Sad Death by Drowning.

A young man named Stephen Vanderhoot was drowned at Myrtle Point last Thursday afternoon. The young man was employed by Giles & Son, and was at the time engaged in placing a scow to be loaded with brick for the lighthouse at Bandon. In some manner he fell into the river, and his absence seemed to be observed first by others on seeing his hat floating on the water. Sam Giles jumped into the water to save him, and came near going under himself. Vanderhoof's body was found later, but too late for resuscitation. He was about 24 years old, an excellent young man, and although a resident but a short while he was held in high esteem by all. His funeral was held at Myrtle Point last Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World, of which order he was a member. The attendance of citizens was very large, and ceremonies were participated in by a delegation from the camp at this place, the local camp conducting the same in an interesting and impressive manner, an account of which appears in another column of the HERALD today.

The Coos Bay Stage Robbery.

Mr. W. R. Wells, of Olalla, informs The Review that he went out Monday with his son and succeeded in locating the camp of the highwayman who held up the Coos bay stage last Thursday. In a canyon about half a mile from the scene of the holdup he found where a camp had been made in the and off a log a pair of [illegible] and a "grub-sack," containing some potatoes, were left there, as well as a piece of cloth, a portion of which might have served the highwayman for a mask. Mr. Wells does not think the fellow visited his camp after committing the robbery. There were taken from the mail, so it is supposed, the following pension drafts from the San Francisco agency: E. F. Walsh, $135; J. S. Wells, $36; John G. Cooper, $18; Mrs. Elizabeth Rider, $24. Mr. Wells thinks that prompt action in following the robber would have resulted in his capture. —Rosburg Review.

There will be a meeting of citizens at Masonic hall tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock, sharp, to organize for the construction of a hotel. The subscribers to the stock are especially urged to be present and take part in the organization and steps to incorporate the company; and other citizens are invited to be present and unite with us in forwarding this enterprise.

The Bandon Woolen Mill Co. renews its advertisement in today's HERALD, and offers 12 cts. per pound for good wool delivered at Bandon. The company will also furnish sacks and twine free to parties furnishing wool to them.

The editor thanks W. H. Waddington, esq., of Lampey creek, for a box of fine strawberries. He tells us he has more of the same kind, and will forward them on order at three gallons for a dollar. Address him at Parkersburg.

Myrtle Point has made extensive preparations to celebrate the 4th, and at a late hour Bandon decided to "hold the day down" at that place, hence Coos county's patriotism will bubble at every pore.

That baseball contest between the Empire and Coquille nines on the 3d of July at this place will be a great attraction. A $50 purse hangs up for the winning nine.

Gone Home.

Died—June 16, 1895, the beloved daughter of James and Lana Masters, Linnie Matilda Masters, aged 13 years, 9 months and 21 days. She was followed to the grave, Tuesday, 18th, by the pupils of two schools—the Sumner school, where she attended until three years ago, and her own school, on Catching slough—bearing flowers, which they laid on the grave, wholly covering it.

There were many sympathetic friends from near and far, for we all loved Linnie dearly.

The following selection expresses our feelings:

Gone from our home forever,
The darling of our band,
Crossed o'er the mystic river
Into the "Summer Land."

Gone from a world of sadness,
Gone from a bed of pain
Into eternal gladness,
Never to weep again.

Gone where no storms of sorrow
Sweep o'er her gentle breast,
Gone from a dark tomorrow
To everlasting rest.

We weep, our hearts are breaking,
We smile, and kiss the rod,
For we know her spirit's waking
In the paradise of God.

Gone from our home forever,
The darling of our band,
Crossed o'er the mystic river
Into the Summer Land.

A FRIEND.

Manager Graham's Railroad Proposition Not What Was Expected.

The committe appointed for that purpose, Messrs. Fisher, Flint and Benjamin have received a written proposition from Manager Graham, of the Roseburg & Coos Bay Railroad. The terms upon which work will be commenced there are not just what the people have been led to expect from informal talks with Mr. Graham, and are, therefore, rather disappointing.

