Temperance Notes.

[From the National W. C. T. U. Bulletin.] The Farmer and the Liquor Traffic.

It is sometimes argued that the liquor industry creates a market for grains, fruits, etc., and that the prohibition of the traffic would, by destroying that market, injure the prosperity of the farmers.

The extent of the market for grain may be judged from the reports of the internal revenue bureau, which shows that during the year ending June 30, 1891, 26,347,641 bushels of grain were used in the production of distillery spirits, only a little over one per cent of the entire grain crop of the year 1890.

All the grain used for the production of distilled spirits in the last ten years does not aggregate one-twelfth of the grain product of the year 1890.

The estimated value of all the corn, barley, rye, wheat, oats, hops, molasses, apples, peaches and grapes, used in the production of spirits, malt, and vinous liquors in the United States during the year ending June 30, 1891, is $46,479,265, about six dollars apiece for those engaged in farming. This seems to be the total of the receipts of the farmers from the liquor traffic.

To offset this, we may first consider the extent to which the farmers' market is affected by the entrance of distillery and brewery fed cattle and hogs into the meat market.

The internal revenue bureau reports that for the year ending June 30, 1890, 67,173 cattle and 40,947 hogs were fed at registered distilleries, the total in weight amounting to 18,258,298 pounds.

The number of cattle fed from brewery refuse cannot be ascertained, but it is probably as great as the number fed in distillery yards.

Again it is closely estimated that not less than 48,000,000 bushels of distillery and brewery refuse are thrown on the market or given away to compete with the farmers' grain as food for cattle.

The farming class suffers from this in three ways. (1) The selling price of grain for cattle feeding purposes is reduced by the competition of this refuse feed. (2) The selling price of cattle is reduced not only by the competition of this refuse-fed cattle in the market, but by the doubt cast on all meat by the known inferiority of refuse-fed cattle. (3) Dairymen are seriously injured by the competition and deterioration of milk from the refuse-fed cattle.

In this examination nothing is said as to the effect upon the consumers of this milk and meat which is known to be of poor and unwholesome quality.—John Lloyd Thomas.

One night when Mr. Isaac Reese was stopping with me, says M. F. Haleb, a prominent merchant of Quartermaster, Washington, I heard him groaning. On going to his room I found him suffering from cramp colic. He was in such agony I feared he would die. I hastily gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He was soon relieved and the first words he uttered where, "what was that stuff you gave me?" I informed him. A few days ago we were talking about his attack and he said he was never without that remedy now. I have used it in my family for several years. I know its worth and do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends and customers. For sale by Dr. S. L. Leneve, druggist.

Since the latter, it had been at the rooms of the Bandon Woolen Mills Co.

Deafness Cannot be Cured. By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, etc.

A Trip to Bandon.

[The following communication is copied from the Roseburg Review of August 12th.—ED. HERALD.]

On June 28th, a party of four left Oakland by wagon for a breath of the salt sea air. The objective point being Bandon—"Fair Bandon by the sea." On the first day out we reached the mountain house on the old Coos bay wagon road.

On the third day we laid over, in order to give the disciples of Isaac Walton an opportunity to exercise their skill on the speckled occupants of the beautiful streams along which the road winds. We will not tell any "fish story," but content ourselves with saying we had plenty to satisfy the appetites of four healthy and fish-hungry individuals.

By easy stages, occasionally stopping to whip a likely stretch of water or view the beautiful bits of scenery constantly presenting themselves, we reached Bandon on the fifth day out from home.

Speaking of scenery, recalls an incident of the trip. Observing the plump appearance of every living thing about a farm house, one of the party asked the owner what they lived on that produced such results. The answer was "mountain scenery and myrtle nuts." What effect the scenery had could not be decided just then, but it was afterward suggested that it might have an indirect effect in so far as it would induce tranquility and peace of mind, with consequent contentment. At any rate, we saw nothing that gave us grounds to dispute the statement, and concluded that the combination of myrtle nuts and scenery formed a fattening agent hard to beat.

Having reached our destination the next thing was to find a suitable spot on which to pitch our tent. On inquiry we were referred to Mr. George Bennett, who is credited with having christened Bandon, and on making our desires known to him, we were welcomed most cordially and a lovely site was shown us on the level green turf beneath a group of trees, with plenty of pure fresh water at hand, and while our view of the ocean was not obstructed we were at the same time sheltered from the full force of the sea breeze. The beach at Bandon is said by many, who have been at various points on the sea shore, to be the finest of all. Many beautiful agates, shells and other curios were picked up, to say nothing of the fish, crabs and clams that were captured. As to clams, they are immense and we are only telling the simple truth when we state that many of them would fill a water bucket. It is only he, who has followed the receding tide to low water about four o'clock in the morning, and then dug the succulent shell fish, that can appreciate the delicious flavor of the repast, no matter in what style it is served up. The outing resulted in improved complexion and appetite, and an increase in avoidupois in each of the party, and it was with regret that we noted the approach of the end of our stay. On the 29th of July, we started on the homeward trip and with a last look at the great expanse of water and a promise of return next year, we parted with the hospitable people of Bandon beach.

The long winter evenings can be very profitably devoted to reading, but there are some things that we must read the year round. One of these is a local paper; the best in the county is before you—the HERALD. Another is a good home paper of general circulation, such as "Womankind," for instance, which comes once a month filled with the best things for a busy housewife. We are able by special arrangements with the publishers, to offer "Womankind" free for a year to every paid-in-advance subscriber to our paper, and are glad to do so, for we are convinced that more of practical value to women. Bright stories, clever poems, the latest fashions, news of woman's work—everywhere, articles on "Motherhood," "Cultivation of Flowers," a woman's parliament for the discussion of matters of interest, are a few of the bright features of "Womankind."

To the head of the house we offer on the same terms "Farm News," an agricultural paper, edited by a practical farmer (Miller Purvis, esq.), late state lecturer of the Ohio Farmer's Alliance, and filled each month with suggestions from able correspondents, that make it an absolute necessity to every wide awake farmer. This paper is yours for the asking, provided you are a subscriber to our paper.

Commissioner B. F. Ross, who has just returned from a trip out on the Coos bay wagon road, reports quite an amount of work to be done on the road, outside of repairing the bridges, and that the residents along the road agree to do the work and repair the bridges if the county will allow $25 in addition to the $75 already allowed, which Mr. Ross promised them would be done; it being worth that much to make them safe.

A Gentleman

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald."

"In 1868, my forehead was nearly bald, and the hair kept falling out every day. I induced her to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarum, Boston, Tex.

G. A. R. NOTICE.

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commission of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filing of their claims in case there should be any further pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retroactive. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible date.

If U. S. soldiers, sailors or their widows, children or parents, desire information in regard to pension matters, they should write to THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address: PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, WASHINGTON, D. C. P. O.
