OF INTEREST TO THE PEOPLE.

Gold Coin Contracts.

According to the Omaha papers the Nebraska courts will soon have to pass on the validity of gold coin contracts in the payment of mortgages. It appears that Helen M. Hawkes has brought suit for the foreclosure of a $1000 mortgage, the terms of which call for payment in gold coin. The attorney for the defendant has filed an answer, which sets up the following plea:

"If the words '$1,000 in gold coin' contained in the bond and coupons set forth in plaintiff's petition shall be construed by the court to imply gold coin, lawful money of the United States, then said contract is a discrimination against and in derogation of or in conflict with the act of congress making silver coin and United States notes lawful money and a legal tender for debts, and in such case said contract, as set out in the bond, coupons, and mortgage in said petition, is against public policy and the court will enforce it."

This brings the issue squarely before the court, and will force a ruling on the validity of these gold clauses in bonds and mortgages. However it may be decided, it will of course go to the supreme court of the state, and as it involves the construction of a federal statute, it can be carried to the supreme court of the United States. While the amount involved is not large, the principle at stake is very important and involves millions of dollars. The money power has been forcing this class of contracts wherever possible, and it is one of their methods of discrediting all other forms of currency. The question should therefore be passed on by the supreme court of the United States, and to this tribunal we hope this case, or one precisely similar, will go.—Denver Daily News.

S. F. Star: Perhaps the example of success in municipal ownership comes from Johnson, Vt., with only 600 people, where the electric light plant cost $5600, and the charge for sixteen candle-power incandescents is $3 a year for one light, $5 for two, and $1 a year for bedroom lights. This is not per month, but per year! The actual cost of supplying a sixteen candle-power light is found to be less than 50 cents a year, the balance being necessary to pay interest on bonds. The receipts pay this and all working expenses, besides giving the village sixty street lamps free, and making a net profit of $431 last year. But for the fool system of issuing bonds instead of scrip (probably enforced by law), the preceding rates could be reduced nearly one-half.

S. F. Star: Isidor Jacobs has been expelled from the Iroquois Club for voting for McKinley. Others may be for avowing themselves as Gold Democrats. The courage of these persons somewhat redeems their Toryism. But imagine Thomas Jefferson, the father of genuine Democracy, prostrating himself before the British lion to ask what his country may do as to its finances! Yet that is the position of all Hanna Republicans and Gold Democrats.

Professor Herron: We say that Jesus had nothing to do with politics, but his first public act was to go up to Jerusalem and clean out the temple. Jesus did precisely what you or I would do if we should go up to the capitol and produce a panic in the senate by arresting the proceedings with denunciations of its political iniquity and schemes with railroads. Jesus did it, too, without one whit less reason; and for so doing he was crucified.

Wm. J. Bryan in Omaha World, April, 28, 1896: "The principle of the initiative and referendum is Democratic. It will not be opposed by any Democrat who endorses the declaration of Jefferson that the people are capable of self-government, nor will it be opposed by any Republican who holds to Lincoln's idea that this should be a government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

THE SILK INDUSTRY IN AMERICA.

Millions of Dollars Invested in Silk Manufactures in the United States.