The subsidy demanded is [illegible] as follows: When 5 miles of the road are graded ready for the rails, less the bridging, 20 per cent; when 10 miles are graded a second 20 per cent; when 16 miles are graded, a third 20 per cent; and when 20 miles are graded, the fourth installment of 20 per cent will be due and payable. The remaining 20 per cent is to be paid when the rails are laid into the corporate limits of Roseburg. Mr. Graham also desires suitable terminal facilities and the right-of-way to the county line. This right-of-way is a rather indefinite matter, as more than the regulation width of 60 feet will be required in many places. The extent of the depot and terminal grounds required is not definitely stated. The proposition has been turned over to the general committee and what action they will take remains to be seen.—Roseburg Review.

Robertson, Eugene, recorder; D. W. Taylor, Portland, M. of C.; O. O. Hodson, McMinnville, conductor; Henry B. Thielson, Rickreal, herald; Morris Stock, Portland, steward.

Albany Herald: The physicians of the Oregon medical board are not finding always the smooth sailing they anticipated. The first case in which they failed was that of Mrs. L. M. Slocum, who was arrested in Newberg, by order of the board, for selling proprietary medicines. The trial took place at Newburg, and she was represented by an attorney, and with permission of the court Abigail Scott Duniway addressed the jury in behalf of the right of Mrs. Slocum to dispose of the medicines. Her address completely shattered the argument of the prosecution and the jury acquitted the defendant after a few minutes, consultation. The announcement of the verdict created considerable rejoicing among the women who were to be affected by the decision in the case.

Burial of Young Vanderhoof.

COQUILLE CITY, June 24, 1895.

Editor and readers of the Coquille City Herald—Having been requested by the clerk of Myrtle Camp, No. 197, Woodmen of the World, to furnish you and the readers of your paper with the proceedings of our order, conjointly with Sugar Loaf Camp, and the large assemblage of acquaintances and friends that gathered at Myrtle Point on Saturday, 22d inst., to pay the last sad respects and ceremonies at the funeral of our late beloved friend and neighbor, Stephen J. Vanderhoof, I submit the following:

On communication received by Consul Commander A. J. Sherwood, received June 22, 1895, which conveyed the sad intelligence of the drowning of our respected neighbor, he with promptness and dispatch (characteristic of the true Woodman) called a special meeting of our camp to consider this most important matter.

It was unanimously resolved and voted by our camp to affiliate with Sugar Loaf Camp, and assist and encourage them in their hour of loss and bereavement. Accordingly, at 1 o'clock of Saturday, camp securing three hacks, made a hot and dusty drive, arriving at Myrtle Point at 3:15, and were conducted to the hall, where kind neighbors dusted our begrimed exteriors, refreshed us with cold water, and conducted us into the lodge room of the camp.

Camp was called to order by Consul Commander L. A. Roberts, and after the necessary form of business, in which Consul Commander A. J. Sherwood was appointed master of ceremonies, both camps formed and marched to the residence of deceased and preceded the remains, followed by relatives and a large gathering of friends and citizens to the church, which had been tastefully and artistically decorated for the occasion.

After a brief but impressive prayer by Rev. T. Brouillette, the quartette, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Wise and Mrs. Brown, rendered some choice anthems that impressed the lover of symphony with the grandness and solemnity of the occasion.

Rev. Brouillette then took the rostrum and in an impressive manner addressed the living upon the subject, Disintegration of Temporal Existence and Conclusiveness of Immortality.

The casket was then opened and the friends and acquaintances took a last sad view of him they had known but yesterday in the full vigor of life and manhood, now silent and prepared for his last resting place.

Then the order, viz, Woodmen of the World, of which he was a respected, and in this county the first deceased neighbor, filed reverently to the casket, looked upon him whose obligations in life were such they felt conscious he would have performed a like office had the decree of fate been reversed. Solemnly they formed at the door of the church, and after relatives had taken their last and affectionate farewell, preceded the procession to the cemetery, where forming in a wedge, an emblem of the fraternity, they performed the last rites according to the ritual of the Woodmen of the World.

During a temporary moment of repose, while in position forming the wedge, Mr. Arthur placed his camera and got a negative from which we hope to secure a souvenir, and of which one will be sent to his parents who reside in Michigan.

