fully restored to its old place as a legal and controlling factor in the development and progress of the country. Nor have I any fear for the future strength and harmony of the Democratic party. Some men may discard its principles and abandon its organization, but others will take their places.

"I have been in favor of the free coinage of silver at the ratio fixed by Jefferson all my life, and whatever others may do I shall neither abandon my principles nor my party.
I am not unmindful of the vague cry now raised about 'sound money,' or 'honest money,' and it causes me to glance back over the career of silver in American history. I discover that Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Madison, John Marshall and Monroe endorsed silver money as sound and honest, and that the same views were entertained throughout the most important epochs of our country's trials, growth and glory by Jackson, Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Silas Wright, Marcy, Hor-atio Seymour, Benton, Chase, Douglass, Hendricks, Morton and Lincoln.

"The truth is that the danger from the coinage and use of silver as money in this country never occurred to a sane mind until greed, avarice and unholly speculation reared its serpent head and aimed its vicious, deadly darts at the dollar of the fathers of 1776.
Since that time we have had nothing but financial vexation, distrust, business depression and ruinous panics. The five years which immediately followed the demonetiza-tion of silver, 1873, were freighted with more calamity and suffering on the part of the laboring and producing people than was ever before known on this continent in the same length of time. A wave of confiscation swept over the country, annihating values, depriving labor of its reward, destroying all market prices for property, except such as were bid at sheriff's sales. Nor did this wretched condition show any signs of improvement until the partial restoration of silver to its money functions took place in 1878.

"If I am told of this question that silver bullion as a marketable commodity at this time commands a low price, my answer is that if gold had been conspired against, persistently assailed by foul means as well as fair, stabbed in the back and under the fifth rib, wherever else a dagger could be planted, for nearly a quarter of a century past, it would be in a far worse crippled condition than silver. No other form of money on the face of the earth could have withstood, as silver has done, such a malignant, unsparring crusade as the last 22 years have witnessed in this country.
It still holds its place in the affections and confidence of the people.
Battered, bruised and tattered as it has been, yet it will buy today all that gold will buy, and pay all the debts that gold will pay, unless a special contract has been made for gold. The American people will never give it up, and the sooner the minions of aggressive, insolent, consolidated wealth and arrogant apes-ties of gold monometallism realize and act upon this fact, the better and safer it will be for them in the future of this country.

"In every state and territory, from the western side of the Allegheny mountains to the Pacific coast, silver has been known to and endorsed by people for three-quarters of a century, not merely as sound money, not merely as honest money, but as land office money besides. With it their homes were bought and paid for, and not much patience remains with them or their descendants for those who stigmatize the great white metal, which has done its work so well.

"And the need of the white metal in the hands of the people is even greater now than ever before.
There is scarcely a speck of gold in sight of the laboring classes. In round numbers, there are nearly $400,000,000 of gold money in the world and about the same amount of silver. With silver demonetized, the plain people, the wage-workers and those who raise and sell the produce of the soil, will handle specie money no more forever, and will catch even a glimpse of it but seldom. Gold will be hoarded and hid away in the vaults of the great magnates of wealth and the people in their business will be put on half-ratios of paper money, to which the shrinking and contraction from a basis of bimetalism to a basis of monometallism will reduce them.

"I wish to impugn the motives of no one and to avoid hard words in discussion as far as possible, but the time has come when speech, though temperate, should be very plain. Platforms from this time forward will not be framed to cheat on this subject, whatever may have been done heretofore. No dubious phraseology or straggling planks on the question of silver will be tolerated in the next national conventions, to take place. Words will mean what they say and men will be nominated whose records will constitute a guarantee that the principles declared will be carried out.
Nor are the people to be imposed upon any further by the ominous air with which the money-lords and money-lenders prate about the terrors and disasters of being put on a silver basis by the free coinage of silver.

"If the free and unlimited coinage of silver as full legal tender money and a standard by statute and a unit of account and payment, without a word of international agreement on the subject, will put this country on a silver basis, then we were on such a basis every day and hour since the passage of the first coinage act, in April, 1792, until the demonetization act of February, 1873, a period of 81 years, during which we rose from weakness to the foremost rank among the nations of the earth.

"I commend to all croakers in regard to the silver basis a careful reading of the act of April 2, 1792, formulated by Hamilton and Jefferson and approved by Washington."

Marriage in Georgia.
A new form of marriage ceremony is practiced by a Georgia justice of the peace. He concludes as follows: "By the authority vested in me as an officer of the state of Georgia, which is sometimes called the Empire state of the south; by the fields of cotton that lay out in snowy whiteness around us; by the growl of the

FOR THE BLOOD

Just now everybody is thinking about taking something for the blood.
A Spring medicine as we speak of it. And it's a good thing to do, but you want to get the proper medicine. If you consult your physician he will tell you to Take a GOOD LIVER MEDICINE

and that, because the liver has everything to do with the blood. If the liver is sluggish the system is clogged, the blood becomes impure, and the whole body suffers. Every medicine recommended for the blood is supposed to work on the liver. Then get at once the

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

There was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and workshop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the apparatus and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiencies, does not permit the affairs of the government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skillful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent.
Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially in this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who entrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS

Honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who served ninety days, or over, in the late war are entitled, if now partially or wholly disabled for ordinary manual labor, whether disability was caused by service or not, and regardless of their pecuniary circumstances, to receive a pension. It makes no difference whether soldier served or died in late war or in regular army or navy.
SOLDIERS of the late war, pensioned under one law, may apply for higher rates under other laws, without losing any rights.
Thousands of soldiers drawing from $2 to $10 per month under the old law are entitled to higher rates under new law, not only on account of disabilities for which no war pension was received, but also for others, whether due to service or not.
SOLDIERS and sailors disabled in line of duty in regular army or navy since the war are also entitled, whether discharged for disability or not.
Survivors, and their widows, of the Black Hawk, Creek, Cherokee, and Seminole or Florida Indian wars of 1822 to 1842, are entitled under a recent act.
MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their widows also entitled, if 62 years of age or disabled or dependent.
Old claims completed and settlement obtained, whether pension has been granted under later laws or not.
Rejected claims reopened and settlement secured, if rejection improper or illegal.
Certificates of service and discharge obtained for soldiers and sailors of the late war who have lost their original papers.