There are 500 silk manufacturing in the United States, capitalized at $50,000,000 and giving employment to more than 60,000 persons, including 30,000 women and girls, says the Toledo Blade. The first establishment of the silk business as a permanent one was effected in the city of Paterson, N. J., which has since come to be known as the American Lyons. Paterson, however, has not monopolized the silk business of New Jersey, for other cities of the cranberry state have had a part of it, particularly Newark and Jersey City. New Jersey has remained at the head of this line of manufactures, with a product of $20,000,000 in the year of the last Federal census, New York and Pennsylvania following with a product of $19,000,000 each, and Connecticut coming fourth with a product of $10,000,000. The statistics just at hand for the year 1895 show on the part of Pennsylvania a marked increase in this manufacture since the national census of 1890. While the number of establishments has not been enlarged 25 per cent, the most notable increase being in the production of ribbons, which was more than doubled, the output in 1895 being 35,000,000 yards. The number of spindles increased during the five years 59 per cent. In 1895 the number of employees was 13,815, an increase of 4455 over the number in 1890. The wages paid in 1895 was $4,682,292, as compared with $2,725,235 in 1890. At this rate of increase it cannot be long before Pennsylvania will exceed New Jersey in the amount of the annual product of silk. Eastern Pennsylvania, in which a majority of the silk manufactures are situated, has many geographical advantages. Unlike western Pennsylvania, except in the anthracite region, it does not produce coal, oil or iron ore. Much of the land is rocky, some of it sterile, and it is not held at high prices. Wood and building materials are cheap, and there is water power in plenty. The railroad connections of eastern Pennsylvania are excellent, the anthracite coal lines passing through much territory which is not productive in agriculture or otherwise. Recently the extreme northeastern section of Pennsylvania has been utilized for the construction of silk factories. This can be done with advantage now, because the eligible towns of New Jersey are somewhat overcrowded on the falling silk market, and the cost of eligible land has increased abnormally in cities adjacent to New York. Along with this increase of land has been the corresponding increase in rents. The largest market for American silks is in the cities of the east, and one of the first of these is the city of Philadelphia. As Pennsylvania takes much of the product of American silk factories, there seems nothing unnatural in Pennsylvania supplying some of the demand, but it will be a surprise to many persons to know that the Keystone State is now nearly at the head of the states of the country in the manufacture of silk. The value of raw silk imported into the United States—from France, Italy and China, chiefly—last year was $22,000,000. The value of silk goods imported was $31,000,000.

S. F. Star: Labor officials have unearthed that the grand jury of New York is composed wholly of wealthy men, and, as a consequence, complaints against the New York Central Railroad in regard to twenty-three persons who were killed within the city limits were all promptly dismissed. If this objection did not measurably apply to this city, some action about the score or more of victims murdered by the supervisors and Superintendent Vining's electric cars would have been taken.

S. F. Star: If Oregon, California and Illinois had voted for Bryan, he would have been president. Nothing but wholesale lying and coercion caused them to vote for McKinley. The great producing states were for Bryan, and with the single tax their population would quickly be quadrupled, so that they could carry their choice.

Wife and Baby Worth 50,000.

A New York firm applied to Abraham Lincoln, some years before he became president, as to the financial standing of one of his neighbors. Mr. Lincoln replied as follows:

"Yours of the 10th inst. received. I am well acquainted with Mr. —, and know his circumstances. First of all, he has a wife and baby; together they ought to be worth $50,000 to any man. Secondly, he has an office in which there is a table worth $1.50, and three chairs worth, say, $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a large rat-hole which will bring looking into."

"Respectfully yours,
"A. LINCOLN."

New York Journal: Out of office Cleveland will go without the favor of Democrats, for he has betrayed and assassinated Democracy. As a magwump he will have little standing, for he has violated the cardinal precept of magwumpery—civil service reform. The Republicans will scarcely admire him, for even the British spurned Benedict Arnold. Contemned, despised and hated, he will carry with him into obscurity but one consolation—an all-sufficient one, maybe, to one of his gross nature—he retires rich.

In the largest hall of the Cooper Union building, New York, D. L. Moody and Ira D. Sankey are renewing the series of revival meetings with which they set the whole theological world aflame 20 years ago. The great audiences hang on the preacher's discourses, full of home-like simplicity and pathos, and 5000 voices join nightly in singing the hymns led by Mr. Sankey.

Boulder (Col.) Camera: The government could possibly afford to "go out of the banking business," as is demanded by eastern orators, if the bankers would observe the advice so often given that they go out of the government business. Surely if we must make concessions, they must be mutual. Turn about is only fair play.

In the war of the rebellion the Twenty-third Ohio regiment included among its officers Rutherford B. Hayes, W. S. Rosecrans and Stanley Matthews. William McKinley began his military career as a private in the same regiment.

William J. Bryan: They call that man a statesman whose ear is tuned to catch the slightest pulsation of a pocketbook, and denounce as a demagogue any one who dares to listen to the heart-beats of humanity.