Returning to the hall, the usual business transacted, we were cordially invited to take supper at the Myrtle Point Hotel, after which, in the sombre shades of evening, we returned to our homes, fully realizing the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death, and a greater confidence in that fraternal bond that guarentees within its power and means to execute our will, reverence our memory and protect our loved ones when the strong arm fails to do bidding, and we have entered the forest beyond this mortal ken and joined the celestial camp whose fame and numbers are unknown. S. L. CURRY,
Escort of Myrtle Camp, No. 197, Woodmen of the World.

GENERAL NEWS.

DANCED FOR RAIN.

Guthrie, O. T., June 15.—The Sac and Fox Indian braves have adopted a new method to get rain. They appointed one day last week for all their tribes to meet at one place and dance for rain, and at the same time invited several neighboring tribes to join the festivities for much-needed showers. Large numbers of Indians met and danced until Sunday's flood came, and this so buoyed them up that they are still dancing for more rain. Before they commenced their festivies, they moved their wigwams from the bottoms to the highlands, saying the rains would flood the lowlands.

HAS LOST HIS EYESIGHT.

Atlanta, June 14.—Dr. Todd, of Abbeville, N. C., a brother-in-law of President Lincoln, now 79 years of age, has gone blind. He was division surgeon in the corps of General Longstreet, and served all through the war as a confederate, while his brother-in-law was president of the United States.

INDICTED BANKERS.

Denver, Col., June 20.—F. K. Atkins, ex-president of the Colorado Savings bank, and Charles O. Atkins, ex-cashier, furnished bonds in $3000 each to day to answer to indictments charging them with receiving deposits in the bank that was insolvent and had closed its doors to regular business.

CONSPIRACY OF BANKERS.

Portland Bankers Refuse to Give the Names of Their Depositors.

Portland (Or.), June 16.—Henry Failing, president of the first national bank of this city, has been indicted by the grand-jury of Multnomah county. He is charged with refusing to comply with the laws of the state requiring the presidents of banks to furnish the county assessor with a detailed statement of all the bank depositors and amounts deposited.

Such statements are required by the laws of the state, and this seems to be the first instance when a demand was made upon a bank president to comply with such law. The penalty is $500 fine, and Mr. Failing expects to pay the fine and continue to withold the information demanded by the assessor. When the demand was first made the bank officers of the city discussed the matter thoroughly and decided to make a united stand in defiance of the law.

Vice-President Corbett of the First national said tonight that national banks are not subject to examination by state officials so far as their despositors are concerned. The law under which the indictment was secured, he said, has been on the statute books for 20 years, and is really a dead letter. Banks, for obvious reasons, may not make public the affairs of their depositors, for in so doing they would destroy their business. Mr. Corbett added that such a law is not practicable, and therefore cannot be enforced.

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

Westminster, Cal., March 21, 1894. —Some time ago, on awakening one morning, I found that I had rheumatism in my knee so badly that, as I remarked to my wife, it would be impossible for me to attend to business that day. Remembering that I had some of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in my store I sent for a bottle, and rubbed the afflicted parts thoroughly with it, according to directions, and within an hour I was completely relieved. One application had done the business. It is the best liniment on the market, and I sell it under a positive guarantee.—R. T. Harris. For sale by Dr. S. L. Leneve, druggist.

To Make Roses Into Pure Fragrance.

That priceless fragrance, attar of roses, is not beyond the reach of any woman who has the roses in her garden. The process of home distillation is as follows: Procure two glass jars, one small enough to fit into the neck of the other. In the mouth of this insert a piece of the finest Turkish sponge, well cleansed and soaked in olive oil. Over it invert the large jar nearly filled with rose petals and set them in the sunshine. Its golden arrows disengage the volatile aromatic essence, which, though small in quantity, descends to the sponge, where it is retained. As the rose leaves dry replace them with fresh, and so continue until the period of blossoming is over. Then rinse the sponge in alcohol, and securely seal the vial. You will have a diluted portion of the attar. If the rosary is sufficently large, there may be enough oil in the sponge to be squeezed into a tiny vial.
