Before the law was written down with parchment or with pen; Before the law made citizens, the moral law made man. Law stands for human rights, but when it fails those rights to give, Then let law die, my brother, but let human beings live. —Rev. Miller Hagaman.

A True Philanthropist. Maud Ballington Booth, of the Salvation Army, is making hosts of friends among all classes of people who harbor human affections. The sincerity of her soul adorns and strengthens her eloquence. Her heart and her home are with the poor, the fallen, and the despised. Her religious doctrines are given little thought. They may be true or false. It matters not. It is her human affection that attracts. Her love of humanity, regardless of its environment; her sympathy with affliction; her genuine pity for all human frailties—these are the qualities of Christ in her which put to shame the counterfeit Christianity of more pretentious religious teachers and religious organizations.

The great churches are for the comfortable classes, hers is for the poor and the wretched. To the Changing Auxiliary Society she said the other day: "One-half of the world is fortunate and the other half is the victim of injustice. I want to live with the unfortunates." Speaking of work in the slums of New York, she said: "We have found little children whose palid faces appealed to us and to God for one mouthful of bread," and she and her co-workers are enforcing the world's respect and love by hearing and answering such appeals. Their work is noble and glorious but it deals only with the effects of human injustice. It picks up and soothes the poor crushed and desolate victim of oppression, but it leaves the injustice which caused their wretchedness unchecked in its course of destruction. Exclusion from natural opportunities, forcing an ever increasing percentage of God's children into involuntary idleness and consequent poverty and misery, is the great and universal cause of undeserved poverty. He is a true philanthropist who lifts up and cheers and feeds the fallen, but he will be a greater philanthropist who shall, by restoring God's bounty—the land—to his children, enable the fallen to lift themselves up, and shall enable those who still stand to keep themselves from falling.—S. F. Star.

"To lay with one hand the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals, to aid private enterprises and build up private institutions, is no less robbery because done under the forms of law, and called tax. This is not legislation; it is a decree under legislative forms." (U. S. Supreme Court in 20 Wallace, 657, case of Loan Association vs. Topeka, October, 1874.)

S. F. Star: "You'll be a pauper yet," writes an anonymous correspondent who reviles us for what he is pleased to style our "anarchistic, communist views." If so, we will have plenty to keep us company. No man need feel ashamed to be what Christ was; and we tell our correspondent that were we a pauper, poor, low in the gutter, while he luxuriated in a Knob Hill mansion, we would look down upon him, and such as he, as from an eminence.

S. F. Star: Many persons denounce "capital" as an evil, making no distinction between real capital (which is but stored-up labor and skill), and spurious capital, which is the power to levy tribute through the monopolization of natural resources. Philadelphia Justice: Men who own their own homes have reasons for patriotism; for the disinherited, any flag over the commissary department will do.

Smothering the Popular Will. Talk as we may, the legislator once in office is today largely the master of the people instead of their servant. He can refuse to introduce measures demanded by the people. He can vote against popular reforms or smother them in committee. He can help to enact laws opposed to the wishes of his constituents and there is no one to call him to account. If he chooses he can be a veritable little czar while his term of office lasts, and the only remedy of those who elected him is to send next time a man whom they hope will do better by them. Even then the people are not sure that their "representative" will carry out their wishes.

Under direct legislation, or Initiative and Referendum, such irresponsible power on the part of a representative would be impossible. The representative must then introduce measures lawfully demanded by the people. He must submit for popular ratification, when so demanded, bills passed by the legislature, and such bills will not become laws until a majority of the people have agreed to them. Direct legislation would thus kill at a blow the power of corporations or saloon lobbies to defeat popular measures in a legislative body or to pass laws opposed by the majority. Is it any wonder that the professional politician fights shy of direct legislation? In the Direct Legislation Record for September, Miss Florence Fairview tells how the machine politicians of the last New York Republican legislature prevented a direct legislation constitutional amendment from coming to a vote in that body. The means by which Senator O'Connor and Speaker Fisk defeated the will of 500,000 people who asked for a vote on direct legislation in this state, are being used in every state legislature and in every congress to defeat measures. It is time the people demanded a voice in the management of their own affairs. Direct legislation will give it to them.—N. Y. Voice.

The Grand Old Parties. "Two Hearts that Beat as One—With But a Single Thought." TO THE EDITOR: It would take a philosopher to tell what either the Republican or Democratic parties are, or what is the great difference between them. The Republicans claim to be in favor of protection and have set their standard. The Democrats have set their standard in favor of revenue only, and it is about 6 per cent different from the Republican standard. While the tariff embraces about 2 per cent of our business transactions of the United States, therefore the two old parties have kept as an issue before the people a 6 per cent difference in 2 per cent of our actual business. That appears to be a sufficient matter for a right thoroughbred party man to revolve around in to the full extent of his capacity. But there are a great many who have fallen out of the little tariff nest, and landed into the financial pot; and such a mess is being kicked up that it is next to impossible to tell what from which, or which from what, and quarreling about has no reference in the least to what has been accomplished in the past, or what is likely to be accomplished in the future; in fact that is the great secret of political achievement, to keep the fool people wrangling over one thing while they are doing something else entirely.

While the Republicans have clamored for free silver for a number of years, results prove beyond question there is no hope at all of ever getting free coinage through their help; and if anyone can point out any marked difference in the Democracy in that respect from the Republicans, he would surely bring something entirely new to light. The true principles of the People's party, the old party politician hates as bad as the devil hates holy water. He finds it impossible to answer them, and he is fully aware of the fact when they are once seen and fairly comprehended by any honest, candid person he is sure to embrace them, so the great tactic is to keep them away from him, which fully explains the profound silence of the old party papers in regard to all the Populist movements. When forced into the arena, ridicule is all the weapon of defense they have, and they relapse back into silence just as soon as they possibly can. Keeping the people well crammed with cheap, trashy literature is something of a stroke of policy. Such as every little minutia of the Durrant trial is a very good thing to keep the people from thinking. It uses up their brain forces and leaves them with less power to put into a thought of their own condition, and while full of the contemplation of the atrocity of the crime, they can be herded into the old political corral with little resistance. Clear cut, independent thinking is the worst enemy the old party leaders have, and they would exterminate it as a farmer would a bad weed, if they could, and it will be a good thing to keep an eye on the congress that is to convene in December, to see if they don't introduce something that will attempt to accomplish that end. It may seem like a serious charge; but it is time for every free born American citizen to beware. THOMAS BUCKMAN.

These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the Liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

Jones asked his wife—"Why is a husband like dough?" He expected she would give it up, and was going to tell her it was "because a woman needs him," but she said it was because he was "hard to get off her hands."

Horace Greeley once said: "The way to resume is to resume," speaking of again putting gold into circulation after the war. But you may say "resume" any number of times to that torpid liver of yours and it won't budge until you take Simmons Liver Regulator. Many people seem to forget that Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache are all caused by a sluggish liver. Keep the liver active.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

There was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and workshop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appliances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiencies, does not permit the affairs of the government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skillful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially in this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who entrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade-marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives special attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.