The roadbed of the Southern Pacific Co. in Douglas county was assessed at only $3216 per mile this year. In Jackson county at $10,000.

Culture and Use of Chicory.

The chicory plant belongs to the same family, botanically, as the dandelion, lettuce, salsify and other well-known plants. It is a native of western Europe, but is common in this country, growing wild in the eastern states. It is a perennial plant, bearing seed the second year, like a turnip. Chicory began to be used as a substitute for coffee in Europe nearly one hundred years ago. It has steadily grown in use, till it is now as generally used by the French and Dutch as either tea or coffee. In the last forty years the increased use of chicory in France is especially noteworthy. The cultivation of chicory is similar to that of beets, parsnips, carrots or other garden crops. It is stated by Dutch growers that a clayey soil produces the heartiest and best chicory, but in Nebraska, where chicory is grown on a considerable scale, sandy loam lands have been selected. Perhaps the main point of advantage in growing this crop in sandy soil here is due to the large amount of lime in our yellow marl subsoil, the subsoil furnishing the lime found by experience to be important in giving quality to the chicory root. The seed, which is rather difficult to procure in large quantity, is small, and should not be sown until the soil is warm and will give quick germination. It is given exactly the same treatment given carrots success in its cultivation may be depended upon. The chicory root resembles the parsnip. It is long and tapering, and white in color. At the end of the growing season the roots are dug, topped, washed and dried in a kiln or dryhouse. The dried roots are sliced or cut up into small pieces and browned in a roaster to the condition of roasted coffee, when it is ready for grinding and use as a beverage in place of coffee.

In field culture in Nebraska, an average crop of chicory is worth $75 per acre. In some instances the value of the crop has reached $125 per acre. It is estimated that an average crop can be grown and marketed with eight days' labor for man and team per acre. This is the largest amount of labor allowed in estimates furnished us by Secretary Hazlet, of the German Chicory Company, O'Neal, Neb. We apprehend at least a half more labor expended per acre would give good returns. It is said by experts that chicory as a beverage does not possess the aroma or exciting qualities of coffee, but when drunk with milk makes a very palatable beverage. It cannot be said to have any injurious effects, while many advocate its use as a positive remedy for dyspepsia and indigestion.—Oregon Agriculturist.

76 YEARS OLD AND VIGOROUS

A Veteran of the Late War Adds One More Name to the List of Striking Cures by Pink Pills in Michigan.

AN OLD-FASHIONED, LARGE FAMILY OF THIRTEEN CHILDREN.

From the Couriers-Herald, Michigan, Mich.

A few years ago a wave of La Grippe swept over the land and brought thousands of victims to the grave. I then contracted the fatal fever and suffered, broken in health and spirit. Terrible as was the disease, its after-effects were yet more appalling, as it left behind the weakness of the constitution and left thousands shattered wrecks of their former selves. A few days ago a Couriers-Herald representative, while at the thriving little town of Akron, Mich., met John L. Smith, a veteran of the industrial army, on whose aged head the disease had fallen, and he heard him tell how he had suffered and what had given him relief.

"We can do no better than quote his own words, which are as follows: 'About seven years ago I was taken down with the grip, and it fastened on me very hard. For about half the winter I was so bad I could not leave the house. I was chilly all the time, and could not get warm. I felt as if I was frozen solid, and could only breathe with great difficulty. This condition alternated with sweating spells of great violence. There was an almost continuous pain, and it would shoot from one part of my body to another, with great suddenness, and cause me intense suffering. Sometimes it was in my hips, then in my legs, and again it would go to my head and pain me in the eyes. It was so intense that it even affected my sight. I called in medical assistance, but this was fruitless, as I received no benefit from physicians. From then on I tried various preparations that were recommended to me, but they did me no good. My condition was as bad and painful as it was before I tried them. Finally, I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I read with much interest of the wonderful cures that had effected in so many cases. I had tried so many proprietary preparations that I had no faith in it, but tried it, as I had so many other things, to see if they were of any use. One day when I was feeling as bad as usual, I got a box of Pink Pills, and shortly before going to bed I took one. I cannot tell you what a surprised man I was next morning. Then I put on my shoes with ease, a thing that I had not done for many years. A little while after this I was so well that I drove to Bay City, Michigan, a distance of twenty-three miles, and was not at all tired when I got there. I am now seventy-six years of age and unusually active for a man of my years. I work on my forty-acre farm and experience no trouble from the work. I want to say a good word for Pink Pills, as they helped me where all else did not give me relief. My illness and cure a number of my neighbors have used them, and say that they have been greatly benefited. Mrs. Smith, the veteran's wife, who sat near by, confirmed the words that her husband had spoken and her testimony to the good that the pills had been to the family. The worthy couple are old and respected residents of Tuscola county, where they have lived for thirty years. Mr. Smith is a sturdy planter, and cleared up a 200-acre farm near Akron. He yet lives there, surrounded by twelve of his thirteen children. Thanks to Pink Pills, he has a prospect of many years of usefulness. Another sufferer with the malady was Neil Raymond, a prosperous and leading farmer, residing near Columbusville, Lapeer county, Michigan. See the representative of the Couriers-Herald, Mr. Raymond said: 'Three years ago last June, one night I suffered an attack of malaria, brought on, I think, by overwork and as an after effect of a gripe. After a week my condition was so bad that I summoned a physician and doctor for about six months, with but little relief. For some time I had seen in the papers reported cures of cases similar to mine effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and thought I would try them. I bought a box and continued their use with good results. I soon began to gain in strength and health and felt the good effect of the pills. 'They were the first things that had been able to give me relief. They have been of great benefit to me and I can strongly recommend them to anyone suffering from paralysis.' The case of another veteran has come to the attention of this paper and it is here given: When, in 1861, the tide of our Union hung trembling in the balance, and President Lincoln issued his famous call for volunteers to go to the front and fight for its preservation, an immediate response swept over the North like a tidal wave, and regiments of brave boys in blue quickly sprang up from every quarter. Unmindful of the privations of a soldier's life, and the horrors of war, they shouldered their muskets and marched to the front to battle for their country. Among the first to answer the call was E. G. Matthews, who enlisted as a member of Company D, 10th Ohio Infantry, and who fought bravely until the close of the great struggle. Mr. Matthews now lives with his wife and family of six children, and grandchildren on his farm, near Akron, Tuscola county, Michigan. While in the ranks he contracted inflammatory rheumatism and this developed into a trouble that remained with him for over thirty years. He finally became cured of it and a representative of the Couriers-Herald he spoke of his case as follows: 'During the late war I was a member of Company D, 10th Ohio Infantry, and performed all the duties incident to a soldier's life from 1862 to 1865. While at the front owing to the privations of our soldier life, I contracted inflammatory rheumatism, and this finally developed into a permanent form of rheumatism, that has always troubled me since that time. When I was mustered out in 1865 I went back to Ohio to the place where I enlisted and was laid up there in bed for 12 weeks. I then got out for a short time and was again laid up for a long spell. Since then I have been a victim of these attacks and they have laid me up for much of the time. My case was also complicated by severe kidney troubles and the matter was complicated by the most medical skill. I have tried many physicians and also proprietary articles of all kinds that were advertised in the papers, but they did me no good. In my search for health I spent hundreds of dollars, but it seemed to be all in vain, and nothing seemed to reach my trouble and give me relief. About a year ago a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had no faith in them, I was compelled to take them. After I had begun on the third box a great change in my condition began to appear, and my trouble for over thirty years' standing began to be cured. I took four boxes more and then felt so well that I discontinued their use. 'I am now able to work on my farm and have no fear of the old trouble coming back as long as I can get a box of Pink Pills. My case was a particularly deep one, and of long standing, and so I want to let others who are afflicted as I was, know the benefit that these Pink Pills for Pale People have been to me.' Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are now given to the public as a building food builder and nerve restorer, curing forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or other causes. The pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, if they are never sent in bulk, by the 100, by addressing Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Schenectady, N. Y.
